BIG APPROPRIATION

BILL IS PASSED
The Voters Sanction Work of Legislation and Help Normal Schools.

The money provided for in the general appropriation bill voted on at the recent election and carried by a good majority, will become available on July 1st to the various institutions and purposes for which it is intended.
This appropriation bill was passed by the last legislature but the expenditure was prohibited by a petition that was filed with the secretary of state demanding a vote on it by the people of the state as provided for under the new referendum law. This vote could not be taken until the next general election, which was the one held this month. As required by law the state board, made up of the governor, secretary-of-state and treasurer went ahead and fixed the tax levy to raise the money to meet these appropriations.
The result is that the greater part of this million dollars has been collected in and turned over to state treasurer with other state funds, all to be loaned out by him and he to get the interest, while the state has been paying interest on warrants issued to meet the running expenses of its public institutions. This bungle in the appropriations benefitting only the state treasurer who, drawing a salary of but $600 a year is one of the best paid state officials.

The alleged cause for holding up the appropriation bill was that many tax payers were opposed to supporting four state normal schools, the little one at Drain being especially singled out for suppression. In order to prevent putting the state heavily in debt with a heavy interest charge the appropriation was passed by the people, but there is a general understanding the next legislature will make no appropriation for the Drain normal and that the appropriations will be made in separate bills so a referendum vote would not hold the entire amount and cripple the state institutions.

The following are the items embraced in the appropriation bill and which calls for $1,004,429.90: Oregon state insane asylum, maintenance $400,000.
Oregon state insane asylum, new wing, betterments, etc $87,250.
Oregon state insane asylum transportation of insane $32,500.
Oregon state penitentiary, transportation of convicts $15,000.

president, expenses of $335.50.
Irrigation commission, expenses of $324.40.

One of the most important pieces of public land legislation enacted at the present session of Congress is the law permitting the homesteading of agricultural land in forest reserves. This legislation is important not alone in that it places these valuable farm areas within the reach of the homeseeker, but also because it knocks out the most pronounced objection to the government forest reserve system. Of all the protests made against forest reserves and their extension, none was so widespread as the argument that reserves withdrew from settlement and entry countless, fertile valleys lying along streams that had been brought within forest reservations.
That objection can no longer be raised, for this land can be entered in the manner prescribed in the new law.
President Roosevelt and the Public Lands Commission have recognized that the government forest policy is not perfect, and it has been their endeavor to bring about such changes as will meet legitimate objection. They soon saw the justice of the demand of men who sought to make homes in the attractive valleys which penetrate every forest reserve of the West, and at the very beginning of the present session the president urged the enactment of a law such as that which has just gone on the statute-books. He called the attention of congress to the recommendations on this subject made by the Public Lands Commission, and in due course of time the bill went through.

The bill in substance provides that the secretary of agriculture, in his discretion, may examine and determine the location and extent of land within forest reserves, permanent or temporary, which are chiefly valuable for agriculture and which may be occupied for agricultural purposes without injury to the forest reserves, and shall file with the Secretary of the Interior a list and description of all such land, with a request that the same be opened to entry under the homestead laws. The Secretary of the Interior, upon receipt of this request, will declare the land open to homestead settlement in tracts not exceeding 160 acres and not exceeding 1 1/2 miles in length. Prior to the actual opening, however, the fact is to be regularly advertised for a period of 60 days. The law provides that settlers who occupied land of this character prior to January 1, 1906, shall have preference right to make homestead entry of the same, if they can show that they are acting in good faith.

Inasmuch as the agricultural land within reserves usually occurs in long, narrow strips, the entries must naturally be described by metes and bounds, and will be so recorded in the department. The commutation clause of the homestead law does not apply to land within reserves.
A provision has been inserted in the bill to the effect that settlers upon agricultural land in forest reserves on January 1, 1906, who have already exercised or lost their homestead privilege, but are otherwise competent to enter land under the homestead laws, shall have the right to make an additional entry of the reserve land they occupy, but must pay $2.50 per acre for it.

A case is to be brought before the Circuit Court at Oregon City to test the law which empowers a fruit inspector to enter a pest-infested orchard after the owner has been daily notified, and has failed to spray his trees. A Milwaukee orchard was entered under these condition several weeks ago and 34 prune trees infested with scale were cut down. The irate owner promised to make the inspector pay for the damage inflicted, and in pursuance of this purpose, has brought suit for the sum of $2040, the alleged value of the trees thus destroyed.

The question of clean orchards and perfect fruit in this state is involved in the outcome of this suit. That the owners of orchards will not, in many cases, without compulsion, spray their fruit trees and destroy those that are mossy, dirty and useless, is a fact well attested by the infested fruit that has appeared in this market in years past and by the moss-grown, peet ridden trees that abound throughout the Willamette Valley. The or-chardist who sprays his trees finds his crop at the mercy of his neighbor who neglects to do so. It is manifestly impossible to re-establish and maintain the reputation of Oregon fruit according to the required market standard, unless these old orchards are destroyed and the new ones are sprayed at proper times. The thrifty citizen finds spraying his own orchards unavailing while the trees of his neighbor across the way are white with wooly aphid, mottled with San Jose scale, or a breeding place for the collin moth.
This statement carries its own evidence and argument. It follows that Oregon must either abandon its pretensions as a state able to raise fruit as fine as any in the world or take measures to compel indolent, thriftless orchardists to come up to the standard set by the Board of Horticulture for the production of clean fruit.—Portland Oregonian.

Good Advice From Rotermund as Create an Appetite.
Any physician will tell you that is unwise to eat unless one is really hungry. It is far better to mismeal than to eat without appetite.
But do not take a tonic, stimulant or appetizer to make you hungry. Rotermund says that the best way to create an appetite is to restore the gestion to health by the use of M-na stomach tablets, a reliable remedy that he has used with the best of sa-faction.
When Mi-o-na is used, the irritation and inflammation of the stomach coating will be soothed, the gas follicles will be strengthened so that they will pour out the natural digestive fluids with regularity, and food you eat will be perfectly digested without distress. All headaches, sleeplessness, specks before the eyes, poor appetite, tired feelings, nervousness, back-aches, and other troubles, caused by a poor digestion, will disappear and you will feel well over.
A large box of Mi-o-na stomach tablets is sold for 50 cents by Rotermund and it is so successful and reliable in curing indigestion and other stomach troubles, with the exception of cancers of the stomach, that he sells it underwritten guarantee that the money will be refunded unless it does all that is claimed for it.
If you have any stomach weakness here is an opportunity to be cured without risking a cent yourself.
