Manager: Mayor seeks city's top paid post

"While I appreciate the kind words, there is something to be said for someone coming in and being more objective than I can be," Engbretson said.

Balensifer, 32, holds a bachelor's degree in political science with an emphasis in conflict resolution from George Fox University. He has been marketing and government relations manager for JBT Lektro for 7 1/2 years.

"I love the city of Warrenton," Balensifer said. "As mayor, I'm a volunteer, which means weekends, evenings and whenever I can."

Serving as city manager would be a full-time job and he could have a greater impact, he said.

"I have a deep knowledge of the city, it's history, and a lot of the policies put into place. In some cases, I've written them," he said. "I already have a house here and I don't own anything else, so there's not a lot of conflicts" of interest.

Mayor Henry Balensifer presides over a meeting at City Hall.
