LATEST TELEGRAPHIC REPORT.

A Synopsis of Measures Introduced in the National Legislature.

SENATE.

Whitthorne was appointed a member of the following committees: On claims, on pensions and on the tenth census; also on naval affairs, during the temporary absence of Jones, of Florida.

The bill providing for extension of the Executive Mansion was passed. It appropriates $300,000 for the purpose.

A bill was passed to provide for alloiment of lands in severalty to Indians of the Round Valley reservation, California.

Stanford presented a memorial, accompanied by numerous affidavits, from the California & Oregon Land Company, protesting against forfeiture of the land grant of the Oregon Military Road Company. Memorialists state that the military wagon road was reasonably constructed; that most of the work exceeded the value of the land grant; that upon the faith of the Governor of Oregon, who certified that the road had been properly built, the California & Oregon Company bought the land grant for $125,000, and it has since paid $30,000 taxes on it. In regard to the memorial addressed to Congress, alleging that the eastern portion of the road is not constructed an praying that forfeiture of the grant be declared as to such portion, the Oregon & California Land Company say that the memorial of the Legislature recites facts untruthfully, and submits affidavits of a large number of prominent men of Oregon to disprove the statement that a portion of the road was not built.

A memorial from the Legislature of Iowa, remonstrating against cancellation of the bonded indebtedness of the Union Pacific Railway, was presented.

The Committee on Commerce will report favorably a new bill as a substitute for the original ship railway bill. Eads and such others as are associated with him are created an incorporation, with the title "Atlantic and Pacific Ship Railway Company," with power to issue capital stock and bonds not to exceed an aggregate of $100,000,000. The United States obligates itself to pay the company for a period of five years after the ship railway shall have been completed and tested, any sums of money required to make two-thirds of the revenues of said company amount annually to a sum of $3,500,000; provided, that the total liability of the Government shall in no case exceed the sum of $7,500,000. Vessels of 6,000 tons weight must be transported at a speed of not less than six miles per hour.

HOUSE.

Hermann presented a memorial from the Board of Trade of The Dalles, Oregon, urging continued attention of the Government to the completion of the canal and locks in the Columbia river.

The Dalles ship railway resolutions submitted to Congress recently by Hermann secure favorable comment from many sources. Chief Engineer Corthel, of the Eads Tehuantepec Railway, expresses approval of the plan and predicts the adoption of the system on the Columbia river.

The Committee on Pacific Railroads unanimously adopted a bill providing for extension of seventy years of the bonded debt of the Pacific Railroads to the Government. The bill makes provision for payment of the indebtedness after the following plan: To the present debt there is added interest that would accrue during the lifetime (eleven years) of the existing bonds, assuming that no further payments are made by the companies. The total is divided into 140 equal payments, which are represented by a series of bonds falling due semi-annually, the last bond maturing seventy years after issue. The average annual payments by the companies would reach nearly four mil lion dollars, which it is estimated would amount to a sum greater than the principal of the debt before the existing bonds would mature. In consideration of the extension thus granted, all earnings of the roads by Government transportation on any road owned, leased or operated by the company shall be applied to payment of current maturing installments, and no money shall be paid by the Government for transportation or service of any kind over aided or unaided roads until installments maturing shall be fully paid.

Hermann has secured the insertion in the river and harbor bill of a clause providing for the survey of Link river, Oregon, which connects upper and lower Klamath lakes.

The Committee on Territories ordered an adverse report on the Senate bill to admit the southern half of Dakota.

Bill passed, repealing the law which allows Clerks of the United States Courts in California, Oregon and Nevada double fees.

Bill passed, dividing the State of California into two judicial districts.

The following bills and resolutions were introduced and referred:

By Felton—To grant certain seal rocks to the city and county of San Francisco.

By Springer—For the admission of the whole of Dakota into the Union of States.

By Springer—To establish a Department of Labor and create a board for arbitration of controversies between labor and capital.

