

HOW MARJORIE SECURED HER END

Marjorie Kane was a schoolgirl who lived in a university town. On her way to the high school she was obliged to cross the campus, where she occasionally passed students, but none of them challenged her reverence.

The day that Marjorie was graduated she was returning to her home, dressed in white, and it was evident that she was very much struck with her appearance. The same evening at a school reception she saw him talking with one of the teachers and learned that he was the new professor of English literature.

When September came, Marjorie was entered to pursue a select course of English literature in the woman's college connected with the university. Her continuance of any study whatever after her difficulty in getting through the high school was a surprise to her friends. Marjorie gave no reason for her action, having the faculty of reticence, which is often far more valuable than learning. She lumbered along through the first year at the tail of the class and, despite Professor Genthorpe's efforts to help her by leading questions, approached the June examinations with the likelihood of failure. A week before the examinations she came to the office of Professor Genthorpe and met her crossing the campus in the same spot where he had seen her the first time. He lifted his hat politely.

"Miss Kane," he said, "do you feel prepared to pass the examinations?"

"Why do you ask a question to which you know the answer, professor?"

"You mean you are not prepared?"

Marjorie replied by casting down her eyes, as though she expected to be slaughtered and Professor Genthorpe was to be the butcher. At any rate, that is the way the professor felt about it.

"If you will come to my lecture room at 4 o'clock every afternoon for a course, so clearly drawn that it could not be stamped upon her memory—that is, if she had had a memory—and then proceeded to put her through a preliminary examination.

"Who is called the father of English poetry?" he asked.

Marjorie made no reply for some time, looking now at Marjorie and the professor with a mild reproach, then answered feebly:

"Burns."

"Oh, no. With whom did I begin just now when I spoke under the head of poetry?"

There was another grappling for ideas during which Marjorie made the professor feel that instead of trying to help her he was treating her brutally. Finally she gave a guess:

"James Whitcomb Riley."

The professor sighed. "You had better go over this division of the subject at home tonight, and I'll try you again tomorrow. Perhaps you are better prepared in prose than in verse, so you a few questions on the subject of essays. Who is supposed to have been the author of the letters of Junius?"

Marjorie cast her reproachful eyes upon him.

"I didn't think, professor, that you would wound me intentionally."

"I would you intentionally? My dear girl—I mean how could you so construe?"

"In asking me such a question."

"Explain."

"Why, the author of the Junius letters was—"

"Well?"

"Junius, of course."

The professor groaned, walked to the window and stood looking out. Then he turned and saw Marjorie sitting where he had left her. She was looking down at a knot in the bare floor, a point on her pretty lips, and as the professor came up she gave him a glance which said clearly, "When do you intend to cease this torture?"

"I fear," he said, "there is a lack of application."

Marjorie put the corner of her handkerchief to one eye.

"You don't understand me," he went on. "You have a good mind, and the reason you do not get on—"

"You are very unkind," moaned Marjorie. "I'm sure I have tried to please you."

"But, my dear, it isn't you are to please. You are to learn for your own benefit."

Marjorie covered her eyes with her handkerchief and leaned back in her chair. She knew better.

"Have I been unkind?" she inquired in her treatment of you?" asked the professor gently.

No answer.

"If so, I beg that you will forgive me. I am sometimes impatient."

By this time he was standing over Marjorie. He took one of her hands from her right eye, the other from her left. Softened, as they were, with tears, they looked to him like twin lakes under a storm. He bent down and kissed her.

Marjorie passed the examination creditably, though no one knew how it was accomplished, and when in the following autumn her engagement was announced to Professor Genthorpe everybody said:

"Great heaven, the stupidest girl in his class!" F. A. MITCHELL.

ONE OF LIFE'S PLEASURES

There is nothing in life more enjoyable and at the same time so beneficial to both mind and body, as traveling.

A modern railway journey, intelligently taken, tends to prolong life, break the monotony of existence and acts as a panacea for dull care by taking us out of the well-worn channels of worldly and business struggles.

