THURSDAY, JULY 18, 1901.

Today's dispatches say that conditions are much improved in the drouth stricken portion of Kansas and there is much better prospect for a corn crop. The hot wave has struck London, the intense heat compelling judges to hold court without robes. Many cases of prostration are recorded.

The text book commission has adopted a new system of text books for use in the public schools. Among others, it is interesting to note that the Monteith geography and the Barnes history have been turned down. These books have been in use in our schools from time immemorial and seemed almost the last link connecting the old with the new. Changes in school books are seldom heralded with glee by those who have to pay for the books, but if the improvement is decided enough, the change is of course, beneficial and necessary.

The Southern Pacific railroad company has gone prohibition. For many years they have forbidden drinking by their employes, especially while on duty. The company is responsible for the acts of its employes and wants no addled heads in charge of any important part of their work. Their latest move is to abolish the saloons on their ferry boats in California, institutions which have been maintained for many years. On August 2 all saloons on the company's ferry boats will be closed. This change is made for the purpose of consistency in its policies.

The early closing movement seems to have reached its consummation. The stores are closing daily, except Saturdays, at 6:30, with one or two exceptions and these are expected to fall into the line of progress with the rest. The inconvenience to our citizens by this procedure is small to begin with and will keep growing less and less as they get more accustomed to the new departure. When it gets firmly fixed in the minds of the individuals that no trading is to be done after 6:30, the trading will be done before that time, nearly if not quite as conveniently as before. The microscopic inconvenience of the new order of things does not begin to compare in importance with the great benefit accorded the clerks and business men by the change. Indeed, the public will be the gainer, by the better quality of service which a rested salesman will be able to render. The change is in the line of progress and conformity with up-to-date methods. Only mossback towns work their salesmen and business men from morning to the middle of the night and Grants Pass is not that.

School boards are sometimes lax in their manner of obtaining school paraphernalia. For instance, an agent for some chart, globe or other apparatus, has been known to canvass the board individually and place orders on that authority and even to work up an order out of a mutual indecision of the separated members of the board. In consideration of this, there is a section of the school law which should be more generally known. Paragraph 17 of section 48, title VI. of the school laws of Oregon says:

"Duty must be performed at a regular meeting—

Any duty imposed upon the board as a body must be performed at a regular or special meeting, and must be made a matter of record. The consent to any particular measure obtained of individual members when not in session is not an act of the board, and is not binding upon the district. If a contract is made without authority of the board, the individual making such contract shall be personally liable.

The question of the indicumbrance of the present method of timber protection is attaining some prominence at present. The Courier has several times in the past, spoken in protest of the present shortsighted method pursued for the purpose of the preservation of timber. In areas timbered heavily with resinous trees, the accumulation of inflammable matter is something tremendous. At present, after only a few years of "protection," the rangers are able to extinguish the fires as they arise. After some 20 or 30 years of accumulations of fallen timber, limbs, dead foliage and all manner of quickly inflammable debris, it will be quite another matter. Then when a fire starts, it will quickly pass beyond all control and will sweep everything in its path. We have all read in the histories of forest fires in the earliest states. We have never yet experienced them here but that is no reason why we should not profit by the lessons of others. It is an old saying that you must fight fire with fire. If the rangers were employed to fire the ground judiciously and intelligently each year all danger would be eliminated. It is true that there would be a smoky season, in the dryest of years, but there are worse things than smoke, as for instance, whatever is destroying all timber to which the present system leads. An annual fire would not develop enough heat to scorch a standing. There is little danger that we will ever employ an army of fifteen rangers large enough to police our vast timbered areas thoroughly enough so that fires will never get started. It is very likely that those who direct the governmental policies in this regard have little or no practical experience or knowledge of the subject. Under the present system future destructive fires seem as certain as fate.

