THE LOCAL HAPPENINGS

Brief Notes and Items of Interest and Importance.

G. E. McMann is putting in a woven wire fence to replace a wooden fence about the residence property of R. L. Coe, thereby greatly improving its appearance. The youngsters have discovered that the bark of the willow will slip and whistles are now the order of the day. When "willow whistles" can be made it is a sure thing that spring is well advanced.

J. L. Mitchell, supreme secretary of the Order of Washington will be in Grants Pass Friday, March 17, and wishes to meet every member of the order. The order meets each alternate Friday evening in the Woodman hall.

The six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Brown while at play last Friday, fell and broke her arm. The fracture was reduced by Dr. Douglass and it is healing so well that the little girl will soon have the use of her arm again.

The Grants Pass Music House has been removed from the Odd Fellows building to the New Courier building where it occupies the front room with A. E. Voorhies' photo supply house. The Courier business office also is located on this floor.

James Noah has sold his cottage on West Main street to H. A. Corlies and will leave next Monday with his family for La Grande, Ore., where he will take up his residence. Mr. Corlies has rented the house to Chas. Ellis, who has moved his family to this city from Jerome Prairie.

J. M. Ward will stay in town almost constantly from now on and will pay strict attention to tanning. He also has ordered a Hardman piano player, one of the latest improved styles and hopes to interest many in this player and to build up a trade in them. New location at Courier block, Front St.

A valuable work for those interested in irrigation can be promptly obtained free at the office of the experiment station, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. It is entitled Bulletin No. 145 and is a treatise on the uses of water, leveling ground and other matters pertaining to irrigation.

The Grants Pass school is preparing an exhibit for the Lewis & Clark fair. Nothing elaborate, is being attempted, require so much time as to all that would seriously interfere with the regular school work, it being the plan of City Superintendent Turner to simply have a showing made of the average, everyday work of the schools as carried on in all the grades and classes.

Mrs. J. P. Patterson arrived in Grants Pass Monday from Eugene to take charge of the music class, until recently taught by Miss Ethel Palmer. Mrs. Patterson will only be in Grants Pass until such time as Mrs. Rosa Hollenbeck, also of Eugene, can come, when she will assume permanent charge of the class. Mrs. Hollenbeck being detained by the serious illness of her father.

T. W. Williams met with quite a troublesome accident on Tuesday of this week. While working with a hatchet, the tool slipped and cut the second and third fingers of his left hand quite severely. The third finger especially was badly cut as the hatchet severed a piece of flesh on the ball of the finger from the first joint to the tip. The bone, however, was not damaged so that the injury, though vexatious, will not be permanent.

The court house grounds have been considerably improved in appearance this week by the removal of the superannuated picket fence on the sides facing Sixth and O streets, the young cypress hedge, planted on the inside of the fence having attained a growth which gives it sufficient decorative quality to atone for the absence of a fence. The top rail of the old fence is left as a protection to the hedge but the posts are cut shorter and a much nearer effect is produced.

Grants Pass now has five barber-shops with a total of 12 chairs, a new shop having been opened at the corner of G and Fourth streets in a room of the building belonging to B. A. Williams. This new shop will be conducted by J. E. Bird, who until three months ago had charge of the Palace barber shop. Mr. Bird last fall bought a 40 acre wood ranch on Gilbert creek, but that not being to his liking he sold the place to J. O. Sandberg and will again take up his regular trade.

A thoroughly metropolitan establishment in all its numerous departments is the new store of Thomas & O'Neill, the housefurnishers. Thoroughly awake to the rapidly changing conditions in Southern Oregon they have put in the largest stock of furniture south of Portland. The new elevator, the only and first one in Grants Pass is of great assistance in the rapid handling of orders.

Their prices seem very reasonable for we noticed a very neat iron bed full size for $2.65 also a new idea in bed couches for $4.75. The fact that such a large establishment is located in Grants Pass, would seem to indicate that Southern Oregon is growing rapidly.

Clifford Costain, an employe at the factory of the California Pine Box & Lumber Co., is incapacitated from work as the result of an accident which happened on Tuesday of this week. He was running the machine which is known among the employes as the "little rip saw" and was working on a short piece of lumber. In running a board through, he released it too quickly, supposing that his helper had secured the other end. The saw caught the board and "kicked" it backward with tremendous force, striking Costain just above the eye and cutting and bruising his head in an alarming manner. Fortunately the injury proved to be superficial and is not serious.

The "Moonshiners' Daughter."

The "Moonshiners' Daughter" which is to be presented at the opera house Wednesday, March 15, is a new and original melodrama in four acts. A thrilling story, abounding in strong and novel climaxes is interestingly told. It is a play that appeals to all classes of theater-goers, and is one of the few genuine successes of the season. The theme of the piece deals principally with the revenue service, the danger and excitement attendant in hunting and capturing the moonshiners in their mountain retreats. There is a strong, healthy sentiment underlying the play from beginning to end. An attractive feature of the entertainment is a number of big class specialties which are introduced.

Pattern & street-hats, the leading millinery houses of New York, Chicago and St. Louis, will be shown at the opening of the Golden Rule store about April 1st.
