THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1898.

Congress is now in session and grinding its heels.

The information comes to us that at no distant day certain parties will open a gambling den in this city and run in connection therewith a house of ill-fame.

We are pleased to note that the article entitled, "The Outlook" by James W. Abbott of this city, is going the rounds of the best journals and due credit is most liberally given this paper.

Some of the San Francisco dailies are pleased at the probable defeat of Senator Stewart of Nevada, for the seat to be now vacated.

Spain intends on the war that lost her money brought and her navy. Had that nation accepted the mediation of the United States before it was too late, it might be better off financially than now, but the war has brought wisdom which in the end will prove of far greater consequence.

Young Amos Fries of Central Point, whom the editor of this paper recommended as a fit subject for West Point a few years ago, has completed his course and will now sail Major Fries in harbor and fortification work for Oregon. Lieut. Fries is a bright young man and worthy the place he fills.

Mr. G. W. Rogers, who lived in this city for a year or more, made a last desperate effort to obtain a reprieve for her husband, the defaulting city treasurer of Tacoma, not long since but without avail. Governor Rogers thinks that Rogers should serve his term out. Executive clemency is often too freely bestowed, it is true.

Congressman elect Roberts of Utah, is a polygamist. He has three wives to take to Washington. The house is responsible for the seating of its members and now the question is, will the house seat the Utah congressman? It will not if it does its duty. Polygamists should have neither part nor parcel in making laws for this land.

It appears that the $200,000 has been subscribed for that great Democratic daily to be started in Portland and that George L. Hatch formerly editor of the Bloomington Eye, Bloomington, Ill., will be its managing editor. Mr. Hatch has the reputation of being a great newspaper man and a brilliant writer. He is a 16 to 1 democrat, which means that in politics the journal will be a free press organ.

The sugar beet growers of Eastern Oregon are desirous to ask the Legislature for a bounty and they say get it, for the body that will vote away thousands of the people's money to pay members of the defunct legislature and to pay a horde of clerks for nothing done, is liable to do anything however ridiculous it may seem. In our humble judgment, the sugar beet business in Eastern Oregon, if properly managed, will prove a profitable enterprise, and there is no need of a bounty to make it profitable. A little more bounty for educational purposes might be a better investment for the state.

The Portland Telegram says, "It is amazing to find so many law and order men in Portland favoring the licensing of gambling and the social evil." If all men were as rational as these law and order men are pretentious in faith, gambling and the social evil would not be quite so rampant as they are. The reason these things are not suppressed more is because of the character of the officials whom the people elect to enforce the laws. The police force as a general thing is not much above accepting a little "bush money" and consequently the business goes on. It is often a difficult matter to get the right kind of men to accept these offices.

Ten clerks in the senate and 20 in the house should be enough to perform all the clerical work in the state legislature. If a greater number is employed at the regular session it will be an extravagance. Our law makers should not disgrace themselves by paying off their political debts by appointing clerks to the legislature. Only such a number as is actually required should be employed.—The Dallas Times Mountaineer.

Truer words than the above could never be spoken. Legislators disgrace themselves and the state when so many clerks are employed to do nothing. It is the fruit of the spoils system and no one can admit it except he is a spoilsman. Taking this opportunity to pay off late political debts is reticence that the people ought to speak out against in no uncertain sounds.

THE MESSAGE.

President McKinley's annual message to congress is a lengthy document and is necessarily to become of the many subjects needing special attention at this particular time. He reviews the case, the progress and the final determination of the war with Spain. He urges upon congress the importance of building the Nicaragua canal, but whether his influence will prevail with that body to that extent is doubtful. The whole country ought to be a unit with the president in urging the great enterprise.

Having done so for his share of recognition by the president, the message of congress of the committee is appointed under the just resolution that the committee had made its report which would be laid before that body, and be also treated that the same would receive proper recognition.

Mr. McKinley recommends that the regular army be increased to 100,000 strong, also an increase in the efficiency of the navy. The latter suggestion, now that the nation is entering upon the Expansion policy, seems the more important. A navy of marines will be needed to maintain Uncle Sam's authority on the great seas and to keep the peace among the nations of the world.

The cabinet will be pleased to know that it is recommended that they be permitted to establish an independent government, for concerning them the president says:

"As soon as we are in possession of Cuba and we are satisfied that it is necessary to give and receive aid to this people to form a government for themselves. This should be undertaken at the earliest moment consistent with safety and soundness. It is important that our relations with these people shall be of the most friendly character and our commercial relations close and reciprocal. It should be our duty to assist in every proper way to build up the waste places of the island, encourage the industry of the people and assist them to form a government which shall be free and independent, thus realizing the best aspirations of the Cuban people."

Placer Miners Should Have Black Sand. In my first experience in Southern Oregon and in mining, I had reason to believe there was something of value in the black sand which was troublesome to the small miners, particularly, and which was thrown away.

