GRAVEYARD FOR PETS

Where Aristocratic Dogs and Cats Are to Be Buried.

The New Cemetery to Be Located in Maryland, Across the Line from the District of Columbia.

The deaths of many valuable pets of fashionable men and women of Washington's inner circles have suggested to some enterprising mind the idea of establishing a dog and cat graveyard. It is intended, also, to allow parrots and monkeys to be interred in this cemetery, and, in fact, animals of any kind, if they are pets of fashionable people who have money enough to spend on this new fad.

A petition has been sent to the district commissioners requesting permission to conduct such an enterprise. However, this could not be granted, as the commissioners decided that such a cemetery could not be established in the District of Columbia. This did not daunt the originators of the scheme, however. They at once decided to go just beyond the district line and start the business in Maryland.

The plan is to obtain about a quarter of an acre on the prettiest site possible, and make a beautiful little park out of the place. The grounds will have an attendant, and will be kept in splendid order. Money will not be spared to make the cemetery attractive, and only the dogs of the rich can afford to rest in this exclusive and fashionable little graveyard. The owners of Doggie and Kitty, and Polly and Jacko, as the case may be, will have to put up their money in order to plant their animals in this particular spot of ground, as the space will be limited, and only a few hundred graves will be made. These will be costly. The poor bootblack, however, with a "yaller dog," will have to let the garbage man cart his pet away, or sneak over to a vacant lot on a dark night and "put away' his faithful companion.

When Admiral Dewey's dog Bob died in New York the admiral telegraphed to the hospital where the collie was and ordered that he be given a good burial. The best that the hospital authorities could do, however, was to send the remains of the dog over to New Jersey to be interred in a vacant lot. Mr. Perry Heath's little Cuban poodle shared a like fate last week. Several days ago, when an old cat, one of the pets of the white house, died, one of the servants dug a little grave in the back yard by a rose bush, and "Tommy" was laid to rest. It was all right for "Tommy," for he could not have been in a more aristocratic or beautiful place, but as one lovely woman who loves her dog more than her bonnets, said: "It was right hard on Dewey's dog not to be buried in the white house yard also."

The plan of the dog cemetery is not altogether a new one, but rather an English adoption. There is in London just such an enterprise. It is situated near Hyde Park and is about 150 feet square.

Dr. Cecile French, the well-known canine authority, says that when he was in London last summer he visited the institution for the purpose of ascertaining just what it was. He says: "It is a beautiful spot, with large, old weeping willows and hedges. It is surrounded by a wall composed of boxwood, which is so thick and dense that it is impossible to see what is going on inside. After much difficulty and persuasion, I was permitted to enter and investigate. There are numerous miniature walks, so narrow that only one person can walk in them. There are many little graves about a foot and half long. They are kept in perfect order, and most of them have little headstones and some of the people have gone so far as to erect monuments over their dead pets."

"I have here a few epitaphs which I copied from some of the gravestones," said Dr. French, to a Post reporter, "and if you wish you may copy them."

Here are a few chosen from about a hundred which the doctor had copied in his note book:

To our dear Kibbs,
Born June 11, '93; died February 25, '97.
After life's "fitful fever," she sleeps well.

"Betty,"
And when at length my own life's work is o'er
I hope to find her waiting as of yore,
Eager, expectant, glad to meet me at the door.

To Rover.
A faithful companion, more loving and trustworthy, more constant than man.
Sir H. Sebon-Gordon, Bart.

The time will surely come when the Washington dog and cat graveyard will be so attractive that pet animals will fade away and die in the hope of being interred in such a congenial and beautiful spot.—Washington Post.

Exaltation of the Hohenzollerns.

