The Courier has never refused any one the privilege of examining its files.

The excellence of his former and present work, is Roy Bartlett's recommendation for re-election and it speaks far louder than words in his behalf.

The courtesy, cheerfulness and helpfulness with which he greets every visitor to the county clerk's office, no matter how busy or overworked he may be, will bring him many a vote on election day.

The county should roll up for him the biggest majority on record, to show its appreciation of first class official work.

A. M. Crawford of Roseburg, republican candidate for attorney general, is the only southern Oregon man on the state ticket, and this fact will doubtless increase his popularity throughout this portion of the state.

He is eminently qualified for the office for which he is a candidate. He has a high standing in the legal profession and has 20 years' experience in the practice of law, mainly in Douglas and Coos counties. He is a man of integrity and fully capable, if elected, of filling the office in a manner which will be a credit to the state of Oregon.

At the coming election, the voters of Josephine county will have an opportunity to vote on the proposition to establish a county high school in Grants Pass. This is a matter of very keen interest to every one interested in educational matters and particularly to those parents who have children whom they are endeavoring to educate.

The benefits which would accrue from a county high school are of very great importance and the greatest degree of benefit would be derived by the districts outside of Grants Pass, for it would place all the students of the county on the same footing as to rights of attendance. At present, the Grants Pass high school being only a district school, students entering it from other districts are required to pay tuition, an item of expense which is often sufficient to keep students out of the school. If a county high school is established, one more year will be added to the present course and graduates of this school will be fitted to enter a university without first having put in one or two years at some other and perhaps remote educational institution. It would greatly advance the opportunities of Josephine county students for higher education and, in our opinion, the voters should give it a hearty support and every one should vote on the question. It takes a majority of the votes cast to carry and those who fail to vote on the question will materially injure the chances for success.

The Observer goes largely into statistics to show that it was not in existence at the time the contract for the present owner book was awarded and infers therefrom that it could not have defended the book later on, when it was conducted by its present editor. It admits, inadvertently, no doubt, that a contract was made by the county court of that time and the money that Mr. Booth received for compiling the book was paid by the county court. It does not say, as it should to keep its statements and inferences in proportion, that Mr. Booth broke into the county treasury and absconded the cash and in this the Observer man falls short of the high standard which he seems to have set for himself. He comes nearer it when he reviews himself of the silly remark: "What will he do when he gets the lines in his own hands?" in which he insults his readers by plain allegation of stupidity. Having found an ancient editorial in which Jerry Nunan called the present owner book a "steal," he repeats it over and over again and draws much political inspiration therefrom, and asks with the grand air of one who delivers a clincher: "Was the Courier wrong then or now?" "Then" was the time when Mr. Nunan used to refer to the Observer editor as the "idiot of the Oregon Obfuscator" and similar pet names. Answer the question yourself, Mr. Chansee, was the Courier wrong "then" or now. You said "He must have reported what he thought true." And, by the way, it would be interesting to have the Observer, if it has any opinions besides those drawn from the Courier, to express one of its own. Was the present owner book a steal? The Observer has hinted, inferred and insinuated, but it has made no assertion on this point.

It seems queer that many buy poor Stockings when they can get Black Cat Hose which surely will wear well, and cost no more than common kinds.

Lost Mine Found.
Quite an interesting story is going the rounds of the press regarding a Josephine lost mine being found. On Friday S. D. Johnson, who recently arrived in this city from Iowa, came into Grants Pass with a bag of nuggets and gold dust that he had removed from a discovery on Jacques creek, of Jump-off-Joe. The discovery is the mine that had been lost for fifty years, according to the story of Johnson told in Grants Pass on his return from Jacques creek.

Johnson said he was grubstaking in Southern Oregon by a capitalist of Colorado Springs, Colo. This capitalist had been in Southern Oregon during the pioneer days. Among others he made a rich discovery on Jacques creek. This find was in the nature of an auriferous gravel bed, rich in coarse gold and nuggets. He had just begun work upon his bonanza when he and his companions were attacked by Indians and forced to flee for their lives. He left Southern Oregon and went to Colorado, where he made his fortune. He did not forget his find in Southern Oregon, and after fifty years had passed he sent his friend Johnson here to search for it. He made a rough sketch of the district, and, armed with this, Johnson came to Grants Pass about two weeks ago. He found Jacques creek and had prospected but a little while on the rich gravel bars when he removed $20 in coarse gold, aside from a number of good-sized nuggets. Johnson went nearly wild with delight, realizing that he had found the lost mine.