By Wilkins—A preamble and resolution, reciting that the proposition to put wool on the free list, and the doubt concerning the action of the House, are causing uneasiness and serious loss to wool growers without contributing any benefit to the people, and declaring that it is the sense of the House that the wool tariff schedule, so far as it relates to manufactured wools, should not be reduced.

By Grosvenor—A resolution reciting that by the action of Congress in reducing the tariff on wool that industry has been rendered unremunerative, and declaring it to be the sense of the House that the tariff of 1867 should be restored.

By O'Neill—A resolution sympathizing with Gladstone in his efforts to secure a free Parliament for Ireland.

PRESIDENTIAL SUCCESSION.

The Law Recently Passed by Congress and Approved by the President.

One of the most important laws passed during the present generation has lately received the approval of the President. Although it is only a law, which can be repealed by Congress at any time, it is in effect a constitutional change—not in the sense of making an amendment of the Constitution, but in that of changing the constitution of the Government.

It is provided in the Constitution that "the Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation or inability, both of the President and Vice President, declaring what officer shall then act as President."

Under this clause Congress passed an act in 1792, declaring that in the event so stated "the President of the Senate, or if there is none, then the Speaker of the House of Representatives, for the time being, shall act as President until the disability is removed, or a President elected."

There is a curious bit of history connected with this law. It was the general opinion, even when the act was passed, that the Secretary of State rather than the President of the Senate pro tempore ought to succeed to the Presidency; but so bitter was the opposition of Federalists to Mr. Jefferson, who was then Secretary of State, that the succession was devolved upon the presiding officers of the two branches of Congress. The law so passed remained in force ninety-four years. It was many times attacked during that period on various grounds, but it is only lately that the dangers of the system excited alarm. Until 1881 there was always a President pro tempore of the Senate, because it was the custom of the Vice President to leave the chair before the close of the session, in order that the Senate might choose one.

But once every two years, from the close of one Congress on the 4th of March until the meeting of the next Congress in the following December, there was no Speaker of the House of Representatives. Twice in the last five years there has been no President pro tempore of the Senate, in each case because the Vice President, contrary to precedent, continued to preside over the Senate until the day of final adjournment. Had President Arthur died after the death of President Garfield, before Congress met in December, 1881, or had President Cleveland died after the death of Vice President Hendricks, last autumn, there would have been no person designated by the Constitution or the law to act as President. It need hardly be said that a great many times it would have happened under the old law that a President of different politics might have succeeded the elected President. Under that law, Senator Sherman would now become President in the event of the death of Mr. Cleveland.

At last the many perils and inconveniences of the ancient statute have led Congress to pass what is known as the Hoar Presidential Succession bill. The principle of the new law is to make the several members of the Cabinet, beginning with the Secretary of State, followed by the Secretary of the Treasury, and so on in order through the list, President in case of the inability to act, from any cause, of both the President and Vice-President. It is also provided that the Cabinet officer succeeding in such a case shall fill out the elected President's full term. Under the old law there would have been a new election unless the term was nearly completed.—Youth's Companion.

McBRIBE'S OFFER.

A Depraved Dakota Candidate His Plans and Promises.

Shortly before a Dakota election a voter went to a candidate for the Legislature and said:

"Now see here, McBribe, if you are elected, are you going up there and sell your vote for a paltry sum?"

"You can just bet I'm not going to do any such thing."

"You won't sell out unless you get a good fair price?"

"No, sir."

"You wont go and jump at the first offer, when by holding off a little you can tap the parties twice as heavy?"

"Never."

"What will be the lowest figure you can be bought at?"

"Well, I judge my vote ought to be worth fifty dollars on the most unimportant measures."

"As much as that surely. Of course on matters of importance it would range higher, I take it?"

"Certainly, there will be no limit. I shall aim to continually give the market a rising tendency."

"Good. Now in the case of a railroad company you would show your statesmanship, I suppose?"