Since then I have made frequent inquiry with little result until my recent trip to San Francisco. It appears that the platinum group of metals is found almost entirely in the black sand, and particularly so in some localities in Southern Oregon. I have heard of two instances of the concentrated sand from which boxes being secured values by the number of $250 and $300 per ton.

There is difficulty separating the metals as required, so about all the miner can easily do is to pile it away until a quantity can be obtained for sale or shipment.

Figure 1 is a 10 parted carefully, so that a glance one would scarcely detect the fraud. Judge Child gave him the coin and nine dollars in change for his supposed ten dollar bill. In a few minutes after the man left the store, it occurred to the Judge that he would better examine his bill, which he did, with the result alone stated. He notified Constable Coffey and the two hastened out in search of the man, but he was nowhere to be found. He is on his way elsewhere, to find another victim. Look out for the sharper that he does not catch you.

Have you ever seen a genuine coin watch, where there are colored belts and have secured out in like and some where their every stone is an antique and every article a study? Where each picture strives to outdo the other in point of grace and attractiveness? Where the marvelous design is awarded to one of the most delicate copies and they "Walk off with that cash?" Have you seen the thrilling and inspiring Military spectacle showing all the American banners, H. Jones, Hampton, Haller, Kelley, and Dewey? During the action of this watch, it was every event, a reproduction of the blowing up of the "Maine" is shown. Have you seen the very lively animated song sheet, a music sheet, the notes of which are made up of the heads of our some of the above novel, and highly pleasing features will be introduced between the acts of the drama at every performance of Uncle Tom's Cabin. Seats are now on sale at the Regar Place.

The Obedient Man. The obedient man, one of the incomprehensibilities of nature, was on exhibition in this city one day last week and attracted considerable attention.

He is 45 years old, weighs 60 pounds, has a full developed head, an active brain, but a body that has not grown any since he was 10 years old. The body is without sensibility, but the internal organs seem to work perfectly. The joints are all stiff, completely sealed, except the left shoulder and left hand; with these he is able to feed himself, handle a book, write and make change when money is paid him. He has lain on his left side for 34 years and this will be his position until he is no more.

It hardly looks possible that one in such a condition could enjoy one moment of his life but he appears to do so. When we asked him, "Do you enjoy any way to enjoy life?" he remarked, "I must certainly do so, much better than many I see walking the streets, for I never had a pain, never had the headache in my life, enjoy my food, sleep well, take pleasure in keeping posted on the times of the day and talking with those who will see me as I go from place to place." This is one of nature's strange freaks from a human standpoint, and an explanation of it need not be attempted.

Card of Thanks. To those who so kindly rendered assistance during the late illness and the death of my husband, I take this opportunity to extend my grateful thanks. Mrs. A. E. Hazen.

The Revenue Tax. The Treasury Department has lately made the following rulings relative to the revenue tax that may be of interest to our readers:

(1.) A receipt personally tendered to a bank by a depositor upon the withdrawal of funds to his credit does not require a stamp.

(2.) Orders for the payment of money on sight or on demand are subject to the stamp tax imposed on checks by the third paragraph of schedule A, but on orders for the payment of money otherwise than on sight or on demand the stamp tax must be paid as on promissory notes.

(3.) Orders for the payment of money drawn by the secretary of an order or beneficiary society on its treasurer in favor of a third party require a 2 cent stamp.

(4.) The conveyance by Express Co. or other common carriers of bank bills, currency, or money of any kind, imposes an obligation on such carriers to issue and stamp a bill of lading or receipt for the same, if he does he is liable to the tax on such property as included within the terms "Any goods accepted for transportation."

(5.) A 2 cent stamp is required on an order for cash drawn on a merchant by one of his customers.

AFRICA NEW WOMAN.

Told the Editor the "Wanted Freedom and the Girl in the West" Main Green.

"The new woman has penetrated even to the heart of the corner of Afghanistan, where she wears male attire and lives as she pleases, says the Ladies' Personal."

"All right," he said, "since you want to be free you shall be, but free you must also remain, that is your punishment. You wish to live like a man; you shall live like one, and for your own protection you must wear men's clothes."

On her arrival in Kabul she was given the title of officer, or chief, and was made the hero's messenger. The women and girls as she passes or is ordered, look by night and day, and no one even in staid dress has ever breathed a word against her fair name.

County Club Business. A short time ago a newspaper man set in the office of a prominent real estate operator, talking about current events. A messenger entered and notified the operator a telegram. He continued the conversation with the reporter while he waited for the contents of the message. The newspaper man did not notice any change in the operator's demeanor, and inquired if there was an item of news in the message. "Oh, yes," said the operator, handing the reporter the message, which read that a certain boat owned by this operator had just nearly all her crew by striking it in the Montgomery river. The reporter asked about how much the loss would be, and the answer was: "About $10,000." The operator resumed his conversation as though nothing had happened. It was afterwards learned that the receiving of such reports is a matter of such frequent occurrence in the coal business. Some men would have fainted at such news, but the river coal business is a great deal of a hazard, and one must have the spirit of the gambler to engage in it.
