A Brief Record of Local Events.

M. McLane of Greenback was in town Tuesday in search of men to work the Greenback mine. Mr. McLane was formerly foreman of this mine but has now leased the property and is putting on a new force of men.

A man near Corvallis is one of many who have proved the value of spraying fruit trees. He has 2000 trees and heretofore almost all the apples have been wormy and were not worth much. This year he sprayed the labor and 95 per cent of his large apple crop is sound and will command a good price.

J. W. Taylor, the Southern Pacific right-of-way man, arrived from the south Tuesday, going back as far as the Klamath next day. He is working north from Humboldt county and has experienced no difficulty in procuring rights-of-way. The railroad means a great deal to Del Norte county and our people should encourage the enterprise.—Crescent City Record.

George Snow had a painful accident last Saturday at the factory where he is employed, caused by stepping on a piece of timber in such a manner that his ankle was thrown out of place. A similar accident occurred to Bert Fahs the day before and these gentlemen have been forced to navigate on crutches for several days but have so far recovered that they are now able to get around with their usual activity.

Jasper Darnell brought to the Courier office this week a sample of Yellow Dent corn that would do credit to Kansas. The stalks are 12 and 13 feet tall and ears nearly a foot long, solid and fully matured. Mr. Darnell is living on the Bunch place, above the school house at Murphy, and has the place leased. He has about eight acres of corn but only a few rows of the big stalk corn, seed for which he selected last Fall.