The claims and water rights had been taken up, but were purchased by Johnson for $1,500, the owners not knowing of the discovery. Johnson returned to Colorado Saturday, but stated that he would come back to Grants Pass in about a month and would begin the work of equipping the mine with a complete hydraulic plant.

out in fine shape and has a luxuriant growth.

We have no sickness to report. Everybody is well, and business is good. Money is plenty, so are our pretty girls. We have some good looking grass widows that would marry if they could get a home and a man to carry in the wood and make himself useful.

We are having cool, cloudy weather, with very light showers. The hay and grain crop is good and promises to be the largest crop in years. Some delayed their sowing of oats until late in the spring. If we had had a dry spring, the crop would have been short. With the occasional showers it will make a heavy crop. The volunteer hay crop will be good.

G. W. Chapin tells us that he took a trip to Coyote Creek last week. He says the crops in that vicinity are looking well. The miners are busy cleaning up. They have had a good run and the clean-up will be good, as that creek is known to be rich. With the big hydroelectric, a large amount of ground has been washed off. The creek has been mined for over forty years, in a primitive way, but by bringing water in long high ditches, they are moving ground rapidly. Both coarse and fine gold are secured.

We see a good many new faces in Leland. Most of them are looking for mines. As we have some rich land that could be converted into homes, we would like to see homeseekers stop and look over the possibilities of our country. We look around and see many young men who depend on days' work for a living when they ought to secure homes for themselves. The time is not far distant when the chances to secure cheap land will be gone.

"Dick" of Hugo says the people are very busy planting gardens. They should be busy cultivating their gardens. We think they are not very early risers, or they would have had their gardens planted before this time. G. W. Chapin tells me that he is in receipt of a stalk of barley five feet long that was raised by Mr. Henry of Hugo as a sample of the barley raised on their granite land. If anybody can beat that, Mrs. Henry will look again and find stalks that are still longer.

The Jones Mining Company.
The Jones Mining Company of Sykes Creek, Jackson county, formerly known as the Brooks mine, sent 13 ounces to the United States mint at San Francisco and received under date of March 27, 1902, the following findings: 885 gold, 104 silver; value, 69 cents, or a little over 5 cents per ounce. Value in gold per ounce, $18.39-100. The mine has been under the superintendency of J. B. Jones for three years. The first year and a half he had a foreman and the mine was not a success. Then Mr. Jones discharged the foreman and took hold himself. Since then the mine has yielded a handsome remuneration to the owner.

Ernest Lester and Uedy Briggs were called very suddenly to the Pass, to be with their father, who has been there for some time under the doctors' care, but took worse suddenly and died on Thursday night. His son, Walter Briggs, from near Eugene, arrived in time to attend the funeral. He came to the mine, to be with his sister and brothers a few days, returning home on Tuesday.

The dance at Placer on the 15th inst. was quite a success, both financially and socially. A splendid basket supper was served in the hall. J. H. Williams, candidate for county judge, assisted Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Demaree with the music. There were several other candidates present, E. Bartlett and Mr. Lewis. Mr. Ed Lister was there also; he is not running for office, but is doing a lot of talking for others. Charlie Crow took in the dance, too. We don't think he is running for office, as he was too much occupied looking after the ladies to do any electing.

Wilderville Items.
It has been pretty rainy weather the last few days.

Born—May 17, to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sams a bouncing baby boy.

Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Stone have just returned from up on Rogue river where they have been visiting with Supt. Savage's parents for a few days.

George McCollum and James Hocking Jr. started for Crescent City last Thursday where they intend to work for awhile.

Misses Addie and Chloe Robinson spent a couple of days at the Pass last week.

It was stated in last week's paper that the league would be discontinued but it was thought best to continue it, so there was league Sunday at the usual hour. We hope every body will attend.

Our school will be out next Friday. There will be a program in the afternoon.