Germany leaves the direction of her foreign affairs to the emperor and trusts that the sovereign will do the best he can, choose the most able counselors he can find, and that he will be prompt as well as prudent. Since all he does for the nation he does also for himself, for his own greatness and glory, for the splendor of his family, and for the future of his children and posterity, all his interests depend upon and are included in the success of German policy and the welfare of Germany. The house of Hohenzollern never can be separated from the fortunes of the nation. Therefore, the nation may safely confide its fortunes to the house of Hohenzollern; and even now, when public opinion has evidently taken quite a different view of things from that of the emperor, or at least from that which he seems to hold, no public organ would propose, nor would the reichstag itself wish, to alter the German constitution with regard to this particular point.—Prof. Delbruck, in North American Review.

BUFFALO BREEDING.

It Is to Be Taken Up as a Business by a Texas Cattle Company.

"Most people are of the belief," remarked Sheriff Taylor, of Sherman, Texas, according to the Memphis Scimitar, "that the American bison is an extinct animal, but that is a great mistake. It is true that in comparison with the numbers of the beasts that used to thunder over the western plains the numbers now to be found are insignificant; but yet there are some in existence, and there are measures now under contemplation for the propagation of the species, so that in time they may become reasonably common again.

"I know of only one herd of buffalo in Texas, that belonging to Mrs. Mary Goodnight, of the Goodnight Cattle company, in the Panhandle. Her herd comes down from the original stock of the Staked Plains. Several years ago the herdamen of the Goodnight pastures captured three calves and after domesticating them as much as their natures would permit proceeded to breed them. This was done as a pastime and without any special purpose in view until the race began to go out of existence, and then it was decided to go into the inbreeding as an industry. So the herd has grown until now it numbers about 70, 60 or more being full-grown and healthy specimens of the species.

"I have often seen these animals on the Goodnight range, and they certainly bring to mind the old time on the plains. The Goodnight people have the means to go into the cultivation of the buffalo on a liberal scale, and in Texas it is understood to be the purpose of the managers for Mrs. Goodnight to dispose of none of the stock for a period of years, say 25, when the herd will number something like 5,000.

"I am told that there are other herds in the United States. 'Buffalo' Jones, of Kansas, has a large herd. He has always taken great interest in the propagation of the animals, and of late has been working on a scheme to have the United States government to set aside a large pasture for the exclusive range of buffaloes, the breeding stock to be contributed by Mrs. Goodnight, Jones and any others who may have any of the animals which they would be willing to part with."

Women Missionaries Marry Chinese.

The following remarks of the Ostasiatische Lloyd about Protestant lady missioners in the far east are worth quoting: "It seems to become daily more the fashion for European and American ladies to fulfill their missionary vocation by marrying Chinamen. Scarce half a year ago a Swedish lady missionary set the unfortunate example of marrying a Chinese coolie, thus seriously injuring her missionary society, and, in general, compromising the respect in which missionaries are held. There is now a case in Canton of a lady belonging to an American mission, Miss Halverson, marrying her former cook. There is a great sensation about it in missionary circles, and it is really difficult to understand how a lady, who goes to China in order to help Christianize, can, after so short a time, do more harm to it than long years of labor will make good."—N. Y. Sun.

Supplying an Army.

An adjunct to every war seems to be the statistician, and once again we are assured by the figures he has been piling up in connection with the South African war. He tells us that if the intention of the British war department is carried out to "keep four months' advance supplies ahead in South Africa," 12,000,000 pounds of preserved meat will be necessary, likewise the same quantity of biscuits; coffee, 450,000 pounds; tea, 200,000 pounds; sugar, 2,200,000; compressed vegetables, 800,000; salt, 400,000; condensed milk, 360,000 cans.—Chicago Evening News.

LA GRIPPE

Is now reaping a rich harvest. Medical statistics compiled by the best physicians of the world show that over sixty per cent of the cases of acquired CONSUMPTION are due to LA GRIPPE. ARTISTIC AND SERVICEABLE.

A Variety of Useful and Ornamental Trifles for Lovers of Finery.