In the proposed revision of forest reserves, there is a proposition to create a reserve in Josephine and Curry counties. The line of the proposed reserve in Josephine county starts at the California line and runs north on the west line of range 8 to about the south line of township 38, then east to the next range line of township 34, then west to the west line of range 8 and north on that line to the north line of township 39 in Douglas county. In this county it is virtually that part which does not appear on the official map. It is mostly very rough and mountainous, containing little or no agricultural land and its timber has no market value on account of its unaccessibility, except, perhaps, in some few localities. There are many valuable mineral deposits included in the area of the reserve. This is only a proposition as yet and now is the time for those who are interested to consider the matter and decide whether or not they favor creating such reserve. It will be observed by reference to the map that nearly all of Josephine creek and the entire Galice district as well as Briggs creek, Silver creek, Red Dog and all the lower Illinois and Rogue river districts are included in the above reserves. The region is valuable for nothing but mineral and we certainly object to shutting off so great an area of mineral land from the public. What possible benefit otherwise than to a few graziers could ensue by reserving this land does not appear. It comprises some of the roughest country in the United States, but is rich in mineral. If the people do not want this reserve, now is the time to shout, while it is only a proposition and not a reality.

Senator Booth Complimented.

Senator R. A. Booth is constantly in receipt of letters from prominent men all over the state urging him to allow his name to be used in connection with the Republican candidacy for governor. While this is certainly very complimentary to Mr. Booth, who no doubt would fill that responsible position as wisely and as well as any other citizen of the state, and whose integrity, honesty, and loyalty to interests makes him one of the foremost citizens of the state, he positively declines to give the matter any consideration whatever. Mr. Booth is a busy man, and the extensive interests of the Booth Kelly Co. command so much of his attention that, even if assured the nomination, he could not accept. Mr. Booth has many Lane county friends who would take pleasure in seeing him thus honored.—Eugene Register.

Ball Game.

A large crowd went to Ashland Sunday to witness the return game between the Grants Pass and Ashland teams. The result was a decided victory for the Grants Pass nine by a score of 11 to 8. Only for a few lucky batting streak by which they secured six runs in one inning, the score for the Ashland boys would have been nine inlead. Ashland played four men from Ignoria, but proved little Cherubs. The Ignoria men were heavy batters but their fielding was out of the line.

It was a good game to attend from here if it had been played any other day except on Sunday. Rawlins as a Sunday shallow cannot stanley the agonizing pleasure of those who have not worked for the day. It is a very well kind of an way discovering to those who believe in Sunday quiet.

Arrangements are being made for a game between the Grants Pass and Ignoria teams and it will probably take place here. Ignoria is one of the strong ball teams in northern California. The club has also a proposition on hand from Medford and the game will be a hotly contested one.

Roseburg Street Fair.

At a mass meeting of business men held in Roseburg it was decided to hold a street fair and carnival September 17-20 and to give an entertainment on a much larger and more extensive scale than the successful street fair of last Fall. W. S. Hamilton was elected president of the association, F. W. Rauch, secretary, and S. Josephson, treasurer. Committees were appointed and instructed to begin work at once.

The readers of this paper will be glad to learn that there is at least one disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Trout for Oregon.

The planting of trout in the streams of this state is being continued by the Oregon Fish and Game association. Last week 10,000 eastern brook trout were planted in Cox creek, Linn county, 12 or 15 miles from Albany. The association still has about 100,000 speckled trout and 20,000 rainbow trout which were hatched at the government hatchery on the Clackamas. It is trying to get another lot of eggs to be hatched in time to be planted this fall, and the prospects are favorable for securing them. If the commission is able to keep up the good work it will have the streams of this state pretty well stocked with trout after a while. Its efforts in this line are limited to the introduction of trout, having been advised by the United States fish commission that there is danger that black bass, if introduced, might prove destructive to young salmon. The association has gone to a large expense in this matter of introducing trout. From the Clackamas station hatches the eggs free of expense, it costs a good deal to get the eggs here and also to distribute the young fish after they are hatched. The association also has to pay for caring for and feeding the young fry until they are large enough to plant out which is when they are from 4 to 5 months old.

Peculiar Accident.