"Never do any thing for a grasping railroad corporation for less than a thousand dollars and passes for all my friends."

"That's the talk. If you thought you could strike them for five thousand dollars do you think you could rise to the occasion?"

"I am certain I could."

"Do you propose to give your support to any measure without the spot cash?"

"Only to motions to adjourn."

"Correct. Now another point and an important one. In case you think you can get a normal school, or an insane asylum, or a hospital for the lame, the halt and the blind located here what are you going to do for us?"

"My friend, I will pledge you to put half I have taken in up to that time where it will do the most good."

"Give us your hand on that, you're my man! I believe we couldn't do better than to elect you. I just saw Cashdown, your rival, and he made full as good pledges about disposing of his vote but wouldn't agree to come down for the good of the town—said he wanted to save all he made to use in getting elected again. It's all right to look out for the future but we need some public improvements. I think you will pull through all right."—Rebellious (D. T.) Bell.

—"Don't you like this room?" asked the principal of the new teacher. "Oh, yes, I like the room well enough," replied the miss, who had a large class of boys, "but I find it very sonny."—N. Y. Ledger.

—"You have never been abroad, I believe, Miss Mildew?" "Not yet; but when papa saw my new Spitz dog this morning he said he should probably send me to Paris in the Spring."—Philadelphia Press.

—While visiting the Louvre, in Paris, a lady showed the Venus of Milo to her little daughter. "But tell me, mamma," asked the child, "what did they cut her arms off for?" "Because she was always sucking her thumb." Her daughter asked no more.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

—There are two clergymen in Congress, Messrs. Owen, of Indiana, and Anderson, of Kansas.

—Bibb, Gagg, Dodd and Rigg are monosyllabic names of four lawyers in Gage County, Nebraska.

—A Southern critic likens a certain literary lady's sonnets to "the silvery texture of a cobweb endowed with the durability of a pearl."

—George Parsons Lathrop says John Boyle O'Reilly was born physically in Ireland, intellectually in Australia, and poetically in Boston.

—John I. Blair, of New Jersey, is one of the most powerful railroad magnates in the land. He is the sole owner of 1,500 miles of road, and an officer in companies controling 10,000 miles.—N. Y. Herald.

—When Congressman Reed, of Maine—now one of the leaders in Congress—lived in California he was described as a "lubberly, red-headed school-teacher from Maine."—Chicago Journal.

—Mr. Murfree, the father of Charles Egbert Craddock, the novelist, is a tall patriarchal Tennesseean, who is said to betray by his looks the pride he feels in his daughter's success. Mrs. Murfree is a pleasant little woman, with a quiet voice and elderly appearance.

—Colonel Thomas B. Davis, of Piedmont, W. Va., recently declined to attend a matrimonial matinee in Baltimore because he "had no dress suit;" but, despite his reprehensible poverty in this regard, he inclosed his check for $5,000, which doubtless suited the bride.

—Leopold, of Belgium, is one of the most democratic of Kings. He saunters about Brussels in the most leisurely way, and is as familiar a figure on the Rue Royale as President Grant used to be on Pennsylvania avenue. He is fully six feet tall, and has an angular form and an awkward manner.

—Colonel E. Z. Judson, "Ned Buntline," is described as an elderly man, short of stature and badly crippled by wounds received during the war. He says that he is paid from $2,000 to $2,500 for his stories, and that under pressure he has produced six hundred pages of foolscap manuscript in six days.

—Schaefer, the billiardist, when playing wears full evening dress. He has a fine diamond stud in his shirt. Vignaux also wears a full dress suit. His diamond stud is worn in his shirt collar. Schaefer carries his cues in a green sack and a piece of chalk in one of his vest pockets. Vignaux carries a jointed cue in a leather case.—N. Y. Mail.

