PROTECT THE STREETS AND KEEP THEM CLEAN

Very Much to Be Derived Along This Line by Individual Efforts.

While we are making progress in the art of keeping the municipal highways clean, more especially through the better organization of the city cleaners, there is much still to be desired from individual efforts, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Litter is carelessly scattered, fruit is dropped here and there, too many evidences of indifference to the common good are daily shown. Nevertheless there has been a great change for the better in this respect, and it has been brought about by appeals to the consideration of the individual rather than to stringent legis-

In London not long ago a pedestrian slipped on a banana skin and was heavlly thrown on the pavement and in falling fractured his skull and died while being removed to the hospital. Because of this tragedy the London county council has enacted an ordinance that provides for the punishment of persons who are apprehended for throwing banana skins on the London pavements. In each case a fine of 40 shillings will be imposed, and nothing is left to the discretion of the magistrate. If the police catch the offender he will be fined 40 shillings, and in London that's a severe punishment for a minor offense.

Of course special legislation of this sort isn't usual in our own land, but the incident goes to show that the subject of protecting the streets-for this is one form of protection-is being very seriously considered by other municipalities.

HOUSES OF CINDERS.

How Liverpool Makes Use of Its

Liverpool has put other places in its debt by showing how the problem of disposing of city or town rubbish may be made to solve itself, says the Washington Star. In its simplest terms the solution is, "Burn the rubbish; build houses of the cinders."

Concrete is already considerably used in the United States in building and bids fair to perform a useful part in architecture by husbanding wood and sparing the forests. In Liverpool the cinders left from the burning of rubbish at the municipal "destructors" are crushed and molded with cement into great wall slabs, each with its door and window openings molded in place and even an interior iron framework for putting the whole together. The slabs, some of them weighing eleven tons, are handled by derricks. When set up the tron frames are bolted together and the joinings closed with cement.

An entire block of buildings has thus been erected upon the site of a dilapidated quarter which was destroyed as a measure of necessity. The new bouses are described as neat, healthful and very cheap and are expected to yield to the city 5 per cent upon its inrestment.

American cities and towns throw away every year elements of great value which European cities use on their sewage farms. If ashes of burned "waste" may be used in architecture, what a limitless field opens to the economizing of such debris!

Plan to Beautify a Country Road. men's Clubs of Illinois has voted to undertake the work of beautifying thirty miles of country road, from Montgomery to Carpentersville. This road leads along the west bank of the Fox river, and from it is viewed some of the most beautiful scenery in the federation, located at Hampshire, Elgin, St. Charles, Geneva, Batavia and Aurora. All of these towns, except the first mentioned, are located on Fox stiff piece of whalebone or a silver river. The entire distance between Montgomery, which is the lower section of Aurora, and Carpentersville has been divided into six sections, and each club will be given a section of the work, which means that each club must look after five miles of roadway. Each club has pledged itself to raise there will be $1,800 gathered in to be put to good use.

A Street Cleaning Idea.

The street cleaning department of Berlin, in Germany, has adopted a method of keeping paper scraps from the streets that is an improvement worthy of emulation by any town. On every third lamp post has been fixed an ornamental iron waste paper basket into which pedestrians are instructed to drop scraps, says the New York Globe. Unlike the big refuse cans that occupy street corners in American cities, the official waste paper baskets of Berlin are never in the way of the hurrying pedestrian. The Berlin scavengers have been furnished with a new portable receptacle for rubbish. Attached to the wheeled bin is a scoop into which the street cleaner first sweeps the refuse. The Berlin officials are constantly working out such details as these in improving the street cleaning system of the German capital.

No Place For Grumblers. A man who stands on the street corner chewing and spitting, telling how the government should be run, cursing the town, finding fault with his grandmother because she was a woman, claiming that the merchants are a lot of thieves, that the lawyers organists to the gas or more sur worthles would be in tided in exercising cowhite authority on the bosoms of their trousers. No one is obliged to live where he is not suited. If things don't suit you, go where they will. A growler and a sorehead in a town is an enterprise killer every time.

FOR CHAPPED HANDS.

How to Make an Inexpensive Rem-edy For Healing Them.

