Why not employ the X ray in mining operations?

The steamer Geo. Elder is on the way to Clondyke.

The excitement about Clondyke does not seem to abate.

A transfer of Southern Oregon climate to Clondyke will be the next thing in order.

A farmer in Manitoba thought he saw Prof. Andree's balloon on the morning of July 29.

Spain must be losing ground in Cuba since the rebels are forcing their way into the very city of Havana.

The semi-civilized Japan has wisely decided to arbitrate with Hawaii. At present there is likely to be no bloodshed.

Some of our young men are talking of Peru. They think a trip there will be far more profitable than to Clondyke at this season of the year.

California is going to have state university buildings on a larger and grander scale. Mrs. Hearst has donated $250,000 as a nucleus around which the state can build.

The Sultan has made up his mind to abide the ultimatum of the powers, and he is now moving his troops from Thessaly. The poor fellow is between two fires, there is danger at home if he yields, and away from home if he does not.

There are nineteen officers and employes engaged in one way or another at the reform school, Salem, and the monthly pay amounts to about $345. The physician draws $6 per trip and we suppose he goes when he gets ready.

The State teachers association which closed its session at Newport last week was rather slimly attended, there being about 40 teachers present from a distance. We do not know what is the matter with the teachers, unless it is, their salaries are so small that they cannot find the lucre wherewith to pay the expenses incident to the trip.

The new tariff known as the "Dingley Bill" went into effect July 24th. From it we notice that the tax on cigarettes has increased from 50 cents per thousand to one dollar. The tax ought to be placed so high that a single boy would never be able to pay it. The price on this article has increased since the bill went into effect.

Ere another week rolls around the great strike in the east must surely culminate, either in a victory for one side or the other. The strikers were getting along fairly well and seemed to have the sympathy of the public, in general but since Eugene V. Debs has been taking such an active part, it appears the the strikers have lost ground. This agitator and all the leaders like him will do more harm to the laborers and the cause of labor in this country, than they can possibly do good.

The Canadian government has seen fit to place what we might style an "O-grab me" act on American miners who wish to go into the Clondyke country. The policy of the American government is such that we have no right to complain. The United States has adopted the protective system as outlined by Mr. Dingley and Uncle Sam is charitable enough to allow a neighbor the same privilege as he takes for himself. While we may have no right to complain we are going to do it anyhow for this is one of the privileges that cannot be taken away from us. A Canadian may come into this country and mine to his hearts content and he will not be molested. But the Canadian government is going to overdo the thing and take it all.

PREPARING FRUIT FOR MARKET.

Few people realize the importance of knowing just how and when to pick and pack fruit for shipment so they can get the most out of it.

Those who command the highest prices are those who take the greatest pains in grading and packing. If the fruit is too green when picked it cannot be good when it reaches its destination, if it is too ripe when picked, it will likely spoil before it can be placed on the market. Grading is very essential, for one small peach put into a box with large ones, if discovered, will ruin the sale of the entire box, the box will bring no more than if all the peaches were like the little or faulty one. Any box that contains over 80 peaches cannot be called first class in size. The peaches should be well wrapped and packed so that when the box is nailed up the fruit will not be loose. A few days ago we had occasion to examine a box of peaches already prepared for market and what was our surprise to find when picking up the box that the peaches, although wrapped well, were loose in the box. What is true of peaches is likewise true of other fruits. Those who do not know how to manage their fruit should endeavor to find out, in order that they may get the highest prices.

CALIFORNIA SCHOOLS.

The California school system has been the boast of that state ever since the adoption of the state constitution, the very name California carried with it the thought of something far superior to many of the older Eastern states. We have heard it said so often during the last fifteen years, "If you want to teach school where they have the best schools in the Union, then go to California, if you want to send your children where they will have every advantage and the best teachers, by all means go to California." We have concluded to go to California for a few minutes anyway to see what there is in this great boasting of superiority, and we find that the state university there, which is a good school, has refused to give credit to thirty-seven heretofore accredited high schools within the state, and among them we find Oakland and San Francisco. The reason assigned by the university regents is that the pupils from these schools are deficient in grammar and elementary rhetoric. Pupils from these schools must pass an examination in order to obtain admittance to the university. There must be something radically wrong with a system of teaching where so many of the so-called excellent schools are deficient in the very rudiments of the English language.