—General Schenck has settled down in his old age to the practice of law in the city of Washington. It is said that he is obliged to return to his profession in order to make a living. This is a sad lesson for the ambitious young men of this country who believe that a complete mastery of the principles of draw poker is all that is necessary to command the wealth of the world.—Chicago Times.

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

—Of the eight Congregational pastors in Hartford, Conn., seven are sons of ministers.

—A school-house built of cobble-stones is one of the curiosities of Antelope Valley, in Tehama County, Cal.

—The Government of Austria has given the American Board the right to buy or build halls for Bible lectures anywhere in Bohemia. This is an important concession, and shows the growing favor of the authorities toward evangelical work.—Christian Union.

—"The Guild of Kindness" is the name of an institution belonging to the Methodist New Connection, Great Britain. It has for its object the cultivation and development of the spirit of kindness among the brethren and sisters of the denomination primarily and among all Christians generally.

—In the State of Illinois, fifty-one years ago, there were 200 Baptist churches, 2,500 communicants; now there are 955 churches, 76,040 communicants and 685 pastors. Last year there were fifty-two missionaries doing service within the precincts of the State, under the auspices of the State Mission Board.—Chicago Mail.

—In connection with the rumored project to establish a German university in Schenectady, N. Y., which the German Government will be asked to endow with the modest sum of 1,000,000 marks, the Berlin Tagliche Rundschau pertinently asks: "Should Germany not take a much greater interest in having the German-Americans come over to finish their studies at our own universities?"

—Mr. F. W. Malden, one of the busiest and wealthiest contractors and builders in Baltimore, has become an evangelist, leasing a centrally located place of amusement for his own use on Sundays, and holding revival meetings Sunday afternoon and evenings. He pays all the expenses, takes up the collections, and says the meetings are for talk and prayer, but not for preaching.—Baltimore American.

—When Canon Farrar got back to old St. Margaret's under the shadow of Westminister Abbey, he took part in a queer ceremony. After the sermon a basket was brought out containing nineteen loaves of bread and nineteen old people received a loaf and a six-pence each. The loaves were done up in new handkerchiefs. The quaint custom has been carried on at St. Margaret's for more than three hundred years.

—The celebration of the fifth centenary of the University of Heidelberg next August will be a gigantic affair, over twenty thousand old students being expected, as well as many other guests, deputations, etc. The preparations have already commenced. Victor von Scheffel, himself an old student of Heidelberg, and the celebrated author of many songs, has written a jubilee hymn, for which Vincent Lachner has composed music.

—The Atlanta Constitution records a specimen of Confederate wit during the war. A soldier was caught in a persimmon tree by General Longstreet. When sternly asked by his commander what he was doing there the veteran at once disarmed wrath by saying: "I'm eatin' some green persimmons to draw my stomach up so it'll fit its rations."

—In shipping butter the style of package has a great deal to do with the price obtained by the seller.

Has M. Pasteur discovered a cure for hydrophobia? Why should he not? Greater discoveries have been made. For instance, Red Star Cough Cure contains no narcotics, is purely vegetable and yet quickly cures the worst throat or lung trouble. Only 25 cents.

General Rufus Ingalls, Quarter-Master-General U. S. Army, says: "St. Jacobs Oil is the best pain-cure we ever used."

ESPECIALLY THOUGHTFUL PEOPLE.

In common with other thoughtful people, clergymen look with interest upon any method of relieving suffering. But they are very cautious about giving their names as witnesses to the value of any new candidate for favor in the healing art. They see many people and hear discussions of the merits and demerits of everything asking attention. The testing thus afforded secures them from making the mistake of hasty judgements, and gives to their utterances a value which those of few others can have. When so many therefore cheerfully make statements like the following the seeker after health has reason to take courage:

Rev. Edward J. Fisher, Pastor of a Presbyterian Church, Bristol, Morgan County, Ohio, writes: "A Treatment cured me of a severe attack of pneumonia, and I used only two-thirds. The rest cured a neighbor of pneumonia in its last stages."

