ROGUE RIVER COURIER.

J. NUNAN, PUBLISHER

Issued Every Thursday

Official Paper of Josephine County, Oregon

THURSDAY, JUNE 24, 1897

$2 A YEAR, OR $1 50 IN ADVANCE.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

With this issue of the COURIER my connection with the paper ceases, as I have sold the plant and subscription list to Messrs. Price and & Voorhies, who will take charge on July 1st. Prof. Price is well known as a gentleman of education and rustle and Mr. Voorhies is a practical printer of more than ordinary ability and taste. With such a combination of brains and business I am confident the COURIER will march on to continued victory. I take this opportunity to thank the people of Grant's Pass and Southern Oregon for their long-continued and generous support and bespeak their good will for my worthy successors. J. NUNAN.

EUGENE DEBS' scheme to start a socialistic colony of 100,000 men now idle in Chicago, may take shape before the next winter comes on. He is looking favorably toward the new state of Washington, where there are still large tracts of still uncultivated land. The question of meeting the expense will be solved like that of the Salvation Army prospect under Gen. Booth, by an appeal to friends of socialism, who are expected to contribute funds, Mr. Debs thinks he can raise $25,000 a month through this means. If this big experiment is successful it will form a nucleus about which will gather other socialistic communities till Bellamy's idea of an ultimate peaceful revolution will be realized. The present trend of the times toward millionaires at one end of our social fabric and poverty-stricken families at the other, cannot last a great while longer, because the American people are not like those of India and will not submit to the conditions very long without a struggle, and if Mr. Debs, Mr. Bellamy or anybody else can give us a peaceful solution of our social problem while making us all free and equal according to our industry and ability, he will be looked upon as a second Washington by future generations. Mr. Debs however, has a hard task before him.

OREGON as a state will have a fair crop of wheat this year after all. The late dampness in the Willamette has reached over east of the mountains and a good yield is assured in the Bunchgrass region, except where grasshoppers have eaten the fields in Morrow county. As Josephine county buys flour and bacon largely on the outside, our people will be glad to know that we can get all we want to eat within the confines of our own state. We are cultivating more fields each year and when our farmers realize that they can raise good crops of wheat on our granite hillsides if they sow in the early fall, we will raise and grind what flour we need at home. When one looks about and sees so much money leaving Grant's Pass for flour, bran, millfeed, bacon and even baled hay, he wonders that times are as good in Josephine county as they are. Our silent but perpetual output of gold dust is all that saves us.

THE annexation of Hawaii amounts to a virtual purchase of the islands, as the United States assumes their debt, which amounts to some $4,000,000. Hawaii will become a territory of the United States and further importation of Chinese or Japanese laborers is to be prohibited. What is to be done with those already there is to be a matter which congress will pass upon when the annexation treaty is formally ratified by both governments. The horde of lepers in the Kanaka colony is of course included in the transfer. Our people need a coaling station in the Pacific and so Honolulu has just dropped into our hands as a matter of progress. The island sugar will of course reach San Francisco free of duty as heretofore which ought to enable us to get our sugar on the Pacific coast as cheaply as do people east of the Rocky mountains, but it hasn't resulted that way yet.

THE only difference noticeable between the government of McKinley and that of Cleveland is that the task of making excuses for the hard times now devolves upon the republican instead of the democratic press of the country. The republican papers now tell us that times are getting better in spite of the howl by the other party; that our factories are employing more men at better wages; that our exports exceed our imports by a greater margin, and that the apparent dullness is not peculiar to the United States, but extends over the whole world. This latter proposition the COURIER has contended for all along. In the meantime the populists throughout the country are preparing to hand over the keys to their republican successors. Only this and nothing more.

VICTORIA'S proposed abdication in favor of her son Albert Edward has been reported every little while of late years, but the old lady herself has probably never heard of it. Like the late emperor of Germany, she is apt to let well enough alone and only submit to a change when the grim reaper decrees it. The Prince of Wales is getting gray with age and dissipation, and his ascension to the throne will cause more or less friction, though there will be no general change of postmasters and revenue collectors as there is every four years in the United States.

THE flying machine that will fly and carry passengers has yet to be built, but almost daily for the past ten years the newspapers have been discovering machines in course of construction which are sure to fly when completed, and that is the last heard of any particular flying machine. That the air will one day be navigated by human beings is extremely probable. A bird is simply a natural machine which supports itself by powerful wings. The principle upon which a bird does this act is liable to be discovered some day, and then everybody can have his own aviator as he can nowadays have his own bicycle. Speed the day.

ARTIFICIAL gold manufactured like that of artificial eggs has failed, although it was predicted that some new process just discovered would put a stop to gold mining and hasten the dethronement of the yellow god. The philosopher's stove and the perpetual motion machine as yet exist only in the wild mind of the unbalanced brain.

A Frenchman named Loney is in jail at Ely, Nev., charged with the murder of Nora Ahren at Eberhardt, White Pine county, on May 26th.

Fred Vallon of Los Angeles has declared his intentions to build a brick hotel costing $25,000 on West Seventh street near the near Southern Pacific depot, Riverside.

According to the school census just completed, Chino has climbed up to second place among the towns of San Bernardino county, in point of population.

Late news from Alaska says that the bodies of three prospectors, Bottcher, Blackstone and Molinque from Washington, were found on the beach at Cook's inlet, frozen stiff. The men had lost their way in a storm.