'Tis not strange that San Francisco fails, for that city has had too much politics and creed in her schools, and there is nothing so injurious to the public school system as to allow politics, creeds and favoritism to enter therein.

Our own Oregon is lacking in the very same rudiments, for it was not later than last winter we heard some of the college and university professors say that many of the pupils who came from different parts of the state were very deficient in English grammar and spelling.

There must be a remedy for this lack of preparation somewhere. We believe it lies largely in the employment of teachers. Too many teachers are employed, not on merit and worth as they should be, but because they belong to some particular church, or do not belong to a particular church, or because they are of a certain political creed, or some lodge, or can bring to bear a strong influence, or have a pull upon the board. Influence is stronger as a rule than merit, though there are exceptions to the rule.

The University of Oregon

At Eugene opens Sept. 29. Graduates from accredited schools who have completed work amounting to 30 credits are admitted without examination. Incidental fee $10.00 a year; tuition free. Mr. Smith's Report.

We give below the report of representative Smith, who attended the A. O. U. W. Grand Lodge of Oregon when it was in session at Portland sometime ago.

In a short time we hope to give further information regarding the change from the level to the classified plan of assessment.

To the officers and members of Josephine Lodge, No., 112, A. O. U. W. Brothers: I herewith submit to you my report of the proceedings of the late Grand Lodge of Oregon.

The Grand Lodge of Oregon, A. O. U. W. after a lively yet harmonious session of four days duration, concluded its nineteenth annual session, on Saturday July 54 1897.

There were between 135 and 140 representatives in attendance, besides many visitors. Supreme Master Robeson of Texas and Grand Recorder Hirshberg of California were also in attendance at the close of the session. The principal and absorbing theme was the classified plan of assessments. Long before the opening of the grand lodge, small groups of members congregated on every hand, and earnestly, some of them vehemently, discussed the pros and cons of the question.

The discussion opened upon the second day, the representatives opposed to the plan made earnest, eloquent and vigorous protest against any change and in some cases the opposition became acrimonious to such a degree, that it seemed the "classified" men were all scoundrels, and only sought the destruction of our order, but the "classified" men held the fort and presenting facts from the thirteen jurisdictions that have adopted the plan, and more than all by abstaining from any criminating insinuations against the champions of the level plan, won over many who had bitterly opposed the change.

Supreme Master Robeson was called upon, but refused to discuss the subject, until the brothers decided for themselves, what they would do, yet he answered questions and at times, corrected erroneous statements of facts made by speakers.

A brother in his speech said that it was admitted by eminent and qualified insurance men, that our classified plan was the safest, soundest and best system of insurance that the world had ever produced. Brother Burkhart, replying with considerable warmth, ridiculed the idea that we should be hoodwinked by insurance men, for they certainly would adopt the best system they had knowledge of, and "Why," said he, "have they not adopted this plan?" After paying his compliments to brothers who would allow insurance men to so deceive them, he took his seat amid considerable applause.

Our Supreme Master then arose and said, "Brother Burkhart, I'll tell you why they do not adopt our plan, because there is no money in it, and they are not working fraternal insurance."

After the discussion was fairly started, Brother Herron proposed an amendment which was unanimously adopted. It provides that when a brother has been a member of an order for twenty years, has become fifty years old or over, he shall be placed in a preferred class, whose members shall not pay less than five assessments to the beneficiary fund and one assessment to a reserve fund, annually, the interest from the reserve fund to apply on all other assessments over five that may be levied that year, and any surplus, shall revert to the beneficiary fund of the grand lodge. The debate lasted over sixteen hours and before its close, many of the opposers of the plan stated upon the floor of the grand lodge, that they had been converted, and would vote and work for the amended classified plan; considering, even though it might be a little more expensive for the higher classes, that the perpetuity and life of our order demanded the change.

