Bome sleds were shod with shining steel
And decked with red and blue;
And some were made by unskilled hands,
Yet sped right swiftly, too.
And rude toboggans, loaded well'
With happy children, made
Their daring trips, the notsy crews
Laughing and unafraid.

I saw six merry little girls
In one unbroken train
Go coasting down without a sled!
I looked, and looked again;
And as they climbed the hill, I saw
Each carried in her hand
Just this—a kitchen dust-pan,
Broad, strong and well-japanned.

Bach mounted, and around her feet Tucked carefully her gown. Then on this cutter, queer but fleet, Triumphantly rode down. Safely they rode, with joyous shouts, They seemed to like it well; Though how they steered the funny craft I'm sure I cannot tell.

Mrs. WAY-DOWN-BLUE'S IDEAS By F. B. CALLAWAY.

OH, DEAR!" complained Mrs. Way-down-blue, meeting her friend, Mrs. Cheery-up-heart, on the way home. "I do hate to go to my house. It is so lonely!" "What has become of your ideas?"

questioned Mrs. Cheery-up-heart, in 'They are every one gone," moaned Way-down-blue, and the tears filled her eyes. "Not a single one is left to speak to me." "How very sad," returned Mrs. Cheery-up-heart, somewhat perplexed.

Did you feed them regularly "Feeding ideas! Who ever heard of such nonsense!" exclaimed Mrs. Way-down-blue, drying her eyes in

"I would as soon starve myself as starve my ideas," replied Mrs. Cheeryup-heart, thoughtfully. "Do you remember, neighbor, when we first set housekeeping we were fitted out with the same number of ideas. I had six and you had half a dozen." "It doesn't seem possible I ever had so many as half a dozen ideas, all at once," sighed Mrs. Way-down-blue; "and now they are every one gone."

"You might recall them?" "I have shouted until I am deaf and dumb, but they won't come back, and if they did, I couldn't keep them over Where is your memory?" asked

Mrs. Cheery-up-heart, kindly. "Oh, I have the poorest memory in the world," returned Mrs. Way-down-blue, dolefully. "Nothing ever stays in it unless it be unpleasant things I wish to get rid of and they stick like burrs. The happy, pleasaut ideas run out at one gate while I am crowding them in at the other."

"Do you mean to say that you have no control over your ideas?" asked Mrs. Cheery-up-heart, very much as-"I never mean to work them too hard, but just let them come and go as they will. No one could have been more indulgent to their ideas than I have been," and at this Mrs. Way-down-blue burst into tears. "Perhaps I can help you to recall some of these happy ideas," said Mrs. Cheery-up-heart, brightly. "Do you not recollect the roll of beautiful stuffs, velvets and silks with gold and spangled tissues which our good Mother Tongue left with us to clothe

"But, my dear," urged Mrs. Cheeryup-heart, "It is useless to send abroad ideas likeragamuffins, for they receive so little consideration. Ideas are like people; when they are well dressed they feel so much happier and more agreeable, and they can travel round so much better."

"Do ideas travel; that is, outside the village?" questioned Mrs. Waydown-blue, opening her eyes.

"Ideas are great travelers, and when witty and elever enough they often go round the world. Stop and dine with me, Mrs. Way-down-blue, and I will introduce you to some of these elever ideas. You may like to take a few of them home with you."

Being sadly in need of entertainment, Mrs. Way-down-blue willingly consented, and was presently amazed at the number of gentle, well-behaved ideas waiting upon Mrs. theery-upheart in her own home. So bright and pleasant they were that Mrs. Way-down-blue was even in danger of forgetting that her name was as one gracious company came after another bearing lighted tapers and roses to the guests, while others foldering and hiding his face, went out lowed with little pats of honey from the well-filled hives in memory's gar-

The steamboat man said he would not, and inquired what the governor meant by asking him such a question. The governor "Because some day that replied: boy may become a governor, and you may want him to pardon you for a crime. One dark, atormy night, many years ago, you stopped your boat on the Mississippi river to take on a load of wood. There was a boy on board who was working his passage from New Orleans to St. Louis, but he was very sick of fever and was lying in a bunk. You had plenty of men to do the work, but you went to that boy with a stick of wood in your hand and drove him with blows and curses out into the wretched night and kept him toiling like a slave until the load was com pleted.