A woman poultry raiser of National City, Cal., broke the record for number of eggs lately found in one nest. There were forty fresh and bright, and twenty hens cackled their ownership of the unusual pile.

Santa Ana people say the Southern Pacific Company proposes building a branch to their celery fields. Next year the celery-growers expect to have between 200 and 300 carloads of the product to go East.

An Italian watchman named Pietro Mattinelli, employed by the Usal Lumber company, in Mendocino county, was crushed to death Friday by a falling tree. He was sleeping in the woods when the tree fell and crushed him.

The steamer Aorangi, which left Vancouver on June 14th for Australia, took the largest cargo ever shipped to Australia from that port, amounting to 3000 tons, the bulk being flour, beer and machinery.

San Bernardino can have no more street lighting until after the vegetable season because the Chinese gardeners use all the water in the ditch for irrigation and leave none to run the electric company's dynamo.

Joseph Smith, a farmer living ten miles northeast of Davenport, Wash., lost control of his team down a steep grade and fell under the wagon. The wheels badly lacerated a shoulder and broke his arm, and owing to the nature of his injuries, it is believed he will die.

W. H. Elkins, a young man living near Livingstone, Cal., shot and killed his brother-in-law, a man named De Angeles. The cause of the affair is not known, although it is supposed to have grown out of an old feud that has existed between them for some time.

The petition for the disincorporation of St. Helena, Cal., which has been pending before the board of trustees of that town for some time past, was killed. Several of those who had signed withdrew their names, thus leaving the list short of the number of names required by the law.

Isaac Norton, cashier of the Internal Revenue office at San Francisco, committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid. From an examination of the official accounts of the dead man it has been discovered that Norton was a defaulter to the extent of $50,000, and it is believed that the suicide is a result of his fear of inevitable exposure and probable prosecution. Gambling caused his downfall.

Georgetown, Placer county, one of the most noted of mining camps of early days, was almost totally destroyed by fire. All the business houses, with one exception, were wiped out. When the fire was out, a terrific explosion occurred from dynamite stored in one of the ruined buildings. A mass of bricks, timbers, etc., were sent flyin all directions. Mrs. Nancy McLain and ex-Assemblyman H. B. Newell were standing 150 feet from the explosion and were instantly killed by being struck by flying bricks, Clinton Hulburt had his left thigh and hip broken by a flying brick. The loss of property will amount to over $100,000.

Covote creek has some should be "side back" riders that ride on both sides of the horse at once, and the way they make the dust fly in town, and race over bridges makes our mayor break some of the most sacred commandments.

The present wet weather is attributable to the many camp meetings in progress. The good brothers and sisters should have come together a month sooner as rain was badly needed at that time and their results would surely been as prolific.

"Uncle Jerry" surely has degenerated to some extent—may be he is riding a "Bike"—when in his editorial last week he took a financial streak and proclaimed to the many readers of his "Great Christian Herald" that "times are hard under McKinley and would have been under Bryan, only might have been a little stir in the West under the Silver banner." "The stir" in case of free silver would be so great that it would tax the manufacturers of the East to supply the "Wild and Wooly West." You crush the industries of the West and the effete East has no outlet for her baked beans, corn fed girls and manufactured articles.

The most prosperous time of our lives was during prosperous and boom times in the great and broad West.

Her Majesty Got Mad.

"I was being shown over the royal yacht at Portsmouth by an admiral, and he explained the various points of interest. At last we came to the queen's cabin. "Here," said he, "is where the queen found a middy trying on her bonnet at the looking-glass, and she gave him a box on the ears, which resounded right away to the quarter-deck." "Well," I said, "that was better than ruining his career for a boyish prank." "Oh!" he replied, "he didn't get off with a smack. He was sent home next day, and his people were given a hint to take his name off the books at once. It was a pity, for he was a jolly little fellow, and didn't mean any harm."

The Scio Colonists.

A. W. Lang, business manager of the Scio colony, speaking to a representative of the Silverton Appeal of the proposed methods of the cosony, says that there will be about 200 families, or about 1000 people in all, who will come from the Eastern states and settle on the tract of land two and one-half miles from Scio, in Linn county. It is a company in which all are owners.

Mr. Lang has just completed the survey of the land. The company owns 16½ miles square of level farming land, almost all in cultivation.

Each family will be allotted a certain portion of the land to cultivate. The company will operate two large saw mills of their own, to furnish lumber for building purposes. The colonists will plant 1000 acres in hops. They will set out 800 acres in prunes, all of one variety, and will have 100 acres in strawberries, 100 acres in raspberries, besides a large amount of other small fruits and vegetables. They intend to purchase 500 choice cows for a dairy, and expect by extra care and proper feeding, to make an article of cheese that will command the top price in the markets.

The members of this colony are all steady, hard-working people, and what ever they start they will push with all energy. When the hops, prunes, etc., are planted, they will be put there to stay.

"Saved From the Horrors of Nervous Prostration" by Dr. Miles' Nervine.

A COUGH does not always indicate consumption. Mr. W. H. Palmer, of Waterloo, Iowa, writes: "I was taken with a nervous stricture of the bronchial tubes, which developed into nervous prostration. I was so weak I could not sit up. I got no sleep for days except when under the influence of opiates. For four months I suffered agonies and prayed that I might die and be at rest. One physician said I had consumption, for I had a cough that gave me no rest. But a good old physician whose medicine had failed, advised me to use Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and I thank God that it has brightened my days, lengthened my life and saved me from the horrors of nervous prostration."
