ELECTRUM AND PLATINUM.

Pure electrum ore, a combination of copper, gold and silver, is being removed by the ton from the recent rich strike on the Oregon California boundary. The annals of history fall to show when a copper strike such as this has ever been made before. It is remarkable, not alone for its richness and extent, but also for its peculiar formation. Here, by the quarrying method, hundreds of tons of ore, much of which is half copper, are being taken out and sacked for shipment to the smelter.

The scene of the remarkable copper strike is in the Cleopatra group of claims, owned by J. S. Crawford and associates of Philadelphia. They are located in Del Norte county, Cal., but extend across the line into Josephine county, Oregon. They can only be reached by the Grants Pass-Crescent City stage road. The Diamond creek road, recently built by the company that owns the claims, extends from the Grants Pass-Crescent City stage road to Camp Crawford, the scene of the strike.

The company have a crew of 30 men at work removing the ore and sacking it for shipment to the smelter. They are preparing to put in a smelter at Camp Crawford for the treatment of their ore. They have three thousand tons of rock in sight. As the ore is sacked it is divided into four classes, with the following respective values: Class one, 65 to 85 per cent copper, $10 gold, $3.50 silver. Class two, 35 to 65 per cent copper, Class three, 25 to 35 per cent copper. Class four, 8 to 25 per cent copper. Col. Crawford states that a great amount of the ore being taken out is of the first and second class. As can be seen from the above, this is almost pure metal. The men interested in the claims are men of experience and means and will develop and work their property to its fullest extent.

Col. Crawford is an M. E. of Philadelphia. He is also a member of the geological survey at Washington. Just before the death of the late President McKinley, the latter ordered Col. Crawford to go to the Philippine Islands and make geological investigations for the survey at Washington, but he was obliged to decline the trust because of his age. In recent years Col. Crawford has spent the greater part of his time in the mountains of the Siskiyou in search for copper electrum ores, which he has long contended could be found in Natara. He has at last found the electrum ores in quantities in the claims of the recent strike. They occur running along stratifications of asbestos.

Copper electrum was known to the Romans, who knew more about the metal copper than any people that has existed since. It was quite evident that the Romans found the electrum in the native state, and did not have to mix the three metals mechanically, as we have been doing during the present age. Copper electrum has its use in the commercial world in the manufacturing of electrolytic plates and other such devices.

Josephine county miners have been giving considerable time of late to platinum prospecting. The discovery of the metal has been reported from several of the Josephine districts, and the metal is being actively mined in some localities. Platinum is being found more largely in the placer fields of Western Josephine county, in the Illinois river district. In the ancient Illinois river channel the metal is found with black sand on the serpentine bedrock. The two metals can be easily mined together, as the black sand with which the platinum occurs, settles to the bottom of the sluices, and by the proper process the two could be easily separated. Heretofore the placer miners have been throwing the metal from their sluices, being ignorant of its identity and value.

The Welshman Gas Fitting Company, of Philadelphia, has put a crew of men to work in the placer fields of the Illinois to mine platinum. This company has need for much of this metal in the manufacture of their goods. They have installed patent machinery of their own design for mining platinum, and hope to secure enough of the metal from the Illinois placers to supply them. The fact that this company has installed machinery and put a crew of men to work, is sufficient evidence that they are satisfied that there is platinum in the placer fields of Illinois—Cor. in Pacific Miner.

SHIFTLSS BRAZILIANS.

United States Consul Furniss, of Sergipe, Brazil, says of the shiftless native Brazilians: "He need not own land as he can put up his mud hut anywhere; he has an abundance of fruit, such as the banana, jaca, caju, the tidal river are full of fish, shrimp, crabs and oysters, and the woods abound with game. He can raise his small patch of manioc, and as it is never cold enough for a fire, he works only when there is need of money to purchase articles which he does not produce. I have been shown fields of cotton and other products which were going to waste because of the proprietor's inability to induce the laborers to harvest them. One would think that laborers living on a farm would be compelled to work for the proprietor, but that does not seem to be the case here, as, in spite of the fact that they pay no rent, they will either refuse to work at all or will work only a few days at a time; yet they are allowed to remain upon the land pre-empted."

