It has been determined at the War Department to send troops to the Philippines to take the place of those whose term of enlistment expires. Where the re-enlistments are not large in any one regiment their places will be filled by separate detachments of recruits. If any considerable number of enlistments expire in a single organization, it is probable that the organization as a whole will be returned from the Philippines and another regiment sent to take its place.

In the house of representatives that will convene in December, less than one-fourth of the membership will be of new material. Only eighty four new men were elected last fall. Many of these, however, are already coming to Washington to acquaint themselves with the new president, with department officials and routine and to secure living quarters for the session. Nearly all the new members are from the northern and eastern states. The south and west both have a custom of holding on to efficient congressmen and last year a majority of the states in those sections re-elected their solid delegations.

The Schley Court of Inquiry is experiencing a longer search of the facts in the Santiago Naval campaign than the campaign required in the finding, blockading and smashing of Cervera's fleet. The testimony against Admiral Schley's contentions in the case, is not yet concluded, and the end thereof not even in sight. So far public opinion seems to be leaning scarcely altered by the testimony, and everybody outside the case is waiting to hear the Schley side of it. Only one sentiment is common and that is that the great victory ever degenerated into so unavailing a conflict between high naval officials. The Court itself, presided over by Admiral Dewey, is unostentatiously prying for its impartiality and purpose to reach a true finding.

Secretary Gage is quoted in dispatches from Colorado, where he is visiting, as predicting the retirement from the cabinet at an early date, of Secretary of State, Hay. Such an event would not be surprising. The secretary is in hearty accord with the proclaimed policy of President Roosevelt, undoubtedly, but both his health and his personal inclinations, impel him to forego further official cares. He does not feel that his services are indispensable to the new administration and he is tired of the spiteful misrepresentations of which he has been a constant victim to the partisan yellow journals.

As he fortune and quiet tastes public office is a burden rather than a grace to him. However, he is likely to remain in his present office until the senate disposes of the several treaties, which he has negotiated and to the explication and defense of which he is officially committed. On his retirement, it is generally assumed that he will be succeeded by Secretary Root, now at the head of the war department.

A strong movement is being inaugurated in this city and is to be extended throughout the country, to the end of having the projected bridge across the Potomac, converted into a magnificent McKinley memorial bridge. It is deemed a most appropriate form of honoring the martyred president, as it will constitute a great connecting link between the national district and northern section of the country and the great south. The remarkable manifestations of personal affection and regret made throughout the south, upon the occasion of President McKinley's assassination and death, have emphasized, in the public appreciation, his patriotic efforts to stamp out sectionalism and to make the southern people feel themselves real and equal co-partners in the nation's government and glory. A meeting in furtherance of this important project will be held on October 19th, and through it, the movement, it is hoped, will gain an impetus that will carry the idea into splendid and speedy realization. It is not doubted that congress will be favorable to the noble scheme.

One-fourth of Oregon's exhibit at Buffalo are to be shipped to Charleston, S. C. next month, and these will all be placed under one head. The Buffalo Exposition is to close November 1, and the Charleston exhibition will be ready for visitors December 1. There will thus be about a month devoted to removal and restituting the exhibits according to the calculations of the Pan American Commission. In making the changes to South Carolina but three of Superintendent Duch's assistants are to be retained. The State Legislature appropriated $2,000 for the Buffalo exhibit, but only $900 for the South Carolina enterprise, so expenses must be cut down very materially to keep within the appropriation. The financial management of the exhibit at Buffalo has been such that a small sum is still on hand after providing for the payment of all bills. Yet Oregon's exhibit in many respects was considered superior to that of any other state, and the number of first premiums has been very gratifying to the commission. "In fact we will carry off more medals than any state," one of the commissioners said. "In forestry, horticulture, agriculture, lumber and wool we are away in the lead of more pretentious states, and the advertising Oregon is receiving as a result will have far-reaching benefits. The scarcity of literature has handicapped us somewhat, but what reading matter we sent has been wisely distributed by Mr. Doech.