Before starting upon a trip, whether on business or recreation, it is well to inquire and investigate the various routes, and choose the one offering the best inducements in the way of comfort and attractions. The traveler, the tourist or business man is wise in selecting the Rio Grande Lines in a journey to and from the east, as it offers every comfort and modern convenience to suit all classes of travel, with an array of scenic attractions unsurpassed in the world. Castle Gate, The Canon of the Grand, Marshall Pass, Tennessee Pass and the world renowned Royal Gorge are but a few of these attractions, seen from the car windows.

Three fast trains daily between Ogden and Denver.

Pullman, Palace and Ordinary Sleeping cars on all trains to Denver, Omaha, Kansas City, Chicago and St. Louis without change.

ONE WOMAN AMONG THE THOUSANDS.

We received a letter from Waycross, Georgia, a few days ago, from a lady who has lived there for years. She writes us that she had been troubled with female complaint for a long time, until she was reduced almost to a shadow. It effected her mind, she could not remember any thing would get so confused and so nervous and irritable she could hardly sleep. She described her case as one similar to thousands of other women, and then ended the letter by saying she gained 15 lbs. last month, and never felt better in her life, having no traces of her former troubles, sleep well and ate her meals with a relish. This lady commenced the use of Dr. J. C. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and she writes the letter from which we copy the above. This tonic is in tablet form and should be taken right after meals. It turns the food you eat into strong rich blood, making solid flesh and feeding the nerves, curing disease by making healthy flesh. Pale, weak thin people should use this tonic. For sale by W. F. Kremer.

Thro' Train Southeast.

The St. Louis Special, the through express of the Northern Pacific and Burlington railroads from the Northwest to the Southeast, changed time on May 4. The south-bound service is materially benefited, as connections for the East and South are now made with morning trains out of St. Louis and Chicago.

The St. Louis Special now leaves Portland at 8:25 a. m.; Tacoma, 3:40 p. m.; Seattle, 3:50 p. m.; Spokane, 6:55 a. m.; Helena, 10:15 p. m.; Billings, 7:00 a. m.

The new card is more convenient to most cities in the Northwest. The train now carries standard sleeper, tourist sleeper, dining car, chair car, coach and baggage car, Portland to Kansas City without change, also free reclining chair car, Portland to St. Louis. It remains the great TIME SAVER, as well as the only through train between the Northwest and the Southeast.

CATARHIT OF THE MIDDLE EAR

Produces deafness, causes ringing and crackling noises; makes your ears discharge, causes ringing in your ears, makes your hearing worse some days than others. As the catarrh progresses, there is a steady disagreeable ringing or roaring in the ears, due to the entrance of catarrhal inflammation into the eustachian tubes, which are two small tubes connecting the ears with the nasal cavity, and entering the latter canal at a point well back toward the beginning of the throat. This ringing disappears only when the catarrhal inflammation in the nose and throat has been cured. Smith Bros' S. B. Catarrh Cure taken regularly will reduce and cure all catarrhal inflammation. Book on Catarrh free. Address Smith Bros., Fresno, Cal.

Would You Think It?

Would you think it possible that you could be disappointed in the face of a woman whose sharply defined and beautiful hair suggests womanly perfection and beauty? Such disappointment comes not seldom when the face turned to a smiling smile, and the eyes are seen to be dimmed and bleary. In general, the cause of such a condition is impure blood.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood, and removes the corrupt elements from it, which cause disease. When the blood is cleansed, pimples, freckles, skin eruptions, boils, and all other impure blood, are perfectly and permanently cured.

Three years ago I suffered with that dreaded disease, scrofula, which I had contracted from the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which I had used for some time, but it did not cure me. It has been a year since I stopped using your medicine, and I feel as well as ever. I think your medicine a wonderful cure and would advise you to take it and be relieved of your suffering."

Some of the most remarkable cures effected by "Golden Medical Discovery," have been of scrofula disease.

I will never thank you for advising me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It has cured me of chronic scrofula, and I feel as well as ever. I think your medicine a wonderful cure and would advise you to take it and be relieved of your suffering."