Mrs. Rogers has been on the sick list a few days but is reported better now.

Mr. Weston, the photographer from Grants Pass spent Saturday and Sunday at Wilderville taking pictures—guess he was pretty busy.

Merlin Notes.
The weather is quite cool at present. The farmers are all fearing a frost that will destroy the fruit crop and injure the gardens.

Mrs. Rosa Abel of Wolf creek has been the guest of her mother, Mrs. Carter, the past week.

Mrs. E. R. Cochran started for eastern Oregon Friday evening, where she will spend a few weeks visiting.

J. P. McConnell, one of our merchants visited the institute at Grants Pass Friday.

Grandma Crow has been feeling quite ill the last few days.

Provolt Items.

(Crowded out last week).
Ed Prince spent the evening at Kelley Fields Saturday.

Mr. Swortzfigure passed through here on his way to Williams.

Mrs. L. C. Hyde made Grants Pass a visit the last of the week.

Miss Maggie Lewman made Miss Rose Messenger a visit Sunday.

Richard Lewman of Grants Pass made a trip to Applegate last Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Baldwin went to Central Point to see her brother, who is very ill.

C. M. Rexford was on our side of the river irrigating the most of the week.

Dr. Gobel, the optician of Medford, made Mr. W. M. Sonson a call Monday.

Luca Loosh hoisted the stary banner in the center of his hopyard, which will wave throughout the season. It was hoisted on the eighth day of May 1902.

Floyd Bailey of Williams was at J. T. Layton's Sunday. Henry Rehkopf was seen on the streets of our city flying around in his crash top buggy, but he was alone.

The base ball game that was played between the two Provolt nines was a hard one. Our pitcher and catcher were imported from the baseball college, the balance of the men are Provolt boys from right around close.

Items From Greenback
Miss Emma Hyde has returned to the Pass.

Homer Hasty made a flying trip to the Pass.

Bert Fawcett received news that his sister was very sick.

Mr. Long held services in the school-house Saturday evening.

Charlie Crow was here one day last week, looking after taxes, etc.

Mrs. F. G. Roper's sister, Etta Williams, of Medford, is visiting here.

Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, Evelyn and Marguerite South have returned from their visit to Medford.

W. H. Brevoort of New York and Edwin Smith of Los Angeles, owners of the Greenback mine, are here looking over their property.

The candidates are as thick as fleas on a dog and cigars are plentiful. Messrs. T. Y. Dean, J. Slover, J. O. Booth and R. G. Smith were seen on our streets last week.

We have had quite a snowstorm since my last communication, and we do not know whether it was a good or bad omen. One thing we do know—it was a very unpleasant storm.

We have been informed that the republicans are to have speaking here on the 27th inst. There will be special music prepared for the occasion, both instrumental and vocal.

Ernest Lester and Uedy Briggs were called very suddenly to the Pass, to be with their father, who has been there for some time under the doctors' care, but took worse suddenly and died on Thursday night. His son, Walter Briggs, from near Eugene, arrived in time to attend the funeral. He came to the mine, to be with his sister and brothers a few days, returning home on Tuesday.

Hot Shot From "Nex."

Peanut vender Chansee has broken out again in his usual scabious style. In the issue of the Observer under date of May 17, the gentleman who conducts the soda-water and ice-cream shop on Sixth street, attempts to show that the Observer was not in existence July 10, 1891, when the contract for the present ownership book was entered into, and thereby attempts to give his readers the impression that the statements printed in the Courier of last week, were false. He defies the democrats "to publish anything from the old files of the Observer contrary to what it says to-day," but when application was made to examine the old files of the Observer, and application was made since the issue of May 17th, the vender of peanuts and popcorn very promptly refused an examination of those files. The readers of the Courier will remember the very bitter fight made on Judge Volney Colvig in 1892 by the Courier when Jerry Nunan was its editor and proprietor and those who read the Observer at that time, will remember how the Observer attempted to defend the Judge. The Courier at that time made the present ownership book contract its special object of attack because Judge Colvig objected the patronage of the county to the Observer, when it had been enjoyed prior to that time by the Courier. The Observer answered Mr. Nunan's attacks and defended the present ownership book contract and repeatedly announced that the present ownership book was the very best money saving device which had ever been purchased by the county. As the cowardly publisher of the Observer refuses to allow an inspection of his files, the exact language used cannot be given. This fact stands out prominently; the Courier has changed ownership and editors; the Observer is still in the same hands and under the same management. The Courier of 1902 is not responsible for the utterances of the Courier of 1892, years before the present owner took charge, but however plain this fact may be to people of brains and intelligence it will probably never be understood by the dispenser of soda-water who has nothing to understand with, and who never had an idea above the level of an oyster.