Fred Snyder, while working a scraper in his road district in Lake County last week met with a peculiar and painful accident. He stooped over to lift the scraper and to doing so his spinal column separated and he became helpless, causing him to suffer great agony. A physician replaced the column and the patient is recovering.—Medford Mail.

Ball Games and Band Contests.

The Southern Oregon Fair Board met in Medford July 13, and decided to amend the premium list heretofore adopted. It was shown that by eliminating the races, which would be expensive, the added expense on premiums could be provided for. Among the new features decided upon were two baseball contests. Purses of $60 will be offered, the games to take place on the Ashland ground. Medford will play Ash'and September 18, and Grants Pass and Eagle Point will meet September 19. The base ball nines will choose the umpires. Each game must be to a finish. No money will be paid except upon the umpire's certificate. The victorious teams will play for a purse of $75 September 20. A band contest is to take place September 19 for a purse of $150, $100 being the first prize and $50 the second. All bands within the district are eligible. There will be no entry fee. One member of each band will be chosen to select judge.

Oil Boring Progress

Operations at the site of the Southern Oregon Oil Co.'s new oil boring plant have been steadily pushed during the past week, and some minor trouble incident to the starting of new machinery have been experienced. The drill pounded along in blue clay until about 45 feet down when a formation was reached which is thought to be an old river bed. It was a gravel drift which closed over the opening made by the drile as it went down. It was found necessary to case through this quicksand which has been done and good progress is now confidently expected. Water has been encountered and colors of gold are frequent. Just as soon as things are in steady working order, Manager Whitney intends to put on a night shift and push the work as fast as possible. Expert J. B. Treadwell, who accompanied Messrs Guggenheim and Mack on their visit here, gave it as his opinion that oil would be struck at a depth of 1500 feet.—Ashland Tidings.

Rogue River Hatchery.

During the past year about 4,000,000 salmon eggs have been taken at the Rogue river fish hatchery. Of these, about 2,500,000 eggs were retained and hatched at the station, where the young salmon were fed until they were three or four inches in length before being planted in the river. A full million of the eggs taken were silver salmon and steelhead trout. All of the silver salmon were planted in Rogue river, as were also about one half of the steelheads. The other half were shipped to various points in the east, one shipment being made to Tuxedo Park, the famous resort near New York city. Another year's work will begin at the hatchery this month.

"Out of Sorts."

Nothing more good. Nothing more pleasant. The mind is dull and sluggish. The will is weak. Little things cause great irritation. What's the matter? The probabilities are that the stomach is deranged and the liver involved.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes a man who is run down and discouraged feel like a new being. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, stirs the sluggish liver into action, and increases the activity of the blood-making glands, so that there is an abundant supply of pure, rich blood.

Mr. Edward Jacobs, of Marengo Crawford Co., Indiana, writes: "After three years of suffering with liver trouble and malaria I gave up all hopes of ever getting well. Had tried almost all the home doctors and consulted the best local. After taking three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and one vial of his 'Pleasant Pellets' I was well and strong. It is the remedy to cure wonderful testimony."

Scalded to Death.

One of the saddest occurrences which has ever taken place in Grants Pass, happened on Saturday. The little four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Diedrich, lately from Montague, Cal. was scalded to death in a tub of boiling water. Mrs. Diedrich had arisen early to do some washing and had filled a tub with hot water. The little girl, who was supposed to be still in bed, came in to the room in the absence of her mother and fell into the tub. Though terrible burned before being rescued, she lived for several hours. On the following day the child's body was taken back to Montague.

Letter from Mr. Cords.

D. A. Cords writes from San Francisco concerning the pine needle industry and corrects certain errors which have been published in the Scientific American and other publications. He says:

"One of the most glaring errors is that Oregon pine needles grow to be 30 inches long, one half of this will be nearer the mark. Then the yield of oil in 2000 lbs. of need es is given as 12 lbs., when its actual proportion is less than one tenth of this figure. The statement that our fiber is mostly made from the needles of the sugar pine has already been corrected by you. That the steaming and rolling of the needles does not leave the fiber practically ready for use, should also be known, as the former go through several more processes before they are converted into fiber. It is also misleading to state that our cough candy, syrup, toilet preparations, soap etc. are made from fiber, for they are not. All of them are products of the needles, as is the fiber, but separate and distinct ones."

