Cure For Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, after getting warm, is a common attendant. Blood, Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumor, allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Address, The Dr. Bosanko Medicine Co., Piqua, O. Sold by W. F. Kremer, Grants Pass.

We took a trip over on Applegate this week and were surprised at the rank crops of grain and vegetables to be seen on every hand. There will be large crops of everything, including peaches and other kinds of fruit.

We would answer our correspondent's query in last issue and say that we believe the interstate law effects express companies as it does railroads and to the same extent.

The attention of the stockmen of Jackson and Josephine counties is called to the new ad. of Dr. F. W. Van Dyke in this issue. There is no finer blooded horse in this state than Adrian, No. 6053 of which the doctor is the lucky owner.

Every farmer should see that the roads around his place be made good. It adds no little to the appearance and value of his home and induces travel through the country which leads directly to the development of its latent resources.

John Bolt of the firm of Kabbil & Bolt of Applegate, informed us a few days ago that he is closing out business at that place. Mr. B. is a live, energetic, and one of the most open-handed men in Jackson county. That vicinity will miss him.

Peck's Bad Boy will positively appear here Saturday evening, May 14th. Should the train by any means be delayed the company will come by wagon, so there will be no disappointment. Our California exchanges speak in favorable terms of this troupe.

James W. Wimer has our thanks for a dozen fine german carp from his pond. He has thousands of them ranging in size up to 15 lbs. The eating qualities of those brought us were superior to the far famed trout. They are more bony but the meat is richer.

A private letter dated at Oregon City the second instant would give us the idea that trouble with the weather King this spring exists elsewhere than here in Southern Oregon. He says "this has been the worst season I have ever seen for rain. Scarcely two dry days at once."

Favorable news have been received concerning the "gilt edge" quartz claim on the hill in front of town. It has assayed about $18 per ton which if it holds out at this price near that figure makes it very valuable property. Its convenience to town is a matter of much importance and it could be worked for $1.50 a ton easily.

Strangers who come to the country should examine the local papers and patronize the business houses whose ads appear therein. It is a safe conclusion that the business men who advertise are the widest awake ones of the town. They do not break crackers and nails in two but deal in an open-handed manner with their customers.

The lecture of Archbishop Gross delivered at music hall Wednesday night was a literary treat for those present. The speaker has a dramatic manner of delivering that adds much to the effect of his learned discourse. He is undoubtedly a fine scholar; a fluent and forcible speaker. His enunciation of Catholic doctrines were clear and pointed whilst his description of the crucifixion of Christ, and a mother's love was something awe inspiring yet true as the day is long.

We have had two cold frosty nights (Tuesday and Wednesday), the thermometer going down to about 30 degrees which is almost as cold as any time during the last winter. We do not think the freeze has been hard enough to kill peaches as they are now quite large, but it has killed beans, corn, potatoes and other tender plants. Verily this is a very late and a most changeable spring almost indicating an entire change of climate from what we have a right to expect in Southern Oregon.

The governor has made the following appointments for the new national guard: Brigadier-General, J. M. Siglin, Coos county; adjutant general, with rank of colonel, J. C. The appointments date from May 30.

Fine weather. Everything lively here. Miners are clearing up. Farmers have all got their crops planted.

Frost has not hurt the fruit in this part of the valley. Miss Alice Mathews had to resign her school at this place on account of the sickness of her mother.

There was an entertainment here Tuesday night with a large crowd. Opening piece by Miss Alice Mathews, "Is He Waiting," was sung beautifully and the young lady deserves much praise. She also spoke a piece entitled "God Save Our King" which was rendered with skill and care.

Mrs. Barlow entertained a large crowd at her residence Wednesday evening. Every one enjoyed themselves with a good supper and fine music.

The last legislature made a bad mistake in not specifying in the proposed amendment to the constitution for raising the salaries of the state officers, in not placing the amounts to be paid in the amendment. The people are not prepared to vote an amendment upon the constitution which shall each session of the legislature authorize that body to change by either raising or lowering the salaries of the state officers. Some innocent state official might incur the displeasure of the legislature, and that body reduce his salary to a few dollars. Or, on the other hand, it might be that the state officials combine and secure a high rate of salary. The amendment should have specified the amount to be paid each officer. As it is, while we recognize the fact that the salaries are entirely too low for all our state officers, we think the amendment should not be passed. There are always plenty of patriots ready to serve the people in the various positions even at the present low salary.—[World.]

The Yreka Journal says: "Tunnel" work was started this week on south side of Siskiyou mountain, and I learn that contractors will work it by hand drilling for some time, or until the north end is cleaned out, so as to commence operations at both ends with machinery at same time. The contractors have performed considerable grading outside of the two tunnels. About half a mile is completed from south end, and about two miles between the two tunnels. A large force of Chinamen has been shipped from Portland to work in the tunnels and on the grade. White men will be hired to run the drills and oversee the grading and tunneling, the entire line will be completed to Ashland in about four or five months.

There is some extensive culvert work ahead on the south side of Siskiyou mountain, and Col. Scobie is making preparations, as one of his camps moved ahead to-day to quarry and cut suitable stone for the purpose.

A remarkable wedding occurred at Peoria, Ill. on the 20th ultimo. The bride's name was Miss Bovince Alferetta Danberger and that of the groom, Arbutus B. Dicks. Among those presenting valuable gifts were Miss Annie Skeeyon, Miss Florence Ironsperker, F. L. Marmaduke, J. A. Ledbetter, Jake Bear, Miss Kittie Cannon, Miss Ella Clingman and Tene Cannon. Many valuables were given among which was an organ, then along came David Crews with a bale of barbed wire. It all goes for fillin'.