O. N. G. AT CAMP WILLIAMS.

Pleased over the assurance of a six days' encampment, and eager to show their ability as soldiers, the companies of the Oregon National Guard that arrived at Albany Thursday turned to their work with a vim, and by evening camp was pitched and in order, and on Friday the regular routine drill work was taken up. Their camp is situated about a mile southeast of Albany, and in honor of Mayor Williams, of Portland, has been named Camp Williams. In the neighborhood of 1300 uniformed men are in the camp, and it is an imposing scene to stand upon the porch of the building in which General Beebe has his headquarters, and which is situated in the center of the camp, and look over the array of sturdy men, ready to fly to the defense of their country at the least alarm.

Immediately upon their arrival at Albany, the various companies marched at once to the camp grounds, and the way they took hold of their work and got their camp into shape would do honor to companies of longer service. Adjutant-General George T. Willett has charge of the orders, and the camp was so arranged in advance that there was no delay in the assignment to positions. The companies that arrived on the special train from Portland reported a pleasant trip and say that the run was made in excellent time. The militia men left Portland at 8:15 and arrived at Albany at 11:30. A number of the Third Regiment spent Wednesday night in the Armory, to be ready to report at the 7 o'clock roll call next morning. Sharply at 7 every man was at his place, and in speaking of the present encampment, Colonel Everett said: "A most gratifying thing about our trip so far is the fact that the men have all been on time and everything has been done with dispatch, showing that their previous encampments have been of great value to them."

The regular train from the south was late, and arrived about 4 o'clock, bringing five companies of the Fourth Regiment and the regimental band. Companies A and C and the band, consisting of 23 pieces, were from Eugene. Company E from Roseburg. Company H from Grants Pass and Company B from Ashland. On account of the senior rank of their Colonel, G. O. Yoran, of Eugene, the Fourth Regiment received the first position in the camp at the right of the line. Their horses had been sent ahead of them overland, and the boys reported a pleasant trip. Colonel Yoran is proud of his men and says they are very prompt in their work. The camp rules are no less stringent than in war times, and several offenders were landed in the guardhouse. The imposing military surroundings were too much for these boys, and their blood longed for service. As they could not have this, they resolved to have the next best, and loaded their guns with blank cartridges and discharged them. The report startled the whole camp, and the brave soldiers all flocked to the scene of the supposed disaster. The hospital corps was called out, and preparations made to save the supposed victim if possible. Upon discovering the cause of all of the trouble, the offenders were promptly rushed to the guardhouse, and again all was peace.

On account of a shortage of funds, the encampment will continue only six instead of eight days, as originally intended, and will close Tuesday, July 22.

Following are the numbers of Co. H. Fourth Regiment, of Grants Pass who are attending the encampment:

COUNCIL PROCEEDING S.

At the regular meeting held Thursday July 17, the petition of Mrs. W. Trimble for damages to her building on Fourth and G streets, torn down during the recent fire, was denied. The petition of J. K. Pigney to erect a wooden barn on his property was also denied.

The city treasurer as instructed to return to Eugene Kleinlin the money paid in by him on July 11 for saloon license at the brewery, which was burned on the 24th.

Councilman Herbert Smith reported the condition of fire hydrants, hose, etc., to be in fair order, but recommended some improvements. The fire and water committee was authorized to do all things necessary to put the department in good order.

The saloon bond of A. Lempeke was approved.

Bids for a supply of new hose were opened and the proposal of Craner Bros., agents of the Bowers Rubber Co., to furnish hose at 80 cents per foot was accepted for 400 feet of hose.

A vote of thanks was tendered the Ashland and Medford fire boys for their assistance during the fire on the 14th.

NOVEL CURE FOR SNAKE-BITE.

Mosquitoes Save a Man's Life by Drawing Out the Poison of a Rattlesnake.

"Talkin' about rattlesnakes," said an Erie railroad brakeman, according to the New York Sun, "did you ever hear how the mosquitoes saved a man's life up near Gulf Summit, in Pennsylvania, last summer?"

