SALMON FISHING TO BEGIN NEXT MONDAY

Big Demand For Fish and River
May Rise—Many Fishermen Arrive.

The open season for salmon fishing in that section of Rogue river above the mouth of the Illinois river opens January 1, and continues until March 15 when there is a close season until April 15 when fishing can again be carried on until August 1st, when the season closes for the remainder of the year.

The demand for Rogue river salmon promises to be larger than ever and the price is also likely to go higher owing to the competition of the cold storage shippers of Portland. Such is the demand for the fresh salmon in the East that fish as small as 20 pounds will be shipped. This prospect of ready sale and good prices has attracted many fishermen to Grants Pass, which is the headquarters for Rogue river fishing, and there will be more boats than for some years past. During the close season of this fall, a number of Rogue river fishermen went to the Columbia to fish, but they are all back, and there has also arrived this week a number of Columbia river and Clackamas river fishermen who will fish in Rogue river until the open season begins in the northern rivers this Spring.

Pioneer Teacher Visits Grants Pass.

Mrs. H. L. White, of Rock Point, making Christmas purchases, and to meet her daughter, Miss Leatha Taylor, who came that day from Portland, where she is a student in the Portland Medical College. While in the city Mrs. White and her daughter were guests at the home of John McArthur, an uncle of Mrs. White.

Mrs. White was formerly a teacher in the Grants Pass school at the time she taught the old original school building was in use. Its four rooms had ceased to accommodate the scholars and two rooms had been rented for the lower grades. When the brick Central school building was erected the opinion was generally expressed that it would be sufficient for the needs of the city for years to come. But the prophecy of the times did not prove true for since then a three-room frame and a six-room brick building have been erected and now the schools are as badly crowded as they were in the days of the old four-room building. So urgent is the need by reason of Grants Pass' growth that it is probable that an eight room brick building will be erected this next summer to replace the present three-room frame structure that does duty for the South school.

Irrigating By Hydraulic Rams

Southern Oregon is beginning to attract attention from the manufacturers of pumps and other machinery used in irrigation. Grants Pass was visited last Thursday by Fredrick Helms, secretary and manager of the Columbia Engineering Works of Portland, to look up the possibility of introducing their pumping machinery with the farmers and miners of Rogue River Valley.

Mr. Helms was on his way home from Eastern Oregon, where he had been to superintend the putting in of a big irrigating ram on Crooked river, near Prineville. This ram lifts 200 gallons of water a minute to a height of 200 feet and is capable of supplying sufficient water, with the aid of a storage reservoir, to irrigate 200 acres of land. Mr. Helms claims that the ram made by his company is the most economical method for raising water that has been devised and he plans to introduce them in Rogue River Valley.

Water Right Suit

F. M. Calkins, of Ashland, court reporter for the circuit court for this district, arrived in Grants Pass Tuesday to act as referee and to take the evidence in a suit for water rights on Williams creek instituted by Alex. Watts and Mrs. M. Topping against E. M. Spencer, L. M. Smith and Jacob Carter. H. P. Norton is attorney for the plaintiffs and Geo. W. Colvig represents the defendants. The case is an important one and a large number of witnesses have been examined by Referee Calkins during the time from Tuesday until Thursday, when the evidence was all in. The case will be heard by Judge Hanna at the January term of circuit court.

The fault of giving children medicine containing injurious substances, is sometimes more disastrous than the disease from which they are suffering. Every mother should know that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is perfectly safe for children to take. It contains nothing harmful and for coughs, colic and cramp is unsurpassed. For sale by all druggists.

Dairying in Southern Oregon

Southern Oregon is to have the next annual meeting of the Oregon Dairy-men Association, which at their recent session at Forest Grove voted the honor to Ashland, and will meet there next December.

Rogue River Valley is gaining considerable of a reputation as a dairy district and Dr. Withycombe and other experts predict that the time is not distant when this Valley will be one of the large dairy sections of the state and quite as noted for its fine butter as is Tillamook. Rogue River butter now has a high standard and the Ashland Creamery won a gold medal at the Lewis and Clark fair. The Ashland creamery has averaged 150 rolls per day this fall and the Medford creamery has averaged 200 rolls per day. These are the only creameries in Jackson county.

