BABY LAUGH
It belongs to health, for a baby, to eat and sleep, to laugh and grow fat.
But fat comes first; don't task
a scrawny baby to laugh; Why, even his smile is pitiful! Fat comes first.
The way to be fat is the way to be healthy. Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil is the prop-

a little at a time.
We'll send you a trial to try it you like.

Washington Letter.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 17, 1902.
Ash Wednesday brought to a close one of the gayest seasons Washington has known in many years. Since that date comparatively small and informal entertainments have replaced the brilliant functions of the earlier season but today everyone is on the qui vive in anticipation of the historic performance which will present to an ultra-fashionable audience the flower of the capital's debutantes and dames in theatricals and tableaux. Fabulous prices have been paid for boxes and the long list of patronesses, which is headed by Mrs. Roosevelt's name and includes those of the leaders of society, insure a gratifying success.
The feature of the entertainment will be the presentation of "The Reward of Amartyllis," written by Mrs. Burton Harrison, with Miss Jennie Pearce, of Boston, in the leading role. Mrs. Harrison has come to Washington to direct the presentation. The proceeds will, of course, be devoted to charity.
Another notable event in the interest of charity of equal social importance will be the lecture on the evening of February 20th, on "King Lear" by Dr. D. J. Stafford, the famous Shakespearean interpreter who sacrificed what would have been a brilliant histrionic career to enter the Roman Catholic priesthood. Mrs. Roosevelt's name also heads the list of patronesses for this event.
The news that the Italian Ambassador and Signora des Planches will soon occupy the handsome residence recently purchased by Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst, is greeted most cordially by society. The Hearst home is one of the most beautiful residences in the city and, as the ambassador is fond of entertaining and is already a favorite, it is anticipated that his new home will prove another of those charming rendezvous for which Washington is famous. The former Ambassador, Baron de Fava, usually resided in New York.
To satisfy a general curiosity as to the costume which will be worn by the American representatives at the coronation of Edward VII, I have ascertained at the state department that it will consist of ordinary evening dress, except that knee breeches and black silk stockings will be worn in lieu of trousers. This costume was agreed upon many years ago in a conference between the state department and the British Foreign office court. The Americans will be the only persons so attired, all others not in uniform being required to appear in court dress with sword, hat, sword, etc. The United States' naval and army officers will, of course, wear full uniform.
Since the passage, by the house of representatives of the majority anti-oleomargarine bill no legislation of importance has been undertaken by that body; but today the repeal of the war revenue taxes will be taken up. Much interest centers in the ways and means committee which will take up the question of Cuban reciprocity today. I saw Chairman Payne this morning but could refer to him only the fact that the committee would see what it could do without injury to American interests. There is no doubt that a majority of the committee is opposed to granting any concessions, on principle, but the pressure from the White House and from the senate end of the capital is so strong that some measure will probably be reported.
The Philippines bill is still under consideration in the senate and some time has been devoted to the permanent census bill. The former, and possibly the latter, will probably be disposed of this week.
The president is again at the White House and is completing his verdict in the Schley case which will probably be made public soon.
A vigorous effort is being made in the house of representatives to secure the passage of a bill providing for a department of mines and mining and Representative S. D. Woods, of California, the author of the bill, is leaving no stone unturned to secure that end. The measure providing for the establishment of a department of commerce and labor seems likely to pass the present session and makes Mr. Woods all the more certain that he can secure the present passage of his bill. Speaking on the subject today he said, "There is every reason why the government should recognize the importance of this industry by establishing a department to represent it with a cabinet officer at its head. The mining interests of the country produced wealth in 1899 to the amount of $975,000,000. Is that not reason enough in itself why there should be a department to represent these gigantic interests? Again there are hundreds of thousands of men employed in the mines of the country. Their interests should be safeguarded as only a department of the government can guard them. We have a department of agriculture to watch over and protect the interests of the farmers, to investigate improved methods, to determine what are worthy of adoption and what are not, and so save the farmers themselves millions of dollars. This department further investigates foreign markets. Why should not the mining interests have all these helps and safeguards? They deserve them. They contribute millions to the wealth of the country and they deserve recognition and the greatest possible protection that the government can afford them. The addition of an immense area of new territory in the Philippines, Porto Rico, etc., all of it doubtless rich in mineral wealth, is an added reason for the establishment of such a department."
Because of the apparently widely entertained opinion that the oleomargarine bill reported by the minority of the house committee on agriculture and championed by Representative Wade-worth, was inimical to the dairy interests, I called on the latter yesterday and requested him to explain the situation from his standpoint.

"My position," said Mr. Wade, "is that the minority bill would have proved more efficacious in the prevention of the fraudulent sale of oleomargarine and that it was an infinitely more just, less inequitable and less pernicious form of legislation. The minority bill would have accomplished every purpose and would have been free from the legitimate criticism which will be applied to the majority measure."
"I am a butter maker myself," continued Mr. Wade, "and part owner in two creameries and my constituents are largely dairymen but I have no fear of going before them on this issue and, when they understand the provisions of the two bills I am confident that they will approve of my course."

