LANDS TO BE RESTORED

Only Part of Forest Reserve Withdrawal Permanent.

According to recent reports, Chief Gifford Pinchot, of the Bureau of Forestry, as well as other officials, state that only a minor part of the lands now withdrawn will ever be converted into forest reserves. In some cases practically the entire withdrawal will ultimately be restored to entry.

There appears to have been two prime reasons for withdrawing these lands and in many cases the more important of the two was to place the valuable vacant timber land beyond the reach of the "scrippers," speculators and land grabbers. The only way this could be done, while existing laws continue in force, was by withdrawing the lands from entry, and, of course, bona fide entrymen have to suffer along with the others. As long as these lands can be kept in withdrawal, under pretense of exam-nation to determine their desirability for forest reserves, so long will the public timber be protected.

In the meantime the Interior Department, with the full sanction and approval of the administration, is preparing to put in a hard winter's work before Congress, in an effort to secure public land legislation, such as the repeal of the timber and stone act, the desert land law, and commutation clause of the homestead act, but more than all else, the repeal of the forest reserve lien law, which is responsible for many of the frauds that have been perpetrated.

Secretary Hitchcock says he is in favor of the outright repeal of the lien land law, and believes that exchange should be allowed only to bona fide settlers within forest reserves. These persons should be permitted to relinquish their lands in a reserve and take an equal tract of approximately the same character and value from the vacant surveyed public domain.

Once Congress so amends the land laws, so that graft is cut off, there will be but little delay in restoring to entry the greater portion of the land now covered by temporary withdrawals. For in that case the lands can be taken only by bona fide entrymen, and to this there is no objection.

Arid Land Commission.

The State Land Board at its session last week, appointed an "Arid Land Commission" under the provisions of an act of the last legislature. The new commission appointed consists of Hon. H. E. Ankeny of Sterling, Jackson county, and Chas. W. Mott, of Ontario, irrigationists; the attorneys are T. G. Hailey, of Pendleton, and Hon. Zera Snow, of Portland, and the engineer, H. T. Gates of Portland.

The purpose for which this commission is created is to rearrange and codify the present irrigation laws and to investigate into the conditions of the state for the purpose of framing new irrigation measures to submit to the next session of the legislature for enactment.

CHICAGO TO GRANTS PASS

Head Office of Golden Drift Mining Co. Now Located Here.

The head office of the Golden Drift Mining Co., heretofore located in Chicago has been removed to Grants Pass, where the principal holdings of the company and the work of the construction of a power dam across Rogue river is being pushed. Miss B. Moore, head book keeper arrived from Chicago last week, and will remain for some time until the Grants Pass management familiarize themselves with the details of the work.

The construction of the Golden Drift dam is more or less familiar to the Grants Pass people but few of them fully realize the importance or scope of the work nor the benefit it will be to the agricultural and other industries in this section. The company owns 1200 acres of placer mining ground which is rich, and every season has produced gold in abundance.

There has always been one drawback, viz: the lack of water for mining purposes—a mining season of a few weeks only while there is pay ground enough to keep a dozen men at work 12 months in the year for years and years to come. This drawback the Golden Drift company proposes to overcome in the construction of the dam and equipping it with powerful centrifugal pumps, capable of lifting water from Rogue river in sufficient quantities to work the mine continuously on a large scale. The success of the company has been an assured fact for many months, notwithstanding the cries of croakers who have never been outside of our little valley, and have not investigated the wonders of modern engineering. This undertaking is a big one but is perfectly possible as there are at least three other similar plants working successfully in other parts of the union. There will be four 18 inch, five step compound centrifugal pumps each weighing 42,000 pounds and each one of which will deliver 9000 gallons of water per minute. This will give ample water for supplying six pipes equipped with 2½ inch nozzles, giving a force of 400 feet pressure on the highest ground which is about 400 feet above the dam. It is the intention of the company to ultimately run a system of irrigation ditches which will cover nearly 20,000 acres of agricultural land. The power for the mine will be generated by 16 46-inch turbines working under a 20-foot head, and developing approximately 5000 horse power. There will also be 16 46-inch wheels developing the same amount of power which will be for sale. Large generators will be installed and the power will be transmitted over wires to the points of consumption. The high voltage system will be used, which will make it feasible to carry the current to a distance of 100 miles. This power can be profitably conveyed to the mines for operating drills, hoists, etc., or for use wherever power or electric lighting is necessary. It is impossible to even estimate the importance of this power plant to the varied industries now in operation or that may be installed in this valley in years to come.

Work at the dam was begun in the spring of 1902 and has been pushed steadily ever since. There are now about 50 men employed and at present they are engaged in filling up the big 12 foot cribs with rocks and dirt, which is hauled on cars and dumped directly into the pits by a system of cables operated by a gasoline engine. The cars are filled by a steam shovel and a large amount of earth is handled daily. The dam has a width of 120 feet on the river bed and 16 feet on top, while the whole length of the dam is about 700 feet. Over 3,000,000 feet of timber has been used in the construction of the dam.

Suitable fish ladders have been constructed which allow the salmon and other fish to continue their way up the river. It is an interesting sight to watch the big salmon make a leap over the falls and it is no unusual sight to see half a dozen monster fish at once leaping five or eight feet in the air in an endeavor to clear the falls.

The dam and mine are but three miles from Grants Pass, the dam being alongside of the S. P. Ry track, while the mine is directly on the wagon road.

M. C. Ament, the manager of the company has been a resident of Grants Pass since the first work was commenced and his dealings with the Grants Pass people have always been most satisfactory.