Rev. Anthony Atwood, a widely-known superannuated Methodist Clergyman, of the Philadelphia Conference, at the age of eighty-four, writes:—"I recommend Compound Oxygen to all who suffer from throat diseases."

Rev. J. H. Chandler, Missionary thirty-eight years to Siam, representing the Baptist Church of America, now returned, and living at Camden, New Jersey, writes:—"To all diseased, worn-down, disheartened fellow-sufferers, of every land and tongue, I beg to say there is hope for you in this remedy. Try it; be healed and live."

Rev. A. W. Moore, Editor of the Centenary, Darlington, S. C., says:—"I feel more life—more vigor—than I have had for years. I believe Compound Oxygen a blessed providential discovery."

Rev. Cyrus Hamlin, D. D., LL. D., President of Middlebury College, Vermont, writes:—"I derived so much benefit from your Compound Oxygen Treatment, last year, that I will ask you to send me the same supply for home treatment, for which I inclose the price. By my advice others have tried it, and never without benefit."

Rev. A. A. Johnson, A. M., formerly Financial Agent, and now President of Wesleyan College, Fort Worth, Texas, wrote February 2d, 1885:

"DRS. STARKEY & PALEN:—From 1878 to June, 1883, I was troubled more or less with catarrh. During those years I tried several remedies, but from them I received no permanent relief. In the Winter and Spring of 1883, I grew a great deal worse, and suffered greatly with sore throat, hoarseness, and catarrhal fever. At times I could not speak publicly, because of hoarseness and coughing. Alarmed at my condition, I sought a remedy, and was led to try the Compound Oxygen cure. It worked like magic. Within two weeks my hoarseness and sore throat were gone, and my general health began to improve at once. At the end of three months, when I had finished the first Treatment, the catarrh was gone. I regard the Compound Oxygen Treatment as a wonderful discovery of science and a blessing to suffering humanity." Nov. 2, 1885, Mr. Johnson writes:—"You are at liberty to use anything I have written you in favor of Compound Oxygen. I regard it as a great remedy."

Rev. I. S. Cole of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Manitowaning, Algoma, Ontario, Canada, writes:—"I deem it a high privilege to be able to assist in any way in making known so wonderful a discovery as your Compound Oxygen. I have found it of great benefit in my own family, and know of good results in the families of acquaintance."

Curiosity as to Compound Oxygen may be fully gratified by any one who will take the trouble to write a postal card or letter of request to Drs. STARKEY & PALEN, at 1529 Arch St., Philadelphia. All their literature, or any part of it, will be sent, postpaid, freely, to any address, on application.

ONLY HALF ALIVE.

There are hosts of men and women who, to coin a phrase, are only half alive. That is to say, they have seldom if ever any appetite, are nervous, weak, fidgetty and troubled by numberless small pains and aches. In the presence of vigorous, exuberant vitality they seem mere pigmies. Such persons are usually fond of frequently dosing themselves, swallowing in the course of the year enough drugs to stock any apothecary's shop of average dimensions. This, of course, defeats instead of furthering the end in view, viz., the recovery of health and vigor. Were they to seek it from an unfailing source of vitality, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, how different would be their case. Then vigor would return to their debilitated frames, the glow of health to their wan cheeks, their trembling, uncertain gait would grow firm and elastic, appetite, that grandest of all sauces, would give a relish for the daily food, were it ever so coarse, and refreshing sleep would crown the tasks of the day.

Los Angeles, Cal., is to have a public park of 350 acres.

A CURE OF PNEUMONIA.

Mr. D. H. Barnaby, of Owego, N. Y., says that his daughter was taken with a violent cold which terminated with Pneumonia, and all the best physicians gave the case up and said she could live but a few hours at most. She was in this condition when a friend recommended DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, and advised her to try it. She accepted it as a last resort, and was surprised to find that it produced a marked change for the better, and by persevering a permanent cure was effected.