Josephine as yet has no creamery, but a large quantity of butter is made on the dairy farms, quite a number of the farmers having separators and make a superior butter. The Applegate and the Illinois valleys are each exceptionally good dairy districts and the industry is now becoming quite important, especially in the Illinois valley, where it is the principal business to many of the farmers. There are good openings now at Kerby and Provolet for small creameries. With a steady market for cream, the farmers in the vicinity of these places would very soon increase their herds of cows and these creameries could build up a large trade.

With all the butter that is made in Rogue River all the local demand is not nearly supplied and large quantities are imported. And such is the growth of this section by reason of its mineral, timber, fruit and other industries that the local demand for butter will always exceed the supply and good prices will continue, as now to make dairying one of the most profitable industries of Southern Oregon.

Cauling Spell Caused Death

Harry Duckwell, aged 25 years, checked to death early yesterday morning at his home, in the presence of his wife and child. He contracted a slight cold a few days ago and paid but little attention to it. Yesterday morning he was seized with a fit of coughing which continued for some time. His wife sent for a physician but before he could arrive, another coughing spell came on and Duckwell died from asphyxiation.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat, Dec. 1, 1901. Ballard's Horehound Syrup would have saved him. 25c, 50c, and $1.00 at Rotermund's and at Model Drug Store.

Flanagan Farm to Be Improved

P. N. Jewell, who a month since came to Grants Pass with his family from Portland, and after looking over the Valley bought the Flanagan ranch on Louie creek, moved his family Wednesday to his farm. There are 720 acres in Mr. Jewell's purchase and it is well adapted for fruit and stock. It is on Louie creek, six miles north of Grants Pass and on the line of the free rural delivery from this city, giving him a daily mail. He is but a mile and a half from Merlin so he will have convenient shipping advantages. Mr. Jewell is an energetic appearing young man of progressive ideas on farming and there is every likelihood that he will make a success of his venture.

No Case of Pneumonia in Record

We do not know of a single instance where a cough or cold resulted in pneumonia or consumption when Foley's Honey and Tar had been taken. It cures coughs and colds perfectly, so do not take chances with any such unknown preparation which may contain opiates, which cause constipation, a condition that retards recovery from a cold. Ask for Foley's Honey and Tar and refuse any substitute offered. For sale by H. A. Rotermund.

To Our Friends & Customers

The ending of the year reminds us of the many courtesies you have extended us, and the assistance given by you which enable us to call the Golden Rule one of the foremost stores in Southern Oregon.

In extending thanks and the compliments of the season, we are not unmindful of our obligations to you and assure you that we will show our appreciation in the same manner as has been our habit in the past, by giving you the very best values to be had.

We wish you a Bright and Prosperous New Year.

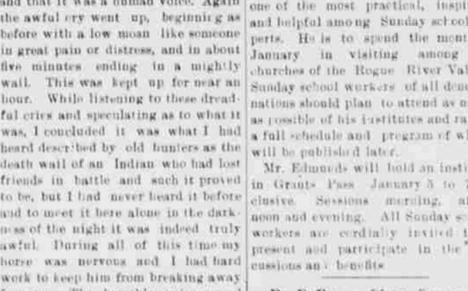

AN INDIAN STORY OF PIONEER DAYS

An Old Pioneer Narrates His Experience on Smith River Divide.

