Nye Mine Robbed.

The Bill Nye mine on Galle Creek, four miles South of Gold Hill, owned by Nye & Wortman of Medford, has been robbed of ore, the value of which was undoubtedly over $5,000. The loss was discovered the fore part of this week but there is no way of obtaining the exact amount that has been extracted from the tunnel. The mine was not being worked but was securely locked. The robbers were well prepared to execute the deed and an immense amount of very rich ore was easily within reach when the tunnel had once been entered. The loss was not discovered until a day or so after the robbery, giving the perpetrators ample time to cover up any clue. A trail of ore was followed for a mile down the creek, this dropping from a sack as it was carried away. Here all evidence comes to an end and as yet nothing further has been found on which to work.

The owners of the property offer a reward of $1,000 for the capture and conviction of the robbers.—Town Talk.

The Grants Pass Banking & Trust Co. is now located in its new building on 6th street and although workmen are still busy putting on the finishing touches the bank is doing an immense amount of business. The vault is made especially large and safety deposit boxes will be put in as soon as the masonry is sufficiently dried. These boxes are supplied with two keys, one for the customer, the other for cashier, and both are necessary to open the box. This, discloses a metal box which can be removed and taken to a person's place of business if the customer does not wish to look over his valuables at the bank. The cost of a box is $2 a year. The bank has inaugurated a number of departments which are appreciated by the business men and they have gained business by so doing.

DIED.

BOOTH—At his home in Grants Pass, Ore., Thursday, October 3, Rev. Charles Booth, rector of the Episcopal church, aged 62 years.

The announcement of the death of the Rev. Booth was a shock to the residents of this place as he was not supposed to be in a dangerous condition until the day of his death, few of our people knowing he was ill, he being confined to the home only about a week. The funeral services were held at St. Luke's Episcopal church Sunday afternoon, conducted by the Right Reverend B. Westor Morris, bishop of Oregon, and Rev. John Dawson, of Roseburg. The church was crowded to the doors and scores of people could not gain admittance. Flowers were abundant, tributes being sent from all the valley towns where Mr. Booth was so well known and universally revered. The entire family of the deceased, numbering nine children were present, a son coming from Newport and a daughter from Seattle. The body lay in state at the church for several hours before the funeral and scores of people called to pay a last tribute to the departed. His death is universally mourned as he was a kind, cultured, Christian gentleman, beloved by all who knew him.
