Sheriff Rader Brings Two Men Back from Roseburg.

One of the Greatest Placers. Elevator a Success.

Last week Sheriff Rader of Jackson county brought back from Roseburg the two men who were held there under suspicion of stealing two horses from W. M. Morris of Rock Point. The men were given a preliminary hearing at Medford Thursday, were bound over to take the action of the circuit court and were taken to Jacksonville. Neither of the men is Lyons who was recently arrested and escaped from Constable Greenhill, but the officers believe them to be members of the same gang. The evidence points strongly toward their conviction.

TO IRRIGATE THE VALLEY.

Office Opened by Advance Irrigating Company.

The Advance Electric Power Irrigating & Mining Co., have opened an office in the Brown building on Sixth street, opposite the court house. This company is an auxiliary of the Golden Drift Mining Co., who are putting in the large dam on Rogue river about three miles above town. C. G. Amant is manager of the irrigation enterprise. He has had large experience in irrigation matters in Colorado where he resided prior to coming here to take charge of this enterprise and his knowledge of the subject is thoroughly practical.

The project is to construct a ditch which will cover the valley lands about and below Grants Pass and will carry an abundance of water for irrigation. By the power furnished by the dam, the water will then be pumped to the necessary height. Preliminary surveys have been made on the proposed ditch line to a distance of about nine miles below Grants Pass. The company is now ready to make contracts for water and the ditch will be built if the necessary amount of water can be contracted. To that end, the representatives of the company are anxious to meet all the farmers, gardeners and orchardists of the valley. Work of construction will be commenced immediately if the patronage will warrant it.

While the most of the land about Grants Pass produces good crops without irrigation, and some of it is very productive, yet the productiveness of all of it would be immensely increased by irrigation. Even on the most fertile of our bottom lands, crops are cut short by the dryness of the late summer or three crops could be raised in a season and each would be greater than the one that is produced under the present conditions. In addition to this there are many acres of good land under the proposed ditch line that is too dry to produce good crops without irrigation. On nearly all of our red uplands, the moisture drains off quickly in the spring and the hot sun of summer dries them up before a crop can get its growth. On these lands, a little water at the proper time would work a marvelous change.

As an instance of the value of irrigation, some of the orchardists below town, whose land produces large crops without being irrigated, experimented one year to see what his land would produce when worked to some extent. He selected a small piece of ground about 20 by 60 feet in dimensions, watered it from the well, and fertilized it. He raised three crops in the season and estimates the value of the produce at $45.

An irrigation system properly handled would work miracles in this valley and would be an enormous boon to the agricultural industry.

COL. CRAWFORD'S LECTURE

Entertainment at Woodman Hall—Musical Program.

A large audience listened to Col. John S. Crawford's lecture at Woodman hall Friday evening. All the available space in the hall was utilized for seating room and nearly every seat was occupied. A number of the militia boys attended in uniform. Besides the lecture, a musical program was given. The opening number was a male quartette by Messrs. Cox, Van Dyke, Moore and Booth, which was received very appreciatively by the audience and an encore was demanded. Col. Crawford then took the stand and delivered a most interesting address. Those who had never before heard the colonel speak were surprised and delighted at the amount of high oratorical ability which he displayed. As a speaker he is ready, fluent and has a happy faculty of expression. As he has an inexhaustible store of reminiscences, his talk was interesting in the extreme. He gave a synopsis of that portion of the war which came under his personal experience, a very considerable part as he was with the army of the Potomac during nearly all of its campaigns. Some of the incidents were very amusing and his audience listened from the first word to the last with rapt interest.

After the close of the lecture, vocal solos were given by Misses Mabel White and Cleo Lucas, and by Mac Smith. Each number was enthusiastically received. The closing piece of the entertainment was a piano solo by Col. Crawford. Here again was a pleasant surprise for those who had not heard him play. When he touched the piano, the music gushed forth in a flood as though released by a spring. The delighted audience gave him a vigorous ovation.

The entertainment was arranged by the ladies of St. Luke's church and was one of the most enjoyable in its line of any ever given in the city.

LEGISLATURE CONVENES

Brownell is President and Harris Speaker of House.

The Oregon legislature organized today afternoon with George C. Brownell, of Clackamas county, as president of the senate and L. T. Harris, of Lane county, as speaker of the house. The caucus of the senate republicans took 18 ballots before a change of one vote gave the victory to Brownell. Brownell's nomination was made unanimous upon motion of his opponent, Smith of Multnomah.

In the house caucus, 19 ballots were required to make a choice. Just before the last ballot, Eddy, who had lost several votes to Harris, withdrew in the latter's favor, and Harris was elected. Upon motion of Davey, the third candidate, the nomination was made unanimous. It is understood that in making committee appointments Mr. Harris will deal very liberally with the supporters of both Eddy and Davey.

At the close of the organization both houses adjourned out of respect to the memory of the late Congressman Tongue.

Both houses of the legislature have put on their working clothes, and business cares and discussions have replaced political cares and discussions among them temporarily. In the senate Tuesday 11 concurrent resolutions, one joint resolution, one joint memorial, and 24 senate bills were presented and read.

The most important feature of the session was the introduction by Hunt of Multnomah of the Lewis and Clark Exposition appropriation bill. The measure was passed to its second reading and ordered printed, under suspension of the rules. In the house this measure is in charge of Malarky of Multnomah, who proposed to present it in the afternoon as soon as the presentation of bills is reached in the regular order. There is a strong determination upon the part of the Multnomah delegation to expedite action on this bill, and no prospect of opposition has developed so far.

The senate passed the house concurrent resolution providing for the preparation of a suitable testimonial of tribute to the memory of the late Congressman Tongue. Myers of Multnomah introduced a bill providing for a free ferry at Sallwood. A large number of the measures presented and read were of minor importance.

The victory of the Fulton forces in the matter of the organization has been accepted in the best of spirits by the vanquished, and to all outward appearances harmony prevails throughout the republican ranks. Both President Brownell and Speaker Harris have already demonstrated that they are well qualified for their respective positions, and there is every prospect that the work of the session will proceed expeditiously from now on.

The Lewis and Clark Exposition bill was presented in the house by Malarky, of Multnomah, Tuesday afternoon. The bill was passed under a suspension of the rules to the second reading and ordered.

The Outlook.

The January Magazine Number of the Outlook contains some six or eight illustrated articles besides full-page portraits, poems, a story and the usual very full editorial treatment of current history and literature.

Among the illustrated articles are: "In Delhi," by W. F. Dix, a talk about the great Indian city where in January is to be held the imperial "durbah" or proclamation of Edward VII as emperor of India, expected to be a magnificent spectacle; the Hon. Sketches of the new French ambassador, M. Jusserand, of Mr. Strachey, editor and proprietor of the London "Spectator" who is visiting this city, and of Mr. Cannon, who will also certainly be the next speaker of the house of representatives. Mr. Augustine Birrell, the author of that most charming book, "Ochter Dicks," writes not only instructively, but with decidedly entertaining anecdotes about the history of the Bodleian Library at Oxford, which has just celebrated its three-hundredth anniversary; Mr. James Barnes, the author of several naval histories and stories, tells a strange chapter of United States history under the title, "The Tragedy of the Lost Commission," with quaint illustrations; "The Italian Immigrant in America" is a subject treated with special knowledge and wide human interest by Mr. W. E. Davenport, while the type of the Italians are shown by rarely fine photographs; a winter article, with strikingly beautiful pictures is contributed by Mr. Oscar von Engel.