Grand Scenery of Shasta Route.
In going over the famous "Shasta Route" of the Southern Pacific Co. the traveler ever finds something new to excite his admiration and interest. Starting at Portland, one traverses the whole length of the Willamette Valley, the gem of the Northwest. Mt. Hood, Mt. Jefferson, and the Three Sisters and other snow-capped peaks are kept in sight for hours. The beautiful valleys of the Umpqua and Rogue Rivers, with their orchards of pines, peaches, apples, and other fruits are a delight in themselves. The crossing of the great mountain barrier between Oregon and California reveals the grandest mountain scenery in the United States. The wonderful turnings, twistings, and doublings of the railroad bring into view a grand array of towering mountains and profound gorges into which we gaze from dizzy heights, forest clad mountain slopes stretching up to the line of perpetual snow, and the foaming mountain streams dashing down deep canyons, now and then stopping for a short rest in some quiet pool. After a day's enjoyment of old Mt. Shasta, the finest peak on the continent, we drop rapidly down the canyon of the Sacramento to the broad plains of the Sacramento Valley in California, and thence through vineyards and orchards to San Francisco.

Smith's Spray Formula.
Hon. E. L. Smith, of Hood River, has given to the fruit growers of the country his formula for a spray which he says his long experience in apple growing teaches him is the most effective protection to orchards against pests. It is here with given.
Mr. Smith's opinions on all subjects connected with our fruit culture are worthy of acceptance, for he is in this, as in all other relations to public interests, as well as private life, an intelligent, persevering, worthy man. He is not alone a theoretical experimenter for he has labored with his hands in his orchards for many years, demonstrating with high degree of intelligence the many different methods of treatment of orchards, young and old, involving such questions as preparation of the soil, planting, cultivation, pruning, spraying, etc., until his knowledge is practical in the most literal sense, and this is why his opinions have, and should have, great weight with those who are interested in the production of fruit, especially apples, either as producers themselves or as citizens of Oregon, in maintaining the high standard of merit the Oregon apples have attained.
The efforts of such men are invaluable in the development of our state, and will be inseparable from its future history. The formula:
White arsenic, one pound; sal soda, two pounds; bell for 15 minutes, or until the liquid becomes clear; add

MOTHERHOOD
The greatest ambition of American men and women is to have homes blessed with children. The woman afflicted with female disease is constantly menaced with becoming a childless wife. No medicine can restore dead organs, but Wine of Cardui does regulate derangements that prevent conception; does prevent miscarriage; does restore weak functions and shattered nerves and does bring babies to homes barren and desolate for years. Wine of Cardui gives women the health and strength to bear healthy children. You can get a dollar bottle of Wine of Cardui from your dealer.
WINE OF CARDUI
143 Market Street, Memphis, Tenn., April 14, 1901.
In February, 1901, I took one bottle of Wine of Cardui and one package of Theobald's Black-Treatment. I had been married fifteen years and had never given birth to a child until I took Wine of Cardui. Now I am mother of a fine baby girl which was born March 31, 1901. The baby weighs fourteen pounds and I feel as well as any person could feel. Now my home is happy and I never will be without Wine of Cardui in my home again.

Boer War of Future.
Cape Town—The reports that the war is over prove to be premature. Lord Kitchener regrets to announce that a one-armed Boer mounted on a three-legged ox, attacked a British column near Bloemfontein yesterday, and after inflicting severe loss fell back to the mountains. More troops are to be sent from England, and every preparation made for an aggressive campaign.
London—The official report that there is still a Boer alive, has cast a gloom over the capital. The gravest fears are entertained for the empire.—Life.

Millions Put to Work.
The wonderful activity of the new country is shown by an enormous demand for the world's best workers—Dr. King's New Life Pills. For Constipation, Sick Headache, Biliousness, or any Trouble of Stomach, Liver or Kidneys they're unrivaled. Only 25c. at Dr. Kremer's drug store.