At the close of the debate thirteen instructed representatives placed their vote on record as opposed to the change some of whom stated that they personally favored the new plan.

Among the matters acted upon at this session were: disposing of the "Winton" case appealed from Grand Master Colvig's decision, Colvig being sustained; the change from the level to the classified plan to take effect for all classes September 1st, 1897; the right of a member to change his beneficiary certificate from $2000 to $1000 or from $1000 to $2000 at his pleasure, in conformity to our laws; the appropriation of $200 to assist in prosecuting any murderer of a brother workman; the adoption of the Reporter as the official paper; the publishing and distribution of circulars explaining the amended classified plan; the employment of Bro. D. C. Herin as grand lecturer at a salary of $100 per month and traveling expenses; inviting supreme lecturer Tate to deliver ten lectures in Oregon; the annulment of benefi ciary certificates of those who commit suicide within three years of admission to the order; fixing the capita tax at $1.20, payable 60 cents July 1st and 60 cents January 1st.

The following amendments to the constitution were adopted: Page 8, sec. 6 changing date of meeting of Grand Lodge from Wednesday to Tuesday. Pages 14 to 26 making all sections governing beneficiary fund and assessments to conform to the new plan, each class to advance every five years upon the first day of January. Page 17, secs. 36 and 39, page 24 sections 11, 12, 14, and 17 changed so that legal and official notices to officers and members of subordinate lodges can be given through the official paper. Page 23, sec. 6, adding a surplus fund to the existing funds. Page 35, sec. 16, instead of assessment of one dollar, reads an assessment as provided for in sec. 30 of article 2.

Page 68, sec. 5 recorder of subordinate lodge to notify recorder of D. of H. lodge of the expulsion of members from the order. Page 76 adding sec. 13, making it the duty of the financier, attested by the recorder, to transmit to the grand recorder any change of address of members upon the first day of each month. Page 81, Article 5, erase twenty one and insert in lieu thereof the word eighteen, also providing for admission of non beneficiary members in conformity with article seventeen page 129. Page 84. sec 12, page 89, sec. 24, and page 91, sec 31 to read one assessment in proper class, instead of one dollar, as at present. There are one or two other matters, but at times members spoke low, and sometimes there was so much disturbance we failed to catch what was said, but everything will appear in the printed proceedings, the lodge will then be in possession of all that was done. Respectfully submitted in C. H. and P.

Wilkey & Co. of Medford are making a preliminary survey for a ditch to run water from Wolf creek to their mines on Grave creek, with plenty of water, they need not go to Alaska for golden nuggets, as they have very rich ground, but a scarcity of water has been the main draw back heretofore; with Wolf creek water they'll have a Clondyke of their own, minus long billed mosquitoes, Greenland climate and hardships in general.

The Alaska gold fever is raging in this camp, and it is doubtful what the result will be. Both young and old talk of nothing else, even in their dreams.

One man mining the bars recently, remarked that he had sufficient water dipping it out of Rogue river. He is the only contented man in camp.

The Friday-Engels quartz mill crew, not being able to run the plant on account of the shortage of water, are working a river-bar adjoining Wm. Crow's place. They are very industrious.

The greed of man, to gain something for nothing, was manifested here this week. When it was learned that Frank Duff was beyond the power of protecting his property, parties, vulture-like, posted a notice and began work on his claim. They will not gain as much as they imagined for the courts will, no doubt, arrest them.

Frank Duff, an old miner, visited camp last Saturday and on his return home was overcome by the heat and was exposed to the weather for three days, not being able to reach home on this place. On Wednesday he was found and brought here and next day carried to Wm. Crow's, thence taken to the Pass for medical treatment, his mind being slightly damaged. Forest Fires.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR.
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 13, 1897.

For the information of all concerned, attention is called to the following act of Congress, approved February 24, 1897, entitled "An act to prevent forest fires on the public domain."

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices, and Special Agents, General Land Office, should promptly report to the United States Attorney all information they may receive relative to the violation of the provisions of this law.