Mr. and Mrs. Cords were just finishing a fine display of their goods for exhibition during the Epworth League convention and will open the eyes of the Easterners to what the industry has already accomplished. Up to this time 18 different articles are manufactured from pine needles.

As soon as the convention adjourns, Mr. and Mrs. Cords expect to return to Grants Pass and will bring an assortment of all of their products. The machinists strike interferes with the filling of their orders for new machinery.

Leland Sittings.

B. F. Moss, Kinney's boss swamper, is laid out for repairs.

We see no Hugo items lately. We sincerely hope the writer is not in poor health.

The hay crop is about all secured, G. W. Chapin says he will soon begin on his second crop.

I was passing G. W. Chapin's blackberry patch the other day and they are the finest I have seen in the country.

Judge Crockett and wife were seen on our streets one day last week, visiting their son Robert, the section foreman.

We have no sickness to report. We still have a few widows and also a few girls that would change their condition if the right fellows would come this way.

We think the ticket seller is not selling as many tickets to Grants Pass as he formerly did. As we have two general merchandise stores and they claim to sell as cheap as they do at Grants Pass, that will keep our trade at home.

Business is good at Kinneyville. Kinney & Cox are delivering a large amount of railroad wood. The railroad sent a train here to take away wood. It stayed only a week, then it was ordered away to take wood from other landings. So the landing ground will soon be filled, then the teams and men will be idle again.

We are having nice balmy, bracing weather, fine for the laboring man; not too warm, and cool nights, so people can rest. When we think of the extremely hot weather and also of the many mosquitos that troubled us when we lived in Canada, we can appreciate this climate. I find by talking with people I have become acquainted with here in Oregon, that have come from different states that they say they will never go back to live in that cold country.

Several quartz prospectors have come in for supplies. They have brought in some good rock. Some of it shows free gold and some that is rich in sulphurets. In order to make a success of working our ore and also to stimulate prospecting we must have a smelter and taking this consideration the extent of the mineral belt of this district there is much encouragement for the erection of a mill to treat sulphurets. Leland would be a central place. We think an enterprise would find plenty of business here. Rex.

Hugo

In the Hugo at present, I thought I'd write to the paper to satisfy Boy's Nr. B-B, it is not for the want of news that the Hugo writer has been writing. Hugo is the liveliest place between San Francisco & Portland and will be the junction of railroad and stage lines for the living and the wagon lines for fun and sun.

We are expecting a crowd of sailors and poets at Hugo to spend their summer vacation. An artist could just wish or whatever should be used to portray the exquisite than to stand dumb to the Hugo scenery and it is just the place for a novel writer to get all the characters he could let a romantic novel.

Jamestown is running on time to perfection. Miss McKinzy has been quite sick but is improving. Her mother and sister are with her.

Miss Vassey and Mrs. Martin, who were sent to the local Salvation Hospital at Portland are improving.

Mrs. Neely is still ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Kowe.

Mrs. Crow is visiting Mrs. Sanders at Dimmel's.

Mrs. Lynch & Son returned from California to visit her relatives at Hugo.

The Salvation gentlemen held an excellent meeting at the residence of Mr. Hudson Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Lizzie Schaffer is visiting Mrs. Baldwin.

Mr. Ralph Cox was on the streets of Hugo Sunday.

The Leland correspondent is quite poetical in the description of Leland last week.

SOUTHERN OREGON MINES.

Rapid and Gratifying Development of Many New Quartz Properties.

