TO TAKE A TRIP AROUND THE WORLD

The Date Will Be February 6, and An Interesting Time is Promised the Tourists.

A unique entertainment is planned for the evening of Tuesday, February 6, to be given under the auspices of the board of lady managers of the Southern Oregon General Hospital, the proceeds to assist in defraying the expense of fitting up the Hospital. The event will be called "A Trip Around the World," and at each place the visitors will be shown articles and products of the country represented and refreshments will be served such as the hostess of the country would place before her guests. Tickets which will admit to all the places will be 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for children.
To arrange for this entertainment a meeting was held Tuesday evening at the parlors of the Presbyterian church, at which some 35 workers for the Hospital were present. H. C. Kinney was made chairman and the details of the affair were arranged. The places to be visited will be a representation of Chinese life, to be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sampson. Then Japanese life can be seen at the Guild hall, to be followed by Italian life at the parlors of the Presbyterian church. At the home of T. P. Cranner will be represented life in Holland and at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Kinney will be represented the life of the Colonial days. Then a trip through Dixie Land and a glimpse of plantation life will close the tour at Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ireland's home.
B. R. Stevens, one of the owners and manager of the Pioneer Planing Mills, of Ashland, was in Grants Pass Tuesday and Wednesday on a visit with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Williams. Mr. Stevens stated that he considered the outlook for the lumber trade in Southern Oregon as very good for this year.

A GIRL STANDS TRIAL ACCUSED OF MURDER

Dora Jennings' Trial Results in a Disagreement of the Jury—Second Trial in April.

The trial of Dora Jennings came to an end for this term of court when the jury Thursday morning, after having deliberated for 24 hours, filed into the circuit court room and announced to Judge Hanna that they were unable to agree to a verdict. The first ballot is said to have stood six for acquittal and six for conviction, and the last ballot seven for acquittal and five for conviction. When the report was read it made no perceptible effect on Dora, she remaining as self composed as she had been throughout the trial. The jury were all men of good intelligence and their decision fully reflects popular sentiment, which is about evenly divided as to whether the unfortunate girl is guilty or not. The jurymen were W. L. Babcock, J. J. Moll, F. H. Schmidt, T. A. Glyn, J. P. Kenney, C. J. Howard, H. S. Woodcock, E. M. Albright, Wm. Bunch, G. L. Bensen, C. W. Craig and J. A. Saverth.

Judge Hanna then remanded Dora to the custody of the sheriff and fixed her second trial for the April term of circuit court. Sheriff Lewis had kept Dora Jennings at his home since he brought her from Jacksonville, but Thursday she became the first occupant of the new brick jail. Her brother Jasper is confined in the old wooden jail where he is guarded by a jailer. Dora is not confined to a cell but has the freedom of the large room in which the cages are located. A comfortable bed was provided for her by order of County Judge Booth and Mrs. Lewis wife of the sheriff provided the girl with many of the little comforts that will go to make her three months imprisonment less irksome. For the first time since she was put in jail last September Dora and shed tears, but made no complaint. She expressed deep regret for her brother Jasper, and hoped he would yet be set free as he was not guilty. They have not met since the day of their arrest, except for the few minutes when he was brought into the court room as a witness during her trial, then they were not allowed to speak to each other. She had with her the black kitten that she had brought from Jacksonville and which had been given to her by the little daughter of Deputy Sheriff Crawford, of Jackson county. She is quite a reader, and of the better class of books and papers, and while in the Jacksonville jail spent much of her time in reading.

The trial of Dora Jennings for complicity in the murder of her father, Newton Jennings, was shot in the head, while in the bed at their home at Granite Hill on the night of September 7th, 1905, began last week Thursday.

The state was represented by District Attorney A. E. Reames and Deputy District Attorney C. L. Reames of Jacksonville, and Miss Jennings was represented by Wm. M. Colvig of Jacksonville and Geo. H. Durham of Grants Pass. During that day the jury was empaneled, and Friday the jury accompanied by Sheriff Lewis and District Attorney Reames and Attorney Geo. L. Durham visited the scene of the murder at Granite Hill.
Saturday morning the real work of the trial began, and at the hour of convening court the court room was crowded with a morbid gathering of men, women, boys, girls and children. Many of the whole families attended as they would a circus and many brought their lunches lest they would lose their seats during the noon hour. Such was the desire to see a human being put in jeopardy and to hear the possible recital of the bloody details of the assassination, that cold lunches were eaten at noon hour in many a Grants Pass home, and laboring men, mechanics and farmers were well represented and there were even business and professional men to be seen in the crowd, as strong hold on humanity.

The case was not closed until Wednesday morning when Judge Hanna, in a very clear and impartial manner gave his instructions to the jury and the 12 men retired to weigh the evidence and fix the guilt or the innocence of the young girl. Numerous witnesses were examined both for the state and the defense, but no direct evidence was adduced to prove that Dora had part in the killing of her father. Dora, herself, never once lost control of herself and did not get into a quarrel with her attorney and the cross examination of the District Attorney, and steadily maintained her innocence. District Attorney Reames and exerted himself to his closing argument. Attorneys Colvig and Durham each watched every point and made the most of the evidence for their client and each in making clear, up the case at the close of the testimony. Mr. Colvig who is one of the best criminal lawyers in Southern Oregon, though suffering from a severe cold, made an address of exceptional strength.
Thursday Jasper Jennings, against whom the jury in his trial last week, was in a verdict of murder in the first degree, was Thursday sentenced by Judge Hanna to be hung on March 9. His attorney H. D. Norton made a motion for a new trial, which was denied by Judge Hanna, and the case was appealed to the supreme court. It was argued that the state's place in the execution will take place in the penitentiary at Salem. Young Jennings is not little affected, maintaining the indifference that he has shown since first arrested.

Bridge Work Looked After.

Commissioner C. E. Lovelace and County Judge J. O. Booth spent Thursday on a trip down Rogue river examining the roads and to arrange for the building of a new bridge across a creek below John Raanan's place, which washed away and went down Rogue river during the recent flood.

The Palmaters.

The Palmater Sisters, who appeared at Stone's Music Hall last evening presented a unique entertainment which included all the elements of a first-class musical entertainment, with a bright concert flavor. Their program consisted of soprano, contralto and trombone solos, quintettes, vocal and instrumental trios and were rendered in a style quite refreshing and picturesque garbed in costume. Mr. Chas. W. Hitecock in his dramatic monologues is worthy of special mention as his work is clean and up-to-date in every respect, and showed for itself by the numerous encores he received. It is hoped that the music loving people of Grants Pass may have an opportunity to hear this excellent company again in the near future, and

Communicated

To the readers of the Courier and the public:
I was censured for stopping and talking to District Attorney Reames on my way out of the court room, Saturday, 20th, and I wish to make an explanation as to why I stopped to talk to him. It was not because I was overly anxious to give in my evidence against Dora Jennings, but because Mr. Reames had questions which he asked me as to Dora's actions after the murder that he wanted to ask me and when Mr. Reames spoke to me when I passed him and said I was excused, I stopped and
