A very fair portrait of Rev. Robt McLean appears in Friday's Oregonian. Mr. McLean has become very prominent lately by his handling of the subject of evolution, which has subjected him to severe criticism, but it can be said with certainty that he has fully held his own in the argument. The Oregonian attacked him editorially but gives him credit for his ability and for his force and logic in the discussion and in general. His church stands by him to the last member.
The most soothing, healing and antiseptic application ever devised is Dr. Witt's White Hazel Salve. It relieves at once and cures piles, sores, eczema and skin diseases. Beware of imitations.—Dr. W. F. Kremer.
"Under Sealed Orders" was played last Wednesday evening at the opera house, but was accorded only a very meagre attendance. The company gave a very good entertainment, deserving of a much larger audience. The play was quite exciting in itself and the various parts were handled in a very creditable manner. The hypnotic Frenchman, Saxon, was especially horrible, one of the most ever appeared on the Grants Pass stage. The Arab thief, Faldemar, was one of the principal interesting subjects in the play and appeared as a splendid barbaric chieftain, having the real cold blooded air of a savage. Amusing features were numerous, the finale sensational and the interest of the audience was held throughout the play.

Convention.

Interest in the Choral convention which meets here during the first week of March is accelerating as the time for the musical carnival draws nearer. Besides the best talent of Grants Pass and of Ashland, Medford and Jacksonville, who will be convened in a grand chorus of over a hundred voices, we will have a number of musicians from other points who stand high in their several specialties and whose presence together at that time insures that this convention will be one long to be held in remembrance by those appreciative of good music.
Father Dominick of Mt. Angel college will render piano solos, some of which will have orchestral accompaniment. Signor D. Boffa, is a cultured violinist and Mrs. Boffa is a soprano soloist of recognized ability. They will be present at the convention. The ability of M. O. Warner as a cellist is well known and his presence adds materially to the aggregate musical talent of the event. Mrs. R. C. Brooks will sing several soprano solos. She is a soprano of great capability, beauty and power. Miss Esther Sibely of Ashland is a contralto with a grand voice. She sings a duet with Mrs. Brooks. W. Gifford Nash, of Eugene will be there to assume the directorship of the chorus, and his ability in that direction is highly commended. Miss Belle Robinson will act as accompanist as at the former conventions where her perfect work in that line has been of inestimable value.
There will be a magnificent orchestra of 18 or 20 pieces and altogether the convention seems certain to be the best musical gathering ever held in southern Oregon. Following is the list of choruses:

Bridal Chorus.....From Lohengrin
Ever Be Happy.....From Enchantress
Welcome Carols.....From Enchantress

K. O. T. M. Masquerade.

The grand masquerade ball given by the Knights of the Macabees on Thursday evening of last week was a most decided success in every way. There was a large attendance probably 50 couples of maskers besides many others. The costumes represented every quality known to the human comprehension. They were ingenious, beautiful, comical, grotesque, hideous. The evening opened with the Macabees drill in uniform, which was well executed and was a novel and interesting feature. The masks were discarded at 10:30 and the festivities were continued till the young hours of the morn. The following prizes were awarded: For the best sustained character, F. R. McGregor, who appeared as a wizen, hirsute old man, with a peculiar blue leathery tint of countenance, indicative of tremendous age; for finest costume, Wm. Bernstein; best representative of valentine, Miss Florence Fiegel; best waltzer, Miss Daisy Taylor. Demaree's orchestra furnished the music, the perfect character of which conducted greatly to the pleasure of the occasion.
Supper was served by J. S. Beckley at the oyster parlors.