E. F. BEAT,
Acting Commissioner.

An act to prevent forest fires on the public domain:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That any person who shall wilfully or maliciously set on fire, or cause to be set on fire, any timber, underbrush or grass upon the public domain, or shall carelessly or negligently leave or suffer to burn unattended near any timber or other inflammable material, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof in any district court of the United States having jurisdiction of the same, shall be fined in a sum not more than five thousand dollars, or be imprisoned for a term not more than two years, or both.

Sec. 2. That any person who shall build a camp fire, or other fire, in or near any forest, timber or other inflammable material upon the public domain, shall, before breaking camp or leaving said fire, totally extinguish the same. Any person failing to do so shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof in any district court of the United States having jurisdiction of the same, shall be fined in a sum not more than a thousand dollars, or imprisoned for a term of not more than one year, or both.

Sec. 3. That in all cases arising under this act the fines collected shall be paid into the public school fund of the county in which the lands where the offense was committed are situated.

Approved, February 24, 1897.

Notice to Tax Payers

The county court extended the taxes until August 31, '97, with a penalty of 3½ per cent from the 15 of April to the 31 of August. After that date the books will be closed to make out the delinquent roll.

AMERICAN TOURISTS.

Devote Themselves Abroad to Things They Wouldn't See at Home.

"One of the curiosities of American travel abroad," said a tourist who has just returned from his annual spring jaunt on the continent, "is a man's anxiety to look at the very things in Europe that he can see, if he will, at his own doorsteps at home. For instance, about every young New Yorker who passes a few weeks on the continent goes to all the zoological gardens mentioned in the guide books. In Dresden he may ignore the Brühl terrace, take but a fleeting glance at the wonderful art gallery, and hardly wink at the footprints of the great Napoleon, but he will gape for a whole afternoon at the bears and lions, tigers and elephants in the zoological garden, although at home he never would dream of passing half the time in the park or circus menagerie; in fact, probably would not think of going to either once a year.

"He does the same thing in Vienna, in Paris, in Frankfort and in Berlin. In each of these towns there are a thousand rare sights that he never will see duplicated in his native land, but he leaves half of them unobserved to hunt up more bears, lions and tigers in the local menageries.

"Next to the zoological gardens, the churches seem to have the strongest hold on the American sightseers. Now, outside of a few masterpieces of cathedral architecture, central European churches do not appeal to the untrained eye any more than many of our fine American churches. The time used by the average American youth in exceeding spires and gaping at vaults, altars and chancels is just so much time wasted, as, to his eye, the whole exhibition is just what he sees any day in pseudo St. Paul's or old Trinity, or the cathedral. Yet he clings to those churches as he does to the zoological gardens, just because they are mentioned in the guide books.

"I might add to this list of time-wasting practices the American habit of visiting and lingering around all the monuments to men, big and small, in European cities. Men who never turn to right or left in New York to distinguish between a statue and a drinking fountain race wildly on the continent after the most insignificant public statues, as if every public monument were as worthy as the Arch of Triumph in Paris, or the Brandenburg gate in Berlin or the Trafalgar square shaft in London. And while chasing up these animals and churches and commonplace statues of people they never heard of the American tourists neglect the art galleries, the libraries, the great military spectacles and the peculiarly national entertainments whose like they never have seen and cannot find on this side of the water."—N. "Saved From the Horrors of Nervous Prostration" by Dr. Miles' Nervine.

A COUGH does not always indicate consumption. Mr. W. H. Palmer, of Waterloo, Iowa, writes: "I was taken with a nervous stricture of the bronchial tubes, which developed into nervous prostration. I was so weak I could not sit up. I got no sleep for days except when under the influence of opiates. For four months I suffered agonies and prayed that I might die and be at rest. One physician said I had consumption, for I had a cough that gave me no rest. But a good old physician whose medicine had failed, advised me to use Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and I thank God that it has brightened my days, lengthened my life and saved me from the horrors of nervous prostration."

Dr. Miles' Restorative is sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee, first bottle benefits or money refunded. Book on Heart and Nerves sent free to all applicants.
