Mr. Michelson is a master of his trade, and a good citizen, and we regret his departure.

Miss Jennie Dankle, who has been assistant in the post office for two years, left Tuesday evening on the isolated train for Portland where she has accepted a position in a mercantile establishment.

Miss Dankle carries with her the good wishes of every one for her future success and well being. Every one regrets her departure. If she will have a larger circle of friends in Portland than she has here, it will be because Portland is a larger place.

A Pleasant Gathering.

Miss Vida Moore was the hostess of a delightful social gathering on the evening of August 5th. The home of Miss Moore was very prettily and tastefully decorated for the occasion and the lawn made a cool, refreshing retreat, with its carpet of green and overhanging boughs. The hours whirled merrily by in social converse until 9:30, when the guests were called indoors to try to unravel some hard knots that the hostess consisted in piecing together trite sayings and quotations that were placed in different portions of the room. This task proved well nigh Herculean, but Miss Booth succeeded in winning the prize, she having pieced together 11 quotations. After this a dainty and delicious luncheon was served and over which the hostess presided with most becoming grace. After luncheon music was the theme for some time, after which the guests departed, all having assured the hostess of their great enjoyment of her kind hospitality.

Those present were: Misses Moore, Williams, Booth, Smith, Barrie and Booth; Messrs. Leland, Sampson, Moon, Pool, Van Dyke and Denison. D.