The awful coal mine explosion at Nanaimo on the morning of the 3d instant, was shocking in the extreme. Over 40 widows and 130 fatherless children are one of the results of it. The mine exploded and then immediately took fire. One hundred and seventy-six persons lost their lives from after-damps in the chambers. The men were 700 feet under ground. Says an account: "Towards midnight the crew of people who had been hovering around the shaft retired, completely fatigued. Nature had at last spoken. A few, however, who had loved ones in the mine, took no sleep last night, and all wore haggard looks this morning. "The breadwinners of these people are lost beyond redemption, and amid the sobs of women, the wailings of children and the grief of relatives and friends whose hearts are bowed down with grief, it is confidently anticipated that the needed relief will be forthcoming."

The explosion caused many caves in the mine which added much to prevent the men from gaining air courses and escape. The account further adds: "They evidently tried to get into the shaft, but found it was caved in and had to retrace their steps to the air course. Just as they had come into the air course the after-damp struck them and all had succumbed. The Davy brothers were found kneeling down, with their arms around each other. They had pulled their coats over their heads to shield themselves. There were no signs of burning. They simply had been killed by the after-damp. The fire had not gone into the air course. All had evidently died some time after the explosion."

The great iron bridge across Klamath river, on California and Oregon Railroad is completed, and passenger trains run to Henley now.—[Special.]

From Murphy.

Snowing this morning. Is there a citizen of Josephine who ever saw snow fall in this valley on the 10th of May? I think not. What is the matter with the weather combination, anyway? I wonder if those gardeners who have melons &c. up, would not give employment to a few old chickless hens. By granting them the privilege of hovering over those poor specimens of vegetation would not only remunerate the gardener but would afford the hens great pleasure in knowing that in their old days they had been able to supply a long felt want.

SETTLED IN OREGON. An Eastern Capitalist Makes Choice of Southern Oregon for a Home.

At the rooms of the state board of immigration to-day a reporter of The Telegram met and had a chat with Mr. J. C. Boyd, of Grants Pass Southern Oregon. Mr. Boyd, who is a capitalist of some considerable means, after owning and operating a fancy stock farm in Kentucky, doing business in New York and Philadelphia and jaunting through Europe at different times, came to this coast with his family about the first of the year in search of a genial climate and a wide awake town for the investment of money and business talent. He says, "I traveled about the state under the auspices of the state board of immigration and after making a full and thorough investigation of the east, west and southern portions, made a choice of Grants Pass, Josephine county. The longer I stay there and the closer I examine into the advantages of the place, and the country, the more fully am I convinced of the wisdom of my choice. I have gone over a good deal of the region tributary to Grants Pass, and find it much more extensive as a farming and fruit region than is generally believed."

"The valleys and the low foothill lands, all of which can be made productive, either for grain or fruit, the latter especially, extend in almost every direction from the county seat, and will provide homes for thousands of people who are looking for a genial climate and good soil. In the southwestern portion of this county there are still some good convenient lands open for settlement, timbered and brush land, though comparatively easy to clear up and get into cultivation. While some of the old settlers hold their improved land at what I consider high rates, still good farms, small and large, can be had at a moderate price."

"When I arrived at San Diego, on my way out here, I found lands in the immediate vicinity of that place selling for from $300 to $500 an acre. I have purchased land at Grants Pass for one-twentieth of that sum, that, all things considered, I would not exchange even up. Grants Pass is a bright, thrifty place, has a population made up chiefly of people recently from the east or the larger towns in this state; a people alive to the developments of all the best interests of their city and the surrounding country. Its population is replete with necessities almost daily. Since the incorporation and the passage of the bill making it possible to bring the waters of Rogue river into town for domestic and manufacturing purposes, the city has brightened up wonderfully."

"I have purchased a home site and have men at work now getting it ready for a residence, which I shall put up at once and consider it my future home. I like the climate, my family like it; we have good soil, good water, plenty of fruit, and health. I like it well enough to try and induce my friends to join me. Some of them will do so this year."

Trans-continental Trip Shortened. To say that the people of this state are pleased with the prospect of having the trans-continental trip shortened, from six days to four days and four hours, as it is proposed to be if the "Asiatic limited express" is inaugurated, is putting the case mildly. The public in general reason that if the limited run is made weekly, or fortnightly, as the case may be, why can it not be made every day? Even if the time were lessened only one day it would be a decided gain for most people who are desirous of reaching their destination as soon as possible. Commenting on this subject the Chronicle says: "Now if it is demonstrated that the overland journey can be made on this short schedule the people of this coast will have a right to insist that a reduction in time shall be made for their benefit, as well as for the comparatively few passengers going to Japan and China. At any rate, if the new time table is once established it will result in diminishing the time by regular trips, as otherwise the Asiatic limited will carry a greater part of passengers bound for California, and those bound east as well. Most people prefer to wait a week for the sake of avoiding an extra day or two on the road, and the natural result will be that fast trains will be packed full and slow trains will go empty. Trains will have to run daily as at present." If mail contracts and the like will compel running of trains every day, and so unless the time is shortened on day trips there will be one enormously heavy train each week and six very light ones.