Council Proceedings.
The City Council held their regular meeting last Thursday evening at the City Hall, all present except Councilman H. L. Lewis.
The first order of business was the reading of a petition from Joseph Moss and others to grade 9th street, which was referred to street committee.
The next petition was from property owners to open up H and Moss street, and to put in a bridge at the intersection of Gilbert creek. This was also referred to street committee.
The next matter taken up was the matter of a pest house. Mrs. Trimble who has a house in the east part of the City in the dead line, made a proposition to the City. Mayor Kremer appointed Councilman Williams to examine and report at next meeting regarding the property offered by Mrs. Trimble.
City attorney was instructed to draft an ordinance to straighten street at the junction of L and Burgess street and exchange of property with Henry Haysnick to straighten same.
Bills allowed:
B. O. McCulloch, $6; Theo. Mott, $15.00; Cramer Bros., $2; S. P. D. & L. Co., 4 bills for lumber for streets, $24.80.
The matter of sewer delinquents was next discussed, Judge Axtell appeared for J. K. Pigney, who refused to pay as he felt he was unjustly assessed. The Mayor referred it to the fire and water committee to look into.
W. T. Coburn appeared before Council for himself and his partner Mr. Crowe, stating that they intended to make alterations in their place of business and would have to suspend business for six or seven weeks. They wanted the council to extend their license for the time they were out of business, which the council agreed to do.
A new ordinance for collecting city poll tax and providing punishment for same was read three times and passed.
An ordinance was then read to vacate a portion of the alley in block 40—Opera House block. After the reading Councilman Smith presented a petition protesting against the vacation of said alley. No action was taken.
An ordinance regulating chimneys was read the second time.
An ordinance establishing grades for sewers and laterals was read the second time.
An Ordinance—For the organization of a fire department under the control of the City of Grants Pass was read first and second time. This ordinance makes provisions for a chief engineer and assistant to be appointed by the Council, the chief engineer to receive an annual salary. Before passing this ordinance to third reading, it was considered wise to have a special committee of council appointed and advise with fire boys. The committee appointed by the Mayor was Williams, Hough and Harmon.
Other business being over the Mayor placed in nomination for Recorder Geo. P. Furman the vote by ballot was as follows: two in favor of, 3 against and two blank ballots. No further nominations were made.
Next the mayor requested the council to prepare ballots as to who they desired as chairman in absence of the mayor. Five ballots were taken before any choice was manifested, all the council receiving complimentary votes. On the sixth ballot Councilman Williams received four and Harmon three votes. Mr. Williams was declared by the mayor elected as chairman.
There was considerable discussion as to making an ordinance as to stock and hobs and the city attorney was finally asked to draw them, to rid the city of these two nuisances.
The council then adjourned.

W. C. T. U. Column
(Articles for this column are contributed by the Women's Christian Temperance Union.)
Have you registered?
Are you satisfied with the present city government?
Hurrah for Oregon! Senator Mitchell has introduced a bill in congress whereby women will be granted the right of the ballot. Just what influence women's votes would have on the temperance question, remains to be seen. This much is certain—the saloon element will use its power against the measure. Which side are you on, the women's side or the saloon's side?
Are you a member of the local W. C. T. U. If not, why not? The requirements are that you sign the pledge and pay $1.00 a year, dues. We need both workers and means. Do not stand back because you cannot attend every meeting, very few can, but join in with us and do what you can. Some stand aloof and exclaim that the W. C. T. U. is doing nothing, when in truth a considerable is being done. Much more could be accomplished, however, if the rank and file would put their shoulder to the wheel and bear their share of the burden.
As we meet and touch each day, The many travelers on our way, Let every such brief contact be A glorious, helpful ministry; The contact of the soil and seed, Each giving to the other's need, Each helping on the other's best, And blessing each as well as blest.
—J. R. Miller.
All believers of mercy to animals should rejoice in President Roosevelt's determination to secure a pair of carriage horses with long tails. Many beautiful horses have been subjected to the President's inspection, but as all have tails more or less "docked," they have been firmly rejected. This is one of the many tokens of our chief magistrate's Christian manliness.
A Quaker's Temperance Lecture.
Several persons, among them a Quaker, were crossing the Allegheny mountains in a stage.
A lively discussion arose on the subject of temperance and the liquor business, and those engaged in it were severely handled. One of the company remained silent. After enduring it as long as he could he said: "Gentlemen, I want you to understand that I am a liquor dealer. I keep a public house, but I would have you to know that I have a license, and keep a decent house. I don't keep loafers and loungers about my place, and when a man has enough he can get no more at my bar. I sell to decent people, and do a respectable business."
He thought he had put a quietus on the subject, and that no answer could be given. Not so. The Quaker said: "Friend, that is the most damnable part of his business. If he would sell to drunkards and loafers, they would help to kill off the race, and society would be rid of them. But he takes the young, the poor, the innocent and the unsuspecting, making drunkards and loafers of them. When their character and money are all gone, he kicks them out, and turns them over to other shops to finish them off; and these encourage others and sends them on the same road to ruin."
Unlucky 13.
Unlucky 13 is lucky at the Column office this month for a splendid fountain pen goes with each 13th subscription receipt written for $1 or more. Not only that but subscriptions will be received at the rate of $1 if paid in advance. All arrears must be paid at regular rate. Let us write your receipt today. $1 pays for one year, $2 pays for two years.
The New Citizen.
The Constitution of the United States of America has put a new meaning into the word citizenship. The present prominence of our nation among the nations of the world and its new fields of usefulness and power have given to American citizenship a fresh inspiration toward true living and great accomplishment.
The high sentiments of our Chief Executive in his address, "The New Citizen," printed in the Youth's Companion, are fittingly published in the Washington's Birthday Number. George Washington, by his pure life and wise conservatism and ambition for the new country, fairly won his title of Father of his Country. Theodore Roosevelt, the best exponent of our twentieth century activity, has equally high ideals for the nation; and in this address and in his life he lays particular stress on the individual, his stewardship, his usefulness in home and public life. Washington and Lincoln led our nation over its most difficult paths. It has been left in recent years for such men as Theodore Roosevelt to embody the highest ideals of private and public citizenship.
