SWINE ARE PROFITABLE CRATER LAKE SNOWED IN

How Walla Walla Ranchers Make Money Out of Hogs.

A forceful demonstration of what diversified farming will do is given by W. J. Townley, of Union county, Oregon, a hog raiser of note, who says that the farmers of the Walla Walla valley, who now sell wheat at from 50 to 75 cents a bushel, can get half as much again by feeding it to hogs. Mr. Townley follows his method himself and says it is winner. His fine 2200-acre ranch in Union county is known all over Eastern Oregon.

Too Deep Yet for Parties to Reach the Lake.

The Southern Pacific is sending a San Francisco photographer into the Crater Lake county for the purpose of taking views of the scenery that may be used later on for advertising the district as a summer resort region. The company has planned an excursion to Crater Lake for the late summer and intends to boom that part of Oregon among the "camping-out" tourists who come to the coast.

Last winter for 40 days he fed a band of 100 hogs with crushed wheat, moistened with cold water, the feed being weighed daily by the man in charge. One dollar and ten cents a bushel was realized for all the wheat fed during that time. Had this wheat not been disposed of in this way it would have brought but 75 cents a bushel. It would pay to buy wheat at the market price and feed it to hogs, Mr. Townley claims. He advises main taining well-bred hogs and in using alfalfa in conjunction with wheat.

Reports from Medford, the nearest point on the Southern Pacific to the Crater Lake district, are to the effect that the heavy snows still cover the ground and that travel in the district is almost impossible. This report came into Portland yesterday and created considerable surprise among railroad officials. The Rogue River valley has been complaining of too much heat during the late spring and it was believed the snow had all gone off.

MAZAMAS ANNUAL OUTING

The Mountain Goats to visit Three Sisters.

The 19th annual outing of the Mazamas for 1903 will be made to the Three Sisters, Oregon, from July 9 to July 23, inclusive. The road to the Three Sisters, snow peaks of the Cascade Range, follows the course of the Mackenzie river, famous for its wild, scenic beauty, and the camping places have been arranged at the most picturesque points, convenience considered, along the route. There is a good road all the way to Lake Valley, at the foot of the mountain, where a trail leads around Oldman's Cliff and across the lava flow to Snow Line Camp, at the base of the middle peak. The ascent of the middle peak is neither difficult nor dangerous, and the view from the summit and the scenery in the vicinity, with its lakes, snow fields, glaciers and waterfalls, baffles description. Opportunity will be given to visit the celebrated Foley and Bellnap Hot Springs.

If the snow is still deep about Crater Lake this condition will probably result in the snow's going off with a rush within a very short time. The expedition to Crater Lake is intended to exploit the new National Park district which surrounds the Lake. The scenery is magnificent and the trip one that will attract attention. But little has been done in the past toward exploiting the region and few illustrative publications have been issued on the country. This will change when the expedition returns.
