The Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs voted to exclude colored women's clubs from membership.

A mob at Carrollton, Ga., attempted to take a negro from the jail for the purpose of lynching him, but was prevented by the sheriff, who ordered his deputies to fire, and one man was killed and two wounded.

Professor George D. Herren, former professor of applied Christianity in Iowa College at Grinnell, was expelled from the Congregational body on a charge of "conduct unbecoming a Christian and a gentleman." Evidence was introduced at the trial to show cruel treatment of his "unusually loyal and devout wife," which finally resulted in a divorce proceeding and a legal separation.

The American steamer Northman arrived at Hamburg from Chicago after a passage of 35 days, of which 15 had been occupied traversing the Great Lakes and canals before leaving Quebec for the ocean. The scheme of going through the canals was to give the Northman, which is the first steamer in the new Chicago-Hamburg service to cross the ocean, the maximum cargo to Buffalo, there partly unload, and after passing through the canals, re-load at Montreal. The round trip is expected to take 60 days.

The London chamber of commerce gave a banquet to the delegates of the New York chamber of commerce, many notable people being present. No effort was spared to honor the American guests, and all the speakers expressed the belief that Great Britain and the United States would rule the destinies of the world, and their mutual alliance would always work for peace and the benefit of mankind.

William G. Whitney's Volksfeind, ridden by an American jockey, Lester Reiff, won the English Derby in record time, namely, 2:49 1/2. Another British racing trophy, the Oaks, was won by Cap and Bells, owned by Foxhall P. Keene and ridden by Henry Milton. The owner, horse and jockey are all distinguished Americans, so the victory was not dimmed as it was in the case of the Derby.

Maitre Laborie, the great French advocate and defender of Dreyfus, was entertained at a banquet in London by the Hardwicke society, and over 500 judges, barristers, and solicitors were present. Laborie addressed an eloquent address in English, and the great hall was packed with a tempest of applause.

William J. Dent, alias W. J. Jackson, a nephew of the late "Stonewall" Jackson and a member of a prominent Kentucky family, was sentenced to life imprisonment in the penitentiary at Houston, Tex., for forgery. He forged a pardon for a murderer named Isaac, setting him free, and for this Dent received $10,000. He conceived the idea while serving a sentence in the Texas penitentiary for forgery. He came to Austin, got a copy of a pardon intended for another convict, changed the name and body and had the genuine signature of the governor and secretary of state with a tempest of applause.
