for chains of purely circum stancial cylifence have been so complete as that which fastened the guilt of James J. Hawin's murder upon George The crime was committed Matthews. unty, Md., in the first in Char st last, and Matthews' week of . November 23 and ended trial began viction four days later, with h! ur day. He then confessed Thaukar and is now under sentence tha munde of death

As a sound to Matthews' trial came Irwin, the murdered that of man's wife, which began Monday, January 18, and ended in acquittal owing to the stubborn refusal of Matthews to testify in the case. In his own confession last November Matthews fully im plicated Mrs. Irwin as his accompliand Mrs. Irwin's sister as one of the chief instigators of the crime. When Mrs. Irwin was brought to trial Matthews flatly refused to give the testi mony, without which it was impossible to convict. The counsel for the prosecution tries every legal device they knew to introduce Matthews' previous confession, but in this they were defeated at every point by the alertnesss of Mrs. Irwin's counsel. The murder itself was a peculiarly brutal one. Irwin with his wife and child lived at the little fishing village called Allen's Fresh, Charles county, Matthews, a fisherman, lived a few miles away. Letters intercepted by Irwin and others, found in the house after his death, implicated Mrs. Irwin and Matthews in guilty relations and testimony showed that Irwin had knowledge of the fact and was much dised by it. His little child testified that there was domestic trouble on the night of the murder and that Irwin was shedding tears before he went to ted.

In the dead of that night Mrs. Irwin went to a neighbor's and said that her husband was dead. She said that she was sleeping on the bed with him and was next to the wall. She was away ened by a loud noise and when she put her hand upon her husband's head she found the head torn and bleeding. She then fled for help. That was her story and it was found to be true enough so far as the murder was ocncerned. The neighbors found Irwin's head half blown off by a gun shot and what was left of it hacked as with an ax or hatchet. enairs.

When suspicion first fastened upon Matthews he gave so clear and circumstantial an account of his movements luring the 24 hours, which included the time of the murder, that belief in his guilt was shaken. But one small circumstance after another was brought to light, until finally the chain was made complete by the clew afforded by the paper gun-wad found in the dead head. When spread out and cleaned it was found to be a scrap of a newspaper with the printed words nearly all legible. In Matthews' pocket was found a scrap of paper which fitted the aside by those belonging to a noble tear on the side of the gun-wad scrap, lady's Case Where All the Justices of the Su preme Court Changed Their Minds. It was a matter of some surprise that Justice Shiras, of the United States w preme court, should have changed his aind within a few weeks upon a matter of law, but it is not many months sind the whole court changed their mind on such a matter, and that in the course of a few days.

The case before the court, says the New York Sun, was one arising out of a customs decision at this port, and the sounsel arguing against the decision o the custom house was a New York law yer, then for the first time before the apreme court. The case turned main y upon the question whether an artic of importation should or should not be lassed as a sauce. The custom house had called it a sauce and taxed it ac sordingly. The government maintained his contention, and, of course, the New York lawyer sought to show that the article should not be classed as a sauce

When the supreme court came to con sult upon the case their unanimou on was favorable to the contentio of the government, and one of the jus ices was instructed to prepare a de ision in favor of the custom house The justice, on returning home, told his wife of the case, and indicated the ground of the decision; whereupon th lady told him in plain words that th ustices of the supreme court did not know what they were talking about. and had agreed upon an unjust deci sion. The lady was entirely clear that the article in dispute could not proper y be called a sauce, and openly ridi uled the cour The perplexed justice, instead of preparing the decision in accordance with the instructions of his brethren, did nothing in the matter, but at the next pportunity unfolded to the other jus ices his wife's view of the matter, and asked them to seek domestic counsel or the case and report at the next con sultation of the court. When that con-article involved in the case should be classed as a sauce, and accordingly the ustice originally charged with the task of preparing a decision in favor of the government was now instructed to prepare one in favor of the New York law yer's client. It thus happened that the lawyer won his first case before the supreme court because the wives of the justices knew more than the court it-