"Well, while getting out railroad ties over back of Summit, Abe Morehouse was bitten in the leg by a rattlesnake. A doctor was at once sent for and the leg was bandaged tightly above the wound. It was expected that Morehouse would die before the doctor could come up there on his wheel, but he didn't. Just as soon as the leg was banded to put on the bandage, it was attacked by a swarm of mosquitoes, and when the doctor arrived he found the man as well as ever and lively as a cricket, but the ground was covered with dead and dying mosquitoes. They had sucked the poison from Morehouse's wound and saved his life. This was hard on the mosquitoes, but I presume Morehouse's life was worth saving."

HAD HIS QUEUE CUT OFF.

Jose Spencer's tonsorial parlor was the scene of an unusual incident last Tuesday, says the Corvallis Gazette. Jim Sing the well known Chinaman entered the shop, walked over to the chair, seated himself and looking at his majesty of the razor and shears, said: "You cut 'em tall off?" Mr. Spencer was surprised and required Jim to give fuller information. Jim said he had no intention of ever returning to China and had concluded that henceforth he would follow the style of the American. He had become disgusted with his queue. In the twinkling of an eye he was rid of it, had his topknot uncoiled, his face bathed with Florida water, and walked out of the shop with his queue under his arm neatly done up in brown paper.

Sitting Room Drama.

"Who comes there?" called little Willie, the sentry, in threatening tones as he brought his deadly wooden gun into shooting position.

"A friend," answered little Tommie from behind the rocking chair.

"Advances and give the counter sign," bled the sentry, "or I'll shoot your head off."

An ominous silence followed this terrible threat. Then Tommie said plaintively: "I've forgot it."

"You can't remember nothing," exclaimed Willie in disgust, throwing down his gun. "Cum over here an' I'll whalper it to you ag'in."—Ohio State Journal.

Food Receipts.

All receipts for food should, as far as possible, be kept germ and insect free. Glass, pottery and metallic wares are therefore preferable to wood. They should have no joints or grooves, as these harbor minute particles of food. Before placing food in them they should be thoroughly washed, sealed with boiling water, wiped dry and then be allowed to cool. Placing them in the sun when practicable for a couple of hours will also add to their purity.

Hopeful.

NEW FRUIT MENACE.

A new menace to fruit trees and all kinds of foliage has made its appearance in the orchards on Five Mile, south of the city, says the Dalles Chronicle. It is a bug somewhat resembling a large ant; is about three quarters of an inch in length, with a sleek green back. While they can be easily killed by insect powder, they are evidently doing a great deal of damage, and multiply rapidly. L. D. Springer, whose place is in that neighborhood, brought in about two dozen in a bottle this morning, and he would be glad to have any person who thinks he can give any information regarding them or means of exterminating them call at this office and examine them.

LOG DRIVERS MAKE A RECORD.

Didn't Paint Hanger Red and Squander Their Wages as Usual the Last Year.

Something unprecedented happened to the Penobscot river log drivers this season, or at least to those who navigated the west branch drive to boom.

Usually this drive, the largest single lot of logs in Maine or in New England, gets into boom in August, and in years past it has been known to arrive as early as the Fourth of July, but last year, through a series of delays and misfortunes, the logs did not reach their destination until the middle of November, says the New York Sun.

The drive had, when it started from the head of the Chesapeake lake, about 80,000,000 feet of logs, and was navigated by 150 men. At Millinocket a good deal of time was lost in sorting out 50,000,000 feet that belonged to a pulp company. The water fell rapidly, it being a very dry summer, and when it began to look as if the big drive would be hung up still more men were added to the crew, making in all 200. This army of drivers managed to keep the logs moving, but ice was making in the river and there had been a big snow-storm when they were finally discharged and paid off.

In Bangor, in the course of two or three days, about 200,000 were hauled out to the drivers and they had no sooner got their pay and begun to think about the usual celebration than along came agents for lumbermen and offered them high wages to go all over to the woods and cut more millions of logs.