The Telegram has the following article relative to some of the mining properties of southern Oregon:

Philip Robinson, who has been operating the newly discovered Hunt's ledge on Foots' Creek, a few miles east of Grants Pass, had a test run made of two tons of ore from his mine yesterday. The returns showed $80. This ledge is a wide and permanent one and will develop into a valuable property.

John Simmons, of the Whitney ledge, in the same district, had four tons of his ore milled from which gold to the amount of $125 was received. This, too, is another of the recent discoveries on Foots' Creek and promises to become a big and rich thing.

A new ledge known as the Horseshoe has been discovered on Foots' Creek, the property of Ward, Wiggins & Silsby, of Grants Pass. The vein carries gold values running $50 to the ton free-milling. The operators are erecting a new stamp mill to handle the ore from their property, and intend to work the Horseshoe to its full capacity.

The Roaring Gimblet, which has yielded so much money, continues to show up gold in a most fabulous way. During the past few days many pans of dirt have been removed from the gimblet, which produced $50 in gold each. Miningmen who have visited the mine of late have concluded that there is more there than a mere pocket.

The rich mining property of Fitzgibbon & Son, of Foots' Creek, has been purchased by Y. T. Blake, cashier of the First National Bank, San Francisco. Blake is at present visiting his newly-acquired property, arranging for further development and looking out for other mines to buy.

W. H. Dana, of the Copper Stain mine of the Mt. Reuben district, arrived in Grants Pass today, reports that things are humming industriously at the Copper Stain. This celebrated mine is the property of J. H. Wetherell & Co. Many hundred feet of tunnels and shafts have been sunk in the Copper Stain in the process of bringing the rich ore to the surface. The ore has an assay value of from $20 to $35 to the ton, mostly sulphurets. The rock is very hard and besides gold carries copper and silver, the latter metal being an uncommon occurrence in Southern Oregon mines.

Rich samples of ore were brought in two days ago from the Blue Ledge, situated on Joe Creek. The ledge from which the ore is taken is a wide one, being in many places, 300 feet across. Gold values of $60 to the ton are carried in the vein, besides a 30 per cent showing of copper. The companies having charge of the several claims of the district are doing heavy development work. They claim they will make one of the biggest mines in Southern Oregon out their property, which claims are not without foundation, as the ledge, to be of such value, is of exceptional width.

New School Readers.

There are six books in the new series of readers adopted for Oregon public schools, starting with the primer and ending with the fifth reader. It supersedes the Barnes series of five books. The state contract price for the five books was $3; recently they have been selling for $2.65. The retail prices of the new six-book series is $2.55. Exchange price is half as much.

There was no primer in the old series of readers. The new adoption is Wheeler's primer, it is printed on the best quality of coated paper from clean, new type, and is profusely illustrated. These pictures are in every way admirable. They are filled with humor, which will make them quite irresistible to the little ones. The book does not start off with the traditional alphabet, indeed a segregated alphabet does not appear in it at all.

The first reader starts with words and sentences, and, in the spelling list are companying each lesson the silent letters are in italic. There is an appropriate illustration for every lesson. In the spelling lists the pronunciation is indicated by the same system of diacritical marks that is used in Webster's dictionaries. Several pages of word lists are in the back of the book.

The second reader is upon the same plan as the first book. Of the 32 numbers in the table of contents, seven are devoted to the poets Longfellow and Whittier, half to each. The remainder are miscellaneous selections. The word lists, syllabicated and with diacritical marks, appear in the back of the book. Illustrations are not a conspicuous feature of this book as in the first reader, but they are of the highest merit.

Lowell, Holmes and Lucy H. appear conspicuously in the third reader, which is also the first one in the second reader. The same general plan is followed.

In the fourth reader [illegible] appears a group of poets, as does the [illegible].

In the fifth reader [illegible] appears a group of poets, as does the [illegible].

It is unnecessary to make a criticism of the books, as they are all right. The various selections are well chosen, etc., for various grades. A glance at the contents suggests to the teacher leaves the matter of [illegible] instructive expression in that [illegible]. These readers do not promise to be a bulwark of strength.—Dayton Item.