A dainty pincushion is made in the following way: Make a cushion about four inches wide and eight inches long, stuffing the bran or sawdust in very tightly to give a round appearance. Cover with light blue satin; over the upper part lay a piece of boiling cloth on which flowers or a jewel pattern has been embroidered in colored silk. The edge of the cushion is finished with a double ruffle of satin, cut on the bias and wide enough to conceal the lower part of cushion. Over the ruffle should fall a frill of filmy white lace.

To make a pretty shaving pad, cut two pieces of green felt into the form of a maple leaf, somewhat larger than the natural size, and place between them leaves of tissue paper cut the same shape as the felt; hold in place by a narrow ribbon passed through the base of the leaves and tied with a bow.

A lace lamp mat is made of a square of green felt, with maple leaves of the felt fastened to every corner. The leaves are veined with yellow silk, and green ribbon an inch wide conceals the edges of the felt.

A pretty toothbrush holder is made of a long piece of white linen turned up at the bottom to form a pocket. This holds the brushes and is lined with oilcloth, the outside being ornamented by a design worked in pale blue and pink filo. The upper part of the piece of linen is rounded off and folded over so as to conceal the slightly protruding ends of the brushes, and has the word, "Toothbrushes" worked upon it in light blue filo. The edges of the toothbrush holder are finished in button hole stitch or bound with narrow light blue ribbon.

A useful and pretty fancywork apron is made of white art denim and is about half the length of the skirt when finished, being turned up about nine inches at the bottom to form three pockets; in these are kept thread, scissors, etc. On the pockets is stamped some conventional design to be worked with colored filo. The top of the apron is finished with a hem half an inch in width, with a drawstring inserted.—Housekeeper.

GLASS AND CHINA.

A Few Suggestions Concerning the Selection of Table and Pantry Pieces.

One of the first things to provide for, both in the kitchen and pantry, and in fact everywhere else in the house, is a place for everything and everything should be kept in its proper place; there should be no little corners or shelves where broken, cracked or chipped glass, china or other debris could be stuffed away. The next essential is that a list should be kept of every possession. This list should be gone over twice a year, especially that portion of it which pertains to the china and glass, and when necessary added to at such times; an appreciable quantity need, however, never be added should each article be replaced as soon as it is broken.

To-day there is no excuse for ugly china or glass; good and pretty things can be bought for as little money as bad and ugly things. In selecting china the plain white is most serviceable and elegant and has this advantage that should one or more pieces become broken or chipped—nothing detracts more from the appearance of a table than chipped china—they may be readily replaced. With decorated china this is next to impossible and many a handsome set is spoiled beyond redemption because the vegetable dishes or other important parts of the service are broken and must be replaced by odd pieces that in no way fit or harmonize with the major part of the set.

Plain white china insures cleanliness and one never tires of it as one does of elaborate patterns and colors.

The glass for everyday use should be as inexpensive as possible, for while there is no need of a "best" china service there certainly must be some "best" glass held in reserve for special occasions. For a small family a dozen tumblers for everyday use is generally ample to leave out at one time—with but a few glasses and little glassware generally to look after at a time there is less likelihood of breakage.

There is no reason why with even the smallest expenditure the table appointments should not be attractive. Nice things do not necessarily mean expensive ones.—Housewife.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

American and Australian butter is rapidly crowding the German article from the English market.

The production of prunes is increasing rapidly in Oregon, the annual shipment of the dried fruit now amounting to 500 cars.

The production of soap in Great Britain is about 45,000 tons per week, of which between 3,000 and 4,000 tons are made in London.

America sells nearly three times as much as she buys; Germany buys over £50,000,000 worth more every year than she sells; while Great Britain last year actually bought twice as much as she sold.

Were it not for matter floating in suspension in sea water—minute living organisms and air bubbles due to the breaking of the waves, all of which reflect light—the ocean, looked down into, would be as black as the blackest dyestuff, for in that case none of the sun's rays, having once penetrated it, would return to its surface.

Alcohol and vinegar are effective antidotes for carbolic acid poisoning, a New York doctor announces. Whatever quantity of the poison has been swallowed, four times as much whiskey or five times as much vinegar should be administered immediately. No oil of any kind should be given. "Thus treated early enough," he adds, "all cases will recover."

