

Guard deployed to state capitol

Gov. Kate Brown activated the Oregon National Guard on Wednesday to assist with potential civil unrest at the state capitol. The action came at the request of Oregon State Police.

President Trump on Wednesday became the first president in U.S. history to be impeached twice after last week's storm on the U.S. Capitol.

The House of Representatives passed an article charging Trump with "incitement of insurrection" in the riot that led to six deaths.

The impeachment requires a Senate conviction to remove him from office, which is unlikely to happen before Joe Biden is sworn into office.

"With the Oregon National Guard supplementing OSP ranks, we will be ready to ensure peaceful events and handle emergency situations," OSP Capt. Timothy Fox said.

The guard will be deployed as necessary and deployment locations will not be made public. OSP and the ONG routinely work and train together in response to Oregon's challenges, including civil unrest, human remain recovery in the recent wild-fire response and safeguarding communities in times of crisis.

Obituaries

MERLE THORNTON Warrenton

Merle Edward Thornton, 93, passed away Jan. 3 in Preston, Idaho.

He was born Sept. 22, 1927, to Oral and Elsie Thornton in Dallas, Ore. He spent many years in Salem and Astoria.

Thornton served in the U.S. Navy in the Philippines during World War II. After leaving the service, he married Viola Pedersen, and they were married for 66 years. She died in 2013.

He worked as an automotive parts manager and loved to fish on the Columbia River and play cards. He was never idle, always finding something to tinker with, family members say.

Thornton is survived by his children, Sue Adams of Soda Springs, Idaho, and Steve Thornton of Warrenton; four grandchildren, Andrea Jewkes of Fort Collins, Colo.; Laird Adams of Spokane Valley, Wash.; Brad Adams of Nampa, Idaho; and Paige Byram of Soda Springs; and 12 great-grandchildren.

Services will be held at a later date.

DANNIE NICHOLS Svensen

Jerry Danial (Dannie) Nichols, 80, died Jan. 3 at home in Svensen after a short battle with COVID-19.

Nichols was born in Astoria on Oct. 24, 1940, to Joe and Bessie Nichols. He attended school in Hammond until the family moved to Gearhart. He graduated from Seaside High School in 1958.

After graduation, Nichols joined the Army and served in Missouri and Spokane for three years.

Nichols was a commercial fisherman and crabber for many years and, in 1996, moved to Coquille to work for the Coquille Watershed Association helping to restore salmon habitat.

He retired in 2004 and moved to Arizona during the winter, spending summers in Coquille.

He and his wife, Lani, moved to Svensen in 2012.

Nichols married three times and had six children.

Nichols enjoyed watching the Seattle Mariners, Atlanta Braves and the Portland Trailblazers on TV. Each spring, if the weather was warm enough, he would go watch his nephew, James Nichols, coach the Knappa girls' softball team. He enjoyed hunting in Burns and loved telling hunting stories at deer camp.

Nichols is survived by his wife, Lani of Svensen; three daughters, Christine Zartman of Sherwood, Cindy Blackman of Salem, and Heather Nichols of Longview, Wash.; three sons, Jerry Painter of Seaside, Sean Nichols of Auburn, Wash., and Drew Nichols of Goldsboro, N.C.; a brother, Jimmy Nichols of Warrenton; three sisters, Gloria Regan of Davis, Calif., Jo Ellen Guilroy of Gresham, and Linda Scheuner of Bullhead City, Ariz.; nine grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

No services are planned due to the COVID-19 pandemic. In lieu of flowers, the family suggests donations be made in his memory to the Deep Sea Fishermen's Fund, P.O. Box 1062, Warrenton 97146; or Clatsop County Animal Assistance, P.O. Box 622, Warrenton 97146.

Letter to the editor

Thanks for holiday decorating

I wanted to reach out and thank the people who provided Warrenton with the many holiday decorations. Spruce Up Warrenton played a very important role in this project, as well as Pat O'Grady with his bucket truck, the help provided by Mike Moha, the help of the people from Pacific Power, and those people not named who came to help.

One of the Warrenton Commission's goals is livability, and this effort certainly works toward that goal. Thank you all.
