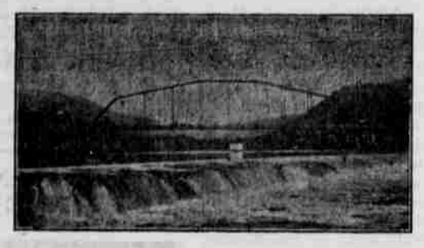
THE "COPPER BELT" OF JOSEPHINE COUNTY

The Vast Deposits and Well-Developed Copper Mines of the Waldo District—The Takilma Smelter.

The "copper belt" of Southern Oregon is a strip about 25 miles wide and extending north and south along the western borders of Josephine county. While the majority of mines thus far developed are confined to the Waldo district, a strip 50 miles in length and in the more southern part of the county, several good ledges are being developed on an extension of the same belt farther north. These are on Slate Creek and Galice Creek, and good claims are found as far north as Riddle, Douglas county.

There are eight or nine well developed copper mines in the Waldo district. The largest and best developed of these are owned by the Waldo Smelting & Mining Company. These properties are ready to begin work at any time, but on account of mountain country that lie between them and Grants Pass, the nearest railroad point, they are practically idle and are "resting on their oars," so to speak. However, a company known as the California & Oregon Coast Railroad incorporation, and composed of some of the same people as are interested in the mines of the Waldo Smelting & Mining Company, has been organized and propose to build a railroad from Grants Pass to Eureka, Cal. The survey has been completed and a right of way secured. The road will pass within five miles of the Waldo mines, and the latter will be reached by a spur from the main line. The Waldo Smelting & Mining Company has expended about $150,000 in the development and equipment of their mines.



BRIDGE ACROSS ROGEE RIVER AT GRANTS PASS.

The leages of the Southern Oregon copper belt compare favorably with the best copper mines in the world. They range in width from three to 150 feet. Values are carried in both gold and copper on an average of from $8 to $50 in the two metals. Just this past August the Takilma Smelting Company completed a 100-ton smelting plant at Takilma for the Waldo copper mines and the blowing in of this plant marked an important epoch in the history of Southern Oregon's mining industry.

The furnace is of the standard water jacket type, dimensions 40x92 inches at the tuyeres, representing a maximum capacity of 200 tons of ore per day of 24 hours, but by banking the fires, as at present, it can be made to handle as little as may be desired. That it can easily do what is expected of it is indicated from the fact that at the very commencement of operations it handled 15 one-ton charges per hour, the product being a matte containing about 40 per cent copper, besides gold and silver values which are very satisfactory.

The furnace was built by the Holthoff Machinery Company of Cudahy, Wisconsin, and its erection was superintended by Mr. A. I. Goodell, an experienced smelter man, now manager of the big smelting plant of the Le Roi Company at Northport, Washington. The present manager of the smelter is Mr. E. W. Walters, a good executive as well as a capable and experienced metallurgist.

The blast is furnished from a number four Connersville blower, and the tuyeres are fitted for both hot and cold blasts as necessity may require. An elevator from the ground floor to the charge floor is operated by steam pressure. The plant is lighted by electricity, furnished by a small dynamo in the engine room.

A noteworthy feature of the smelter is a brick flue to conduct away the fumes, and incidentally collect the flue dust and other fines. It is 186 feet long connected with the furnace by an inverted elbow, or "goose neck," which conveys the smoke to a vertical height of 88 feet, where the fumes are received into a boiler iron stack four and one-half feet in diameter and 40 feet high. The brick and time for the entire plant was manufactured on the ground. Chas Tutt is manager of the Takilma Smelting Company and closely associated with him are K. R. Babbett, J. A. Hull and other prominent mining men.

The Queen of Bronze mine, owned by Mr. Tutt, has furnished most of the ore that is being smelted at present. The ore is a chalcopyrite carrying gold and silver values, as well as copper. The ore deposit or vein is from 15 to 20 feet wide on a contact of serpentine and diorite. On the south end of the claim a shoot of ore 20 feet wide is developed to a depth of 60 feet. On the north end the vein is cut in two places and has an average width of 28 feet. A 600-foot crosscut tunnel is being driven, which is now about half finished, and will cut the vein at a depth of 287 feet.