WASHINGTON LETTER.
Washington, Oct. 7th, 1901.
The modest little Dutch reform church chosen by President Roosevelt as his place of worship is to profit largely by his preference. The members of his denomination throughout the Union are raising a fund of $50,000 with which to erect a more commodious and stately church on the ground now so humbly occupied. President Van Buren was the only other member of this particular communion who has occupied the presidential office. In his day there was no society of the church, or church building of the name, at the national capital. President Roosevelt's selection of the church is likely to give vogue to the denomination during his term of office and the prospects now are that the society will become a strong and notable factor in the religious life of the city.

The independence which characterizes President Roosevelt seems also to obtain in his family. Mrs. Roosevelt is a loyal communicant of the Protestant Episcopal church, and has been granted possession of the famous "presidential pew" in historic old St. John's church, on Lafayette Square. That pew has been occupied by six of the nine Presidents who were members of that religious denomination. Washington, Madison and Monroe served their terms before St. John's obtained the title of "The President's Church," but Wm. Henry Harrison, his successor, John Tyler, Taylor, Fillmore, Pierce and Arthur, worshipped in the edifice, and so gave it the distinction which in part, Mrs. Roosevelt will renew to it.

That part of the social contingent which has returned from the summer resorts has had two topics of interesting gossip, one, the marriage of Miss Helen Morton, daughter of former vice president, Levi P. Morton, to the Comte de Perigord at Sagan, of France. Miss Morton was well known and greatly admired here and is deemed well worthy of a noble husband and an ideal wedded life. Many congratulations were cabied from official and social leaders of this city. The other and more sensational item is that Chauncey—our Chauncey—as the nation calls him, and "De Peach," as the Bowers elite dub him, is to be married again—soon, and sure and safe enough. The statesman, orator, wit and wealth maker has surrendered to the charms of Miss May Palmer, a Knickerbocker southern belle, whose beauty, wit, diplomacy and American womanliness are celebrated on the two continents of Europe and America. Of course the coming season will bring the senator's bride to grace his capitol home and to adorn the highest official and social circles. This elect are all agog to see her, and refuse to believe that the alleged portraits of her in the newspapers do her any sort of justice. When the senator does come upon the scene, he will need his readiest repartee to ward off the merry jibes of his host of admirers.

Co. as foreman at their different mills for a number of years past. Since the mills shut down he had been working at the Harvey mine at Galice. The remains were taken to Jacksonville Monday, where his family lives, for interment.

Roseburg City Election.
The city election held on Monday passed off quietly, a total of about 220 votes being cast. The result was as follows:

Wooley, Marshall Dillard and Treasurer Cochran. Those continuing in office are: Councilmen F. P. Brown, H. Wollenberg (re-elected), John Metz, W. J. Lander, P. Bendick, Recorder West, re-elected.

Pine Needle Enterprise.
Down at Grants Pass is located a manufactory that, for uniqueness beats anything in the country. The pine needles, products of the big forests in that section, are made to contribute largely to the science of medicine and to the wants of man.
The Pacific Pine Needle Co. of which D. A. Cords is president, is making from this element of nature's production, medicinal soap, a cough cure, Ponderosa, a cure for rheumatism, Pinules, pine needle oil and pine needle balm, the latter as palatable a sweet as the sweetest girl in the country could wish for. And the output finds ready sale in the markets of the world. At the Pan-American exposition an exhibit of pine needle products captured a gold medal.
On his last trip south Hon. R. A. Booth was presented with a box of these new scientific contributions to Oregon production and his office looked like a pharmacy the other day when he spread them out for inspection of a Register reporter—Eugene Register.