That consumption does not run in families, but does run in houses, is the theory of Sir Richard Thorne, who addressed the London Medical society recently. "Refuse to live on a damp subsoil," was his advice; until people ceased to live under unfavorable conditions, they need hope for little distinction in the consumption death-rate. The improvement of sanitary appliances had, in the last 45 years, reduced that rate nearly 50 per cent.

Critical Times for Girls.

The first critical period in a woman's life comes at the passing of her girlhood. In nine cases out of ten where disease fastens itself upon her it does so at the line of demarcation between girlhood and womanhood. How to preserve the daughter's health—how to ward off disease at this crisis is the problem that confronts every mother of girls.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are the best remedy to use at this critical period. Read this sworn statement of Mrs. J. M. Riggs, of Carterville, Mo.

"My daughter Josie during the winter of 1897-98 suffered a complete break-down in health. She was thin and pale, had no appetite—in fact, some days barely tasting her food. Those who knew her condition said she was going into a decline.

"On the advice of a neighbor, we began giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The effect on her condition was marvelous. Before she had taken half a box her condition was improved, and she kept on gaining appetite, strength and flesh until she was entirely well. She took three boxes of the pills and to-day there is not a healthier, more robust looking girl in Carterville. She is fleshier and healthier than ever before in her life."

Mrs. J. M. Riggs.

Subscribed and sworn to before me a Notary Public, this 15th day of October, 1898. William Wolcott, Notary Public.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' Dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after-effects of the grip, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, all forms of weakness, in either male or female.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sold by all dealers, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50 (they are never sold in bulk or by the 100) by addressing Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

SCROFULA

The Blighting Disease of Heredity.

In many respects Scrofula and Consumption are alike; they develop from the same general causes, both are hereditary and dependent upon an impure and impoverished blood supply. In consumption the disease fastens itself upon the lungs; in Scrofula the glands of the neck and throat swell and suppurate, causing ugly running sores; the eyes are inflamed and weak; there is an almost continual discharge from the ears, the limbs swell, bones ache, and white swelling is frequently a result, causing the diseased bones to work out through the skin, producing indescribable pain and suffering. Cutting away a sore or diseased gland does no good; the blood is poisoned. The old scrofulous taint which has probably come down through several generations has polluted every drop of blood.

Scrofula requires vigorous, persistent treatment. The blood must be brought back to a healthy condition before the terrible disease can be stopped in its work of destruction. Mercury, potash and other poisonous minerals usually given in such cases do more harm than good; they ruin the digestion and leave the system in a worse condition than before.

S. S. S. is the only medicine that can reach deep-seated blood troubles like Scrofula. It goes down to the very roots of the disease and forces every vestige of poison out of the blood. S. S. S. is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known. The roots and herbs from which it is made contain wonderful blood purifying properties, which no poison, however powerful, can long resist. S. S. S. stimulates and purifies the blood, increases the appetite, aids the digestion and restores health and strength to the enfeebled body. If you have reason to think you have Scrofula, or your child has inherited any blood taint, don't wait for it to develop, but begin at once the use of S. S. S. It is a fine tonic and the best blood purifier and blood builder known, as it contains no poisonous minerals. S. S. S. is pre-eminently a remedy for children.

SAVE THE CHILDREN.

When my daughter was an infant she had a severe case of Scrofula, for which she was under the constant care of physicians for more than two years. She was worse at the end of that time, however, and we almost despaired of her life. A few bottles of Swift's Specific cured her completely, as it seemed to go direct to the cause of the trouble. I do not believe it has an equal for stubborn cases of blood diseases which are beyond the power of other so-called blood remedies. S. I. Brooks, Monticello, Ga.

Our medical department is in charge of experienced physicians who have made Scrofula and other blood diseases a life study. Write them about your case, or any one you are interested in. Your letter will receive prompt and careful attention. We make no charge whatever for this.
