CHEWED A DIAMOND.

A Pug Dog Mangled the Gem Until It Was Necessary to Have It Recut.

Allegheny, Pa., has produced the champion dog story of the season. It is a diamond dog because it chewed the corner off a diamond said Peter Donaldson, a second ward and constable, is a little sore over the loss on his diamond, for it was damaged so that it was no longer a diamond.

The story is told by August Loch, a jeweler on Federal street, Allegheny. Donaldson walked into his store one day lately with a diamond that he wished recut. Mr. Loch took the stone, and on examining it found it was cracked. He told Donaldson, who gave the following explanation:

A few days ago Donaldson left his diamond stashed, a beautiful two-carat gem, on the counter and went into an adjoining room. When he came back he noticed his pet dog chewing something and saw that his diamond was missing. Upon investigation he found the dog had been chewing on the mounting out of shape. After some time he succeeded in taking the diamond out of the dog's mouth, and at his earliest convenience started to have it recut.

Mr. Loch then examined more closely and discovered the dog had bitten a piece from the stone and damaged it badly. Donaldson was certain the dog had eaten the diamond, but he could not find it in his mouth. He could scarcely credit the jeweler's statement until he saw it through a magnifying glass.

Tracing of the matter the other morning, the jeweler gave him the diamond, which he had been chewing on. It was the first time he ever heard of such a case. The diamond was a beauty and of all appearances as having the original mounting. On closer inspection, however, about one-fourth of a carat had been bitten off by the dog. The dog that can bite through a diamond is a wonder.

Mr. Loch says that the dog had bitten a piece from the stone and damaged it badly. Donaldson was certain the dog had eaten the diamond, but he could not find it in his mouth. He could scarcely credit the jeweler's statement until he saw it through a magnifying glass.

Summer Resorts.

To the mountains early look for those days of relaxation and recreation necessary to maintain the human machine in fair working condition.

The mountains early look for those days of relaxation and recreation necessary to maintain the human machine in fair working condition. The languorous sloths of the seashore prove very seductive while it lasts, but many have decided that the annual outing should provide not only radical change of air and surroundings, but also such stimulation of flagging energies as will provide brain and vigor for the return to labor.

For this reason the mountain climate and ramble, the balsam of the mountain pines, and the clear, unadulterated mountain air. In this direction the Shasta Route now affords a wealth of attractions. The entire line of road from Ashland to Redding is studded with charming and accessible hotels and camps, where cheer and comfort and heating at reasonable cost, and where you can hunt, fish, ride, loaf or play with equal facility.

Or if you look for healing waters, none better can be found, hot or cold, than the springs of Ashland, Colestin, Anderson, Bartlett, Byron and Paso Robles. Before visiting Europe, the people of the Northwest should see the glories of Yosemite valley, and the wonders of Mariposa and Calaveras, where the Parkians are likely to make inquiries concerning these attractive resorts.

THE MAMMOTH.....

Oregonian

Established in 1850

BUILT AND CONDUCTED ON STRICT BUSINESS PRINCIPLES

When you buy The Oregonian you do not invest in a lottery. You get your money's worth, in both quantity and quality.

The Oregonian is the only newspaper in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and British Columbia taking both the day and night reports of the Associated Press.

The Oregonian has a larger special service than any other paper in the Northwest. Staff correspondents maintained at Olympia and Salem, so that state and legislative news of Oregon and Washington is gathered and printed in detail.

The Oregonian Bureau at Washington city furnishes the paper with everything in national legislation and gossip which may affect the people of the Northwest states. This is in addition to and supplements the daily house, senate and capitol reports of the Associated Press.

The Oregonian prints more editorial than any other paper in its field. It is pre-eminently the journal for thoughtful, intelligent readers. It discards hollow, sensational matter, with which many other papers are burdened.

Time Spent in Reading The Oregonian is Time Gained

For Farmers, Business Men

Great bargains are noted in the display and classified columns of The Oregonian. Those who watch them save enough