It was a lively day during the summer of '70 that I saddled my horse—Wild Bill—at the stable in Happy Camp on the Klamath river and started for my home in the Illinois valley, near Waldo. There was a big trail at the camp the night before. I had dined all night and was tired, but business called me home. It was 11 o'clock when I left the camp and I reached what was known as the Tub Spring on the summit of the mountain at 5 that evening. Here was fine grass and I turned Bill loose to feed, intending to start again after an hour's rest as I had resolved to travel all of the following night. I lay down on the grass near the spring and was soon fast asleep. I did not intend doing this as a grizzly bear and gray wolves were often met here on this trail and it was not really safe for one to sleep there alone. I was sleeping soundly when a snort from my horse rang out on the air. I bounded up while Bill came running to me. I spoke gently to him and we both looked and listened for some time, but I could neither see nor hear any thing as a dense fog was settling over the mountain and it was soon so dark that I could not see the trail. I struck a match, consulted my watch and found that it was 10 o'clock, but I was determined to reach Waldo soon as possible. I gave Bill the reins, knowing that he would keep the trail if given his own way. Bill was a rapid walker and he walked steadily for about two hours when he halted and refused to move. I let him stand a moment and said "go on, Old Boy," but he snorted and still refused to go ahead. It was the blackest night I ever saw. I could not see my hand when held above my head. Again I tried to get Bill to go on but he was frightened and wanted to turn back on the road. I was tired and concluded to camp there the rest of the night. I led Bill to a tree and groped round through the timber, which grew here as thick as it could stand, but could find nothing with which I could make a fire, so I wrapped my saddle blanket around me, lay down in the trail near my horse and was soon asleep. I slept about an hour when a low cry arose on the night which grew louder and louder as it progressed until it became a mighty wail. In all of my life I had never heard a noise so truly awful, and I stood there in the darkness almost paralyzed with fear. I knew that no animal on earth ever cried like that and that it was a human voice. Again the awful wail went up, beginning as before with a low moan like someone in great pain or distress, and in about five minutes ending in a mighty wail. This was kept up for near an hour. While listening to these dreadful cries and speculating as to what it was, I concluded it was what I had heard described by old hunters as the death wail of an Indian who had lost friends in battle and such it proved to be, but I had never heard it before and to meet it here alone in the darkness of the night it was indeed truly awful. During all of this time my horse was nervous and I had hard work to keep him from breaking away from me. The horrible noise ceased at last and all was still. They were on the trail ahead of me about two hundred yards distant and what to do I did not know, but I concluded to leave the trail and try to get around them. I saddled Bill and taking the reins in my hand led the trail and led him slowly, feeling my way through the brush. After going a short distance I saw a small fire on the trail and I could see the forms of about a dozen Indians sitting on the ground around it. I now moved with great caution, parting the brush ahead of me and frequently jerking Bill to keep him quiet and at last reached the trail around the Indians camp. I was glad indeed as I was positive they had not heard me. Again I mounted Wild Bill and we reached Waldo about 10 o'clock the next day where I learned that a few days before a lot of Snake Indians, who were on the Smith River reservation above Crescent City, had killed some Indians and several white men and escaped. Some of this band had been killed in the affray and those were the fellows whom I had seen and who had chanted that great lamentation on the mountain that night. JIM CHITWOOD.

To Hold Sunday School Convention
James Edmunds, whose cut we present herewith, is a lecturer upon Sunday school work of national reputation. For 10 years he has been holding teacher-training institutes and speaking upon the many aspects of his chosen theme. Previous to coming to the Pacific Coast to take charge of the Sunday school work of the Baptist denomination he served as Field Secretary for the Wisconsin State Sunday School Association. Ten years of close observation and hard study has made of Mr. Edmunds one of the most practical, inspiring and helpful among Sunday school experts. He is to spend the month of January in visiting among the churches of the Rogue River Valley. Sunday school workers of all denominations should plan to attend as many as possible of his institutes and receive a full schedule and program of which will be published later.

Mr. Edmunds will hold an institute in Grants Pass January 5 to 7 inclusive. Sessions morning, afternoon and evening. All Sunday school workers are cordially invited to be present and participate in the discussions and benefits.
Dr. DePue a Ships Surgeon
The following complimentary mention of Dr. DePue, well known in Grants Pass and who was a sister of R. L. Cox and Miss Mary Cox of this city, appeared in a recent issue of the San Francisco Chronicle:
Dr. E. Spence DePue, for some time a practicing physician in Fruitvale, who has acquired considerable fame as the author of the story, "Dr. Nicholas Stone," now published in book form, sails on the steamship Islands and Hong Kong as ship's surgeon. His family remains in Fruitvale. People will expect eventually to see some of his experiences woven into another delightful volume of story.
Torture of a Preacher
The story of the torture of Rev. O. D. Macre, pastor of the Baptist church, of Harrisville, N. Y., will interest you. He says: "I suffered agonies, because of a persistent cough, resulting from the grip. I had to sleep sitting up in bed. I tried many remedies, without relief, until I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which entirely cured my cough, and saved me from consumption." A grand cure for dressed conditions of Throat and Lungs. At all druggists; price 50c and $1.00, guaranteed. Trial bottle free.
It is late but not too late to order calling cards from the Courier, 50 cents for 50 neatly printed cards, 50 cents for 100 cards.

Special School Meeting

The special meeting for the Grants Pass school district was held Thursday afternoon for the purpose of levying the tax to raise the money to carry on the city schools for the year 1906. A levy of seven mills was made, which will raise $9000. It is expected that the state and county apportionment will amount to about $6000, which will make up the required amount of $15,000 to meet the district's obligations for the ensuing year.