The Cowboy mine, owned by the Waldo Smelting and Mining Company, is also furnishing ore for the smelter. This ore carries good values and contains from 10 to 12 per cent magnesia, a factor which renders the use of additional lime unnecessary in the smelting charge. The ore from these two mines, mixed, makes one of the easiest ores to smelt that any district can produce, as the ore from the Queen of Bronze carries the necessary silici, in addition to a magnetic iron ore which also carries gold and silver values; hence the ores of this district are practically neutral in character. The fuel used is coke, of which it requires about 150 pounds to the ton charge.

The Cowboy claim has been developed to a depth of about 60 feet. A tunnel already 400 feet long is being run, which will open up the ore body 210 feet deep.

Another promising group is the Mabel and Copper King claims, which have been developed by shaft to a depth of 87 feet, showing a 5-foot vein of good values.

On the Lyttle claim, one of the Waldo Smelting and Mining Company's group, a tunnel was driven which developed the vein 100 feet in depth, showing an ore body 27 feet wide by 90 feet long. A tunnel is also being driven here, which is now in 500 feet, and designed to encounter the vein at about 150 feet greater depth than the upper works. A 2000-foot gravity tram will be built to deliver the ore from this lower tunnel to a point near the smelter.

MINES AND MINING PLANTS

Brief Resume of Southern Oregon's Principal Quartz Mines.

To make a complete list of the producing mines of Southern Oregon, with the output of each, would be impossible, as the mineowners and managers here, like those of any and every district, are reticent in the matter of giving out definite information regarding the output of their properties. However, I can give a list of the principal mines of the Southern Oregon mineral zone, with a statement of the equipment of each, and from this one may roughly guess at the probable output. No mine is running long at a loss, and the fact that all of these, or nearly all, have been operating continually for from two to 15 years, and some longer, is proof sufficient that they are producing something.

Greenback mine, Grave creek district, two mills, one of 10, one of 30 stamps; 100-ton cyanide plant; supposed and undisputed output, $40,000 monthly; C. W. Thompson, superintedent, Greenback, Oregon.

Gold Bug mine, Mt. Reuben district—Five-stamp mill, 30-ton cyanide; supposed production, $5,000 monthly; Reuben Jones, superintendent, Glendale, Ore.

Golden Standard mine, Gold Hill district—Five stamp mill and plant; Kubli Brothers, Jacksonville.

Hammerseley mine, Jump-off-Joe district—Five stamp mill, concentrator, hoist, etc; F. H. Osgood, Grants Pass.

Mule mine, Rogue River district—Five stamp mill and plant; superintendent's address, Gold Beach, Ore.

Oregon Belle mine, Forest creek district—Four stamp mill, boiler, compressor, etc. Foster & Gunnell, New York and Western Mines Company, Grants Pass.

Oro Fino, Jump-off-Joe district—40 ton cyanide, with Sturdevant rolls, ore crushers, boilers and engine; S. Chase, manager, Grants Pass.

Opp mine, Jacksonville district, —10 stamp mill, concentrators, hoist, and complete plant, Dr. J. F. Reddy, manager, Medford.

Takilma Smelter, Waldo district, 100 ton copper smelting plant; Takilma Smelting Company, Colorado Springs, Chas. Tutt, manager.

Aside from the quartz mines of Southern Oregon, there are some 125 hydraulic placer mines in this district, which produces from $1000 to $60,000 each annually.

Cures Winter Cough

J. E. Gover 101 N. Main St. Ottowa Kan writes: "Every fall it has been my wife's trouble to catch a severe cold and therefore to cough all winter long. Lastfall I got for her a bottle of Horehound Syrup. She used it and has been able to sleep soundly all night long. Whenever the cough troubles her, two or three doses stops the cough, and she is able to be up and well." 25c, 50c, $1.00 at Model Drug Store.
