TOWNSMEN SEEK COUNTRY.

They Seem to Do It in Obediones to Impulse Received from Mature's Forees.

What is the reason for the recent exodus of well-to-do Americans from our towns into the country? It increases with every year. What is the Reduse of it? As I look into the matter, says Rebecca Harding Davis, in Success, some curious facts come to view which I think I will set down here. The subject is not one that requires close reasoning. Perhaps a little gossip may throw more light upon it than any argument would do.

I have here a queer book, printed early in the last century in the old town of Cumberland, Md. It is the autobiography of a hunter, Browning by name, who, before the revolution, shot deer, bears, panthers and sometimes Indians, in the wilderness of the mountain ranges in Virginia and the Carolinas. In his old age, somebody who could read and write took down his recollections of his early days, and made a book of them. They give us some startling and sugestive glimpses of the condition of human nature when it is brought, during the solitude of many years, close to the brute nature, and to the old mother herself.

Here is one story, for example: Browning, in his old age, lived with a married daughter in a town in civilized fashion. But his two sons, who were trappers, came down one winter mountains and begged him from the to go back with them for a last hunt

Smells of Citles.

Sir Philip Burne-Jones insists that sach city has its own peculiar odor, that a stranger can smell a city "The great blended odor of the entire eity. There is truth in his remarks. When a stranger enters Munich there is a smell as of many breweries-a peculiar, sweetish, yet pungent odor of malt, not at all unpleasant to a beer drinker. After a day or two the smell is not remarked, but after the stranger leaves the city the smell is distinct in his memory; it ex-erts a spell; it urges him to drop his work, to take the next steamship. We have not been in Munich for 17 years, but that sweet smell haunts us still. Paris has a peculiarly individual odor; so has London, so has Berlin, so has Dresden. Boston, no doubt, has its own smell, which is highly respectable, but rather musty. with a suspicion of old family cockroaches .- Detroit Free Press.

A Million Every Month.

By manufacturing and selling a million records every month, the Colubmia Phonograph Co. has achieved the end for which it has long been striving-the reduction in the price of its High Speed Moulded Cylindrical Wax records from 50 cents each to 25 cents. Simultaneously with this reduction in price a new record, greatly superior to any that has ever been offered for sale is being furnished-a black superhardened record both durable and brilliant and combining awcetness and smoothness with remarkable volume. These records will fit all talking machines using cylindrical records and the facilities for manufacturing them have been in creased to an extent that will enable
