I am grateful for that, Baron Dancloss," said the other simply. Then he led away, and a comfortable cot in the Gaulook hospital soon held his feverish frame, while capable took care of his wounds. He did not know it, but two fully armed maintained a careful guard his door under instructions from the head of the police. Moreover, ted detail of men sallied forth to the lower pass in search of the

The atmosphere of the place suggested romance to the eager American Downstairs were the royal In the halls were attendants All about were maidservants and ob sequious lackeys, crowding the nome of the kindly countess. At last, comfortable and free from the dust of ravel, the two friends sat down to

"Oh, I am so delighted," murmured Beverip for the hundredth time.

"I'm appalled when I think of the dangers you incurred in coming to me No one but a very foolish American girl could have undertaken such a trip as this. Dear me, Beverly, I should have died if anything dreadful had happened to you. Why did you do it?" questioned the princess. And then they minute. "What a whimsical ruler you are! erled Beverly. "Upsetting everything sensible just to rush off hundreds of miles to meet me! And Axphain is trying to capture you too! Goodness, you must love me!"

Ob, but I did have a trifling affair of state to lay before the czar, my dear! Tomorrow we shall be safe and sound in the castle, and it will all be very much worth while. You see, Beverly, dear, even princesses enjoy a diversion now and then. One wouldn't think anything of this adventure in the United States; it is the environment that makes it noticeable. Besides, you traveled as a princess. How did you like It?

And then the conversation related particularly to the advantages of roy alty as viewed from one side and the disadvantages as regarded from another. For a long time Beverly had been wondering how she should proceed in the effort to secure absolute ciemency for Baldos. As yet she had said nothing to Yetive of her promise to him, made while she was a prin-

"Oh, I think he deceived himself," spoke Yetive easily. "Besides, you look as much like a princess as I."

"There is something I want to speak very seriously about to you, Yetive," said Beverly, making ready for the "You see, he did not want to Ganlook with me, but I insisted. Now, the trouble is this, Yetive: I am not the princess, and I cannot redeem a single promise I made to him. He is helpless, and if anything goes wrong with him he will hate me forever."

"No; he will hate me, for I am the princess, and he is none the wiser."
"But he will be told that his princess was Beverly Calboun, a supposed ly nice American girl. Don't you see how awkward it will be for me? Now, Yetive, darling, what I wish you to do is to write a note, order or edict or whatever it is to Baron Dangloss, commanding him to treat Baldos as a patient and not as a prisoner, and that when he is fully recovered he is to have the privilege of leaving Ganlook without reservation."

"But he may be a desperate offender against the state, Beverly," plaintively protested Yetive. "If we only knew what he is charged with!"

"I'm afraid it's something dreadfully serious." admitted Beverly gloomily. "He doesn't look like the sort of man who would engage in a petty undertaking. I'll tell you his story, just as he told it to me," and she repeated the meager confessions of Baldos.

"I see no reason why we should heat tate," said the princess. "By his own nal. You did quite right in promising him protection, dear, and I shall sustain you. Do you want to play the princess to Baldos a little longer?" "I should love it." cried Beverly, her

The Young Peoples Christian Temperance Union held a short business meeting December 7, in the tabernacle before the regular service. Mr. Bil-horn gave a short talk, which was very inspiring to the young people, taking as his subject "The Two Ladders," the rounds of which are named in Gal. 5:19-23. As we are having a membership contest we thought it advisable to give a reception for the new members and all friends of the Union on January 4th, place to be appounced later.

Merlin W. C. T. U. held profitable neetings December 18. Miss Ansor age addressed the Union at 2:30 and gave a talk to the L. T. L. at 3:30 and also to the Y's and friends in the evening. All meetigns were held at the M. E. church. Miss Ansorage was delighted with her visit at that taken in the work.

Grants Pass W. C. T. U. voted to have an L. T. L. meeting while Miss Ansorage was here, but, owing to the Xmas at the tabernacle and the children were expected to sing, the L. T. L. meeting was omitted but will be called when the days grow longer and our local secretary, Mrs. Cowdrey, can organize a Loyal Temperance Legion.

The days before Christmas are a time of expectation. So were the days and years before Christ came. Every home has its secrets. There are whisperings and expressions. So there were promises locked in prophecy and expressions of longing and hope, until Christ, the Gift of God and the desire of all nations, was made manifest.—The Herald and Presbyter.