For the benefit of those who are not acquainted with the true facts regarding the present ownership book contract (and the Observer's publisher does not want them understood), let it be said there was no stipulated price made for the book, but the agreement was that 25 cents should be paid to the contractor, Mr. Booth, upon all property brought to light in 1892 which had escaped taxation prior to that year. The services of two men who thoroughly understood searching records were had for six months and numerous trips were made to Salem in order to discover the school land in the county. But what was the result? It has been asked. ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-SIX THOUSAND acres of taxable property which had therefore escaped taxation was brought to light and Josephine county has had the benefit since.

Was it a graft to bring all this to light? Was it a graft to put the thousands of dollars into the treasury which Josephine has enjoyed? Probably soda water and popcorn vendors may have an impression (they have no ideas) that it was, but thinking people, who have the welfare of the county at heart, do not believe it.

The attacks which the Observer has made upon J. O. Booth are worthy of its publisher, for what more could be expected from one who will stop a leading physician on the street, as did the Observer's proprietor, and ask, "Doctor, who is this fellow Kipping the propounded 'K' (Kipping) who is sick in New York, that the papers have so much to say about?" The question exhibits the knowledge of literature, and of one of the greatest literary men of the age, which this would be wilder of public opinion has. Will the voters of Josephine permit such nonsense as has been dispensed through the columns of the Observer to influence their votes for county judges, or will they, believing in the honesty, integrity and ability of J. O. Booth, who is everybody's friend, elect him to the office? The count of ballots on the 21st of June will answer the question by showing a majority for Mr. Booth counted well up in the hundreds.

As Geo. M. Cornwall Sees Us.
Geo. M. Cornwall, publisher of the Columbia River and Oregon Timberman at Portland, who visited this section of the state a short while ago, speaks of Grants Pass in this month's issue of his journal as follows:

"The Sugar Pine Door & Lumber Company are busy. President Kinney says the California orange crop has been only about half a crop, but the demand for boxes for deciduous fruits has already been much heavier than last year. I. A. Robie is the box manager of the concern. Curtis Bros., of Clinton, Iowa, have a cutting-up plant for sash and door stock, in charge of E. W. Jordan, from the home factory. One cannot help but be impressed with the fact that the available lumber for sash and door stock must be getting scarce in the east, when a large firm like the Curtis Bros. will establish a cutting-up plant in Southern Oregon to work up yellow and sugar pine stock, which has been hauled from six to twenty-two miles in wagons, over rough mountain roads, in order to maintain a sufficient supply of stock.

"The mining interests of Southern Oregon are coming into prominence. Several of the milling companies operate small mills in connection with their mines. The Golden Drift Mining Company of Grants Pass has installed a 40-horse-power gasoline engine, furnished by Hunsback, Buckley & Co. of San Francisco. The Estrella Mining Company of Selma have installed a sawmill at their mine. M. A. Wertz operates a mill near the mouth of the Applegate, and has just started up for the season.

"Walter Prich, Schmidt Bros., Selma, Ore., running steadily. Mr. Welton, of the firm, is the foreman of the Sugar Pine Door & Lumber Company plant, which handles the product of a dozen small mills tributary to Grants Pass. There is some agitation regarding the building of a railroad from Grants Pass to Waldio, a distance of some forty miles. Around Waldio there are some heavy copper deposits, and the proposed road would tap a good belt of sugar and yellow pine, which it is not practicable to market on account of its isolation from transportation. This proposed line, if continued to Crescent City, Cal., would open up a portion of the redwood belt on the California coast, and might become a part of a coast line to connect ultimately with a line running north from San Francisco."