Reports have been rife on the streets of Ashland to the effect that the oil sands had been successfully tapped at the drill of the Southern Oregon Oil Co., on the Alford place near town, and much excitement has been caused by them. These reports probably grow out of the fact that the oil seepages, which have been encountered for the past ten days or more have continued, and if anything, have grown stronger. A visit to the well shows that the work of drilling is going on with the usual activity and that the drill is making most satisfactory progress. At no time during the operations have the prospects of ultimately successfully tapping the oil sands appeared so favorable as now. Last week the well had been dug and cased to a depth of 815 feet and the bit was drilling through a cretaceous sandstone. A sulphuriferous brackish water had been run across, which when taken from the well had the appearance of soap suds. Two California experts who visited the property say that in all their experience with drilling operations they had never seen a hole dug in which the indications of finally striking oil were so beneficial as at the Alford place; and they believed the drill was now very close to oil. On to-day the drill had worked to a depth of 530 feet and was still pounding through the cretaceous sandstone at a rapid rate. The work of the past few days has been quite hard on the bit, it having to be sharpened and put into condition for effective work at frequent intervals.—Tidings—Oct. 10.

Work proceeds on the Ashland mine with a full crew. The main double compartment shaft is down 770 feet and sinking on the ledge continues. The ledge maintains its size of 7 to 8 feet in thickness, and there is no diminution of the ore. There is plenty of good free-milling ore of rather good grade for so large a property. No shipments of base ore have been made for some time, and everything is being put through the mill here. Drifting is being done at the 700-foot level, and ore is being stoped at that level. A 28 pound brick was shipped from a clean-up the other day. The mine's business cannot all be made public for manifold reasons, but it may be affirmed that it is making a good income on a very large capitalization, and has proven a very satisfactory property to its owners. The gold now runs about $14.50 per ounce, the reduced value being due to the presence of silver. There is no important change in the mechanical operation of the mine. A station pump has been placed at the 700-foot level. There has never been much trouble occasioned by the water in this mine, and the existing facilities render its operations relatively convenient and free from accidents. The timbering and structural work is all of a substantial character. Some surface improvements are being made on the claim, principally the construction of a new road. The wall rock at the lowest levels attained in this mine continue to be granite.—Town Talk.

Electroaction of Czolgosz.
Cornelius V. Collins, superintendent of the Auburn State Prison, will send a request to Secretary of State Hay to designate an official representative of the Government to be present at the electroaction of Czolgosz, the murderer of President McKinley. Only 26 witnesses will be present in the chamber of death when the sentence is executed. It was stated at the department of prisons today that reports that Czolgosz is in a continuous state of collapse, and that he breaks down and weeps every time anything is said to him concerning the electroaction, are false. Superintendent Collins had a talk with the condemned man some days ago. Czolgosz expressed no fear as to the electroaction, but said he would not care to go outside of the prison, for he believed the people would kill him.
Since his confinement in Auburn several thousand letters have been received for him at the prison, as well as a large number of express packages containing flowers and fruit. The letters, flowers and fruit have never reached the condemned man. The flowers and fruit, it is learned, have been sent by Christian

LOVE HIS UNDOING.
New York Chinaman Wins Bride But Loses His Business.
Fair One in China Draws Him Back to Flowery Kingdom and in His Absence a Prosperous Business Becomes Bankrupt.
The first business failure has occurred in New York's Chinatown. The old grocery house of the Wing Wo Hing company has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $7,463, and assets of $2,913. Many Chinese merchants were "caught" for various small amounts in the financial crash of this old house, which had been doing business for nearly 15 years.
If the head of the firm, Lee Young Ling, had not loved a beautiful celestial maiden in the distant flowery province of Kong Tong the failure probably would never have taken place. At least he thinks so, and declares that while he was away wooing and marrying the girl of his choice in China his partners injured the business.
Lee Lung Ling came here from China nearly 17 years ago, leaving behind him the beautiful Suey Sing. He promised that he would return with a fortune in ten years and claim her hand. Just 15 years from the day of his leaving taking her returned to Kong Tong and his fiancée welcomed him with open arms, and they were soon married, to the joy of their parents and friends. Before going away Ling had taken into partnership with him his manager, Lee Tan Ying and young Lum Gee, his bookkeeper. They ran the business while he was gone. Just before the Chinese New Year Ling landed in New York and found that his firm owed everyone from whom they could get credit. Most of the creditors were small Chinese merchants, but a few of them were Americans. They were clamoring for their money. Ling was forced to tell the creditors that the firm would have to go into bankruptcy and be sold out for their benefit.