This was heard on the West Branch, ere, if they refused to go up they might not get another good offer, as the season was late, while if they accepted they would miss their usual good time in Bangor. Good sense prevailed in most cases, and away the drivers went, dropping cans, dog and setting pole to take up the log. That is how it came that there was no crowd of the drivers, and the saloon keepers and others were sad beyond words at what they call tough luck.

When the State Prohibitionists sent the Menologs toward Grants Pass, the Epworth League, and the Anti-Saloon League, attempted to make arrangements, but failing, turned it over to some members of the W. C. T. U., who carried it through, selling 150 tickets in two days, thus securing a fair house the first night, and getting as a reward the consciousness of work well done.

Following the concert came Mr. Tab, who gave us two afternoons and one evening lectures, which were highly appreciated and fairly attended. Besides these public meetings the regular meetings have been held every two weeks. The L. T. L. meet almost every week, and it should have a report of its own, and meetings are so interesting. Since February 1 a temperance column has been maintained in the Rogue River Courier Weekly. The Union followed up the plan of last year in subscribing for copies of the Northwest White Ribbon. These are distributed among the members at the regular meetings and eagerly read. This report extends

SEMI-ANNUAL REPORT OF GRANTS PASS LOCAL UNION.

In August last the Union elected entirely new officers, who speedily set to work, assisted by the old ones and members in general, but owing to sickness among several members, no topical calendar was printed this year. A committee was appointed to form a plan of work, and it resolved to open every open door. The first opportunity was for a Sunday school rally. The Pastors' Union thought best not to give up the regular services, but suggested that we have the rally on National Temperance Sunday at 3 p. m. in the M. E. church. This gave only two weeks for preparation, but two women with willing minds, though weary feet, made all arrangements, the other members and pastors most loyally lending their aid in the program. Seven schools were represented, and also the Salvation Army Juniors. The church was filled to overflowing, good-will prevailed, and a liberal collection remained to cheer the workers. The collection taken at the Union Thanksgiving services was divided between the W. R. C. and the W. C. T. U. The Union appointed a committee for charity who used this fund as a nucleus for much needed work, also doing considerable soliciting on the outside. On January 27 occurred the birthday of our honored member, Mrs. Elizabeth Winch. She was 81 years old, yet misses very few meetings. The Union went in a body to her home and took her completely by surprise. The afternoon was spent in short addresses, song and conversation. Refreshments were served, a picture taken and a general good time enjoyed.

HERE'S A QUEER THING.

The "Morning Hour" in the Senate Begins at Noon and Lasts About Two Hours.

The "morning hour" is one of the queer things of the United States senate. In the first place the "morning hour" is two hours long, though it may be completed in ten or fifteen minutes. In the second place, says the Washington Star, it never occurs in the morning, but begins at 12 o'clock noon, except on the rare occasions when the senate meets at 10 or 11 o'clock. Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, is responsible for the elongation of the morning hour so as to make it cover 120 minutes. Prior to 14 years ago the "morning hour," while existing in the afternoon, was but an hour in length, but a resolution submitted by Mr. Hoar was adopted August 10, 1888, and that provided that the "morning hour" should be two hours in length of that it should end at two o'clock. This resolution provided "that after today, unless otherwise ordered, the morning hour shall terminate at the expiration of two hours after the meeting of the senate." The morning hour is devoted to the presentation of petitions, the introduction of bills, reports of committees, etc., and is the time when all sorts of little matters of that kind are attended to. At two o'clock the presiding officer lays before the senate the bill on the calendar, which is set aside as having precedence over other measures, and that is generally the time for long speeches of all kinds unless unanimous consent is secured to consider pension bills for a specified time or unobjectionable bills on the calendar.

Disconsolate But Entertaining.

The following curious advertisement is taken from a Spanish journal: "This morning our Savior summoned away the jeweler, Siebald Illingera, from his shop to another and better world. The undersigned, his widow, will weep upon his tomb, as will also his two daughters, Hild and Emma, the former of whom is married and the latter is open to an offer. The funeral will take place to-morrow. His disconsolate widow, Veronique Illingera, P.