MARRIED

SMITH—DISBROW—At the home of the bride's parents in this city, Monday, December 25, 1905, Clara Smith and Miss Alice Disbrow.
DeARMOND—BENSON—At the home of the bride's parents, Sunday, December 24, 1905, Wm. V. DeArmond and Miss Francis Benson, Stephen Jewell officiating.

SMITH—BARRIE—In this city, Wednesday evening, December 27, 1905, Lee Smith of Dallas, Ore, and Miss Bertha Barrie.
The wedding was held at the residence of the bride's aunt, Mrs. J. K. Pigney, and was a quiet affair, only the immediate relatives of the bride and a few intimate friends being present. Rev. B. H. Brown of Bethany Presbyterian church officiated and the ceremony was performed in an impressive manner. The rooms were tastefully though, unostentatiously decorated for the occasion and light refreshments were served and enjoyed after the conclusion of the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Smith left on the early train Friday morning for Portland where they will make a brief visit at the home of Mrs. Smith's sister, Mrs. Hanna, after which they will go to their home in Dallas where they will be at home to their friends after January 1.
Mr. Smith is a machinist and proprietor of a cycle in Dallas and is a man of recognized ability and sterling worth. The bride, with the exception of the past few years when she has been following her vocation as milliner in Portland and other places, has been a resident of Grants Pass since early childhood. She is a talented and highly estimable young lady and has always been popular in social and musical circles in this city, where she has very many friends and acquaintances who are wishing all happiness to her and to Mr. Smith.

DIED

WALLACE—At her son's home, Ed. Wallace of Wilsona, December 21, 1905, Mrs. Susan H. Wallace, aged 79 years, 8 months and 3 days.
The funeral was held Friday, Rev. W. C. Long, conducting the services. The interment was in the Wolf Creek cemetery by the side of her deceased husband. Mrs. Wallace was a native of Kentucky, and came to Oregon in 1845 and has been a resident of Southern Oregon for many years. She is survived by one daughter and four sons, Mrs. Lydia Stocket of Marshfield, Ore., James Wallace of Eagle Valley, Ore., D. L. Wallace of Halley, Idaho, J. W. Wallace of Bandon, Ore., and T. E. Wallace of Wilsona, Ore., who mourns the loss of a loving mother.
SMITH—At the family home in Grants Pass on Sunday, December 24, 1905, Mrs. Celia A. Smith, aged 64 years, 4 months and 6 days.
Mrs. Smith had been slightly afflicted with heart trouble but no serious consequences were apprehended. For the week prior to her death she had been in very good health and had planned to spend Christmas with her daughter, Mrs. W. C. Fry at Merlin. Sunday evening she and her son Fred went to the depot to take the train for Merlin. While sitting in the waiting room, Mrs. Smith was stricken with a fainting spell. She was taken in an unconscious condition to her home where she died within a few minutes. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at the residence on Mill street, the services being conducted by Rev. U. O. Beckman. The exercises at the Odd Fellows cemetery were conducted by the Womans Relief Corps. There was a large attendance of friends for Mrs. Smith was highly esteemed by all who had her acquaintance and she was a leading member in Newnan M. E. church and prominent member of the Womans Relief Corps, of which order she was senior vice-president at the time of her death. Mrs. Smith, whose maiden name was Peck, was born in Fen Du Lac, Wis., and was married to Henry Smith June 20, 1861. Mr. Smith, as many an other man did in that terrible time of war had his wedding and his enlistment at the same time and leaving his young bride to await his possible return from the South he joined the army, serving the greater time in the 12th Wisconsin infantry. He re-enlisted in another regiment and served during the war. He died in 1894 and was buried in the Odd Fellows cemetery where the remains of his faithful wife are now at rest. Mr. and Mrs. Smith moved from Wisconsin to Missouri in 1873 and in 1877 they came to Oregon, first residing on Foothills creek. For the last 18 years the family have resided in Grants Pass. There were eight children born to Mr. and Mrs. Smith and all are alive but Frank E. Smith, who died while the family was crossing the plains. The children are Clifford Smith of Silver Lake Or., Mrs. W. C. Fry, Merlin, Mrs. J. S. Harbison of Troutout, Ora Smith of Kerby, Harvey Smith of McCloud Cal., Mrs. O. L. Shogren of Portland and Fred Smith of Grants Pass. All were present at the burial of their mother except Clifford Smith to whom word could not be sent in time or him to reach Grants Pass in time for the funeral.
Among the floral offerings was one of rare beauty, ordered from Portland by the American Athletic Club, of which Fred Smith is a prominent member.