A MUSICAL TREAT FRIDAY

The Parker Sisters Concert Will Be Enjoyable.

Every seat in the opera house should be occupied next Friday night at the concert by Misses Edna, Laura, Mary and Gussie Parker. These young ladies have lived in Grants Pass for the past 10 years and some of them have appeared in every home talent musical event that has occurred, and always have won merited applause. It cannot be questioned that they are a talented family and they are using every endeavor to turn their talents to the best use.

Miss Edna spent the past summer in Portland under the instruction of Mrs. Walter Reed, one of the foremost vocal instructors. Miss Laura will spend the winter in Portland, receiving competent instruction on the piano. Miss Mary is engaged in commercial lines while Miss Gussie is still in school. ## HORSETHIEF IS CAPTURED

Bert Bice, a young horsethief, was captured Friday evening at Merlin, after eluding Sheriff Parrott, of Douglas county, and his posse for three days. Bert, who is about 18 years old, and had recently been released from the Oregon penitentiary, and his brother, Dan, who is about 20 years old, stole four horses near Myrtle Point, and were working their way south to Galice Creek, where their mother lives.

They were overhauled near Riddle, Wednesday, and Dan was captured, but the younger boy escaped the pursuers, and continued southward, closely followed by Sheriff Parrott and deputies. They overtook him at Glendale Thursday, and three shots were fired, but Bice again escaped in the woods, and the next afternoon succeeded in reaching Merlin, 25 miles further south.

At Merlin Bice ran up against J. P. McConnell, the store keeper, who single handed and alone captured the rascal and this put a stop to the run of the Douglas county sheriff and posse.

Friday night after dark Bice went into the store and purchased ammunition canned beef, condensed milk and a pair of shoes. The small articles he stowed away in the pockets of his slicker. He then asked for cuff buttons. These articles were in the rear of the store, and as McConnell was wrapping them up, Bice grabbed gingersnaps and the shoes and disappeared into the darkness and rain.

McConnell gave chase, thinking he could make the rascal drop the shoes at his load, and McConnell gained on him steadily. Bice made several attempts to get his revolver, but could not manage it on the run.

At a hundred yards McConnell caught the thief by the collar and landed on top of him in the mud.

Cries for help brought his wife and neighbors with ropes, and the prisoner was bound and taken to the store and was turned over to the Douglas county sheriff.

Young Bice had been released from the Oregon Penitentiary August 25 after serving out his second term. The mother of the boys lives at Galice and the father at Riddle.

To my surprise it removed all pain and soreness and the injured parts were soon healed." For sale by all druggists.

J. R. HARVEY SPINS A YARN

puts Some Flourishes on the Old Story.

J. R. Harvey, lessee of the Old Channel mines at Galice Creek, in Josephine County is on a business trip to the East. He gives the following to the Duluth Daily Herald regarding Grants Pass:

"It is a bustling burg, and has been known to the outside world since it was given its present name. It was originally known as Coyote Hollow. Then one morning some good man with a gun came along and after shooting all of the store signs full of 45-caliber bullets the citizens woke up to the fact that the name of their city was a dead one.

"A meeting was called, and upon the suggestion of 'Single Shot Luke,' who presided with a pair of 'sixes' within easy reach, the name was changed to Progress City.

"Then General Grant visited the town, and during his visit he was invited to indulge in a little game of poker. The General was as wise as the rest of them, and when he looked at his hand and saw four kings, while some one else was dealing, he threw his hand face up on the table and said 'I pass.'

"The inhabitants took kindly to a man who had sense enough to drop four kings, and from that day to this the town has been known as Grants Pass to commemorate the event.

"Most persons think that there is some kind of pass there, and there is a little one, but I have given you the real history in regard to the name."

The appeal of Lady Somerset to America and American women on behalf of Macedonia has been answered in the past few days with earnest response by Mrs. Margaret E. Sangster, Mrs. John A. Logan, Julia Ward Howe, Florence A. Hanford, Mrs. Adlai Stevenson, Clara Barton, Mrs. Frederic Schiff, president National Mother's Congress, and scores of other prominent leaders throughout the United States, and petitions are now being generally circulated under their auspices.

At the first annual convention of the organized liquor dealers of Washington state, in session at Seattle Oct. 6 and 7, President James W. Morrison delivered a striking address of which the following is a part:

"We want public sentiment; money creates it. You never read an article or an editorial in the public press favorable to the liquor business. We want justice—money alone will afford it. We want legislation that will protect our interests and our property, and give us, like other tradesmen, vested rights in what we buy, pay for and own. Money alone will secure it.... We can never receive justice until we can demand and exact it, and inflict the penalty on the proper heads if it is not forthcoming.... If aspirants for public office are found to be in harmony with us, work as a unit for their election regardless of party. If known to be opposed to our welfare, move heaven and earth and hell to defeat them."

The town elections throughout Connetquot October 10 were in the aggregate a splendid triumph for Prohibition. Out of 17 towns that voted on the liquor question, 93 voted for Prohibition and 74 for license. Last year 83 voted for license and 56 against. There were many close contests and intense interest in the results. Torrington, that voted for Prohibition last year went back to license this time. The first returns of the Prohibition party vote in the town contests show some gains.

For the first time in 30 years the saloons of Bell county, Tex., closed their doors September 30. Prohibition will be in force there for two years from that date.

Monticello, Fla., voted out the saloons September 29, by a vote of 104 to 6, and Jefferson county, of which it is the county seat comes entirely under prohibition by a majority of 147.