"These are the days when chapped hands and lips are in evidence, and I suppose most people use pure giycerin for a remedy," said a chemist to a representative of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat recently. "It is a mistake to presume that glycerin is a cure for such a condition as this. Quite on the contrary, it is a distinct aggravant.

"One of the best remedies for chaps I know of is quite simple, and any one could compound it in her own home. Take ten grains of tragacanth and place this in three ounces of moderately warm, not hot, water. It must then be allowed to stand for several hours, when one ounce of glycerin

"If it is desired to give the preparation a pleasant perfume, this may be obtained by adding a small quantity of oil of roses at the same time. The whole compound should then be mixed thoroughly either by shaking it up well or stirring with a spoon, after which it is ready for use.

remedy is soothing, pleasant and an almost infallible cure after two or three applications. As a rule, unless the cracks in the skin are very much inflamed, an application of the compound just before retiring at night and another in the morning will generally have the desired result of healing

"It is also a fine preventive, and few will be troubled with chapped hands who rub it on the skin in the morning after washing."

If one is caught in wet or frosty weather with a smooth shod horse on asphalt he may be got safely home by wrapping the horse's feet with a few turns of wire, says the Utica (N. Y.) Observer. Lay the middle of the wire across the toe between shop and coronet, pass both ends under the shoe, cross then, then between shoe and heels, then under foot, cross again on a different spot and over toe. Repeat this for five or six times and your animal is fairly well rough shod and will get along with ease for a long distance. Even the finest wire will answer, although something extra well tempered, like plano wire, is the best. This arrangement beats all the patent sandals, etc., made for the purpose, is inexpensive and can be instantly applied by any one.

How to Treat an Ingrowing Nail. To cure an ingrowing toe nail take some lint or old linen and tear it to shreds, moisten this with carbolic oil and stuff as much of it as possible under the nail toward the sore, also on the top of the nail under the flesh. Change the dressing daily, and in a few days the nall will be lifted out of the sore. Then encourage the nail to grow up in the corner and cut the nail straight across the top. When the nail has grown a good length, cut a piece out of the center. This will cause it to leave fort will be passed.

How to Freshen Ostrich Tips.

Ostrich tips can be freshened by holding them in the steam from a boiling kettle for a few minutes. This freshens them, absorbs the dust and restores the color. They should be well shaken the whole time. Then, still shaking, hold them either in the sun or before a fire till they are quite dry. The curling is best done either with a

How to Clean Furs,

To clean or renovate furs of all colors half fill a stone jar with white cornmeal, place it on stove and heat meal as hot as you can bear the hands in it, stirring to prevent scorching, and $300 to carry on the work, so that put in piece at a time and rub till thoroughly clean, then beat out meal with a stick. Heat further if needed for other pieces. The meal must be hot.

How to Whiten Linea

Take one pound of fine white soap, cut it up into a gallon of milk and put it over the fire in a kettle. When the soap has quite melted put in the linen and boil for half an hour. Now take it out, having ready a lather of soap and warm water. Wash the linen in it and then rinse it through two cold waters, with a very little blue in the last.

How to Banish Dampness

A damp cupboard or storeroom is practically useless, but the damp may be easily banished. The plan is to put a box or bucket of lime in the cupboard or storeroom, as the case may be. The lime will absorb the damp and thus render the air quite dry. The lime must be renewed from time to time as it loses its powers.

MADE A MINING TOWN CLEAN AND BEAUTIFUL

Typical Example of the Wonderful Work of Civic Improvement.

The American Civic association gives out the following edifying report from one of its branches in a Pennsylvania mining town:

Monessen, Pa, is a new steel town seven years old, built in the side of steep Pennsylvania hills. The population is about 10,000, but the majori-ty are foreigners of all nations and of the working class. Consequently the town so rapidly built from necessity and for profit and in a difficult location was anything but attractive.

Last February fourteen ladies met one afternoon with a view of forming a social club. The Holly club was the result, and, as the bylaws indicate, it was formed "for the purpose of promoting good cheer, rendering charity to the needy, furthering a movement to ward the establishment of a local hospital, advancing civic betterments, promoting friendly discussions and the study of current topics and generally to improve the social welfare of the community."

In less than two months the membership was forty, and the club was obliged to meet in a hall, the rent of which was generously donated by one of the citizens. The first work in civics was offering prizes for the improvement of

It was late when the plan was fully made and put before the public, but I am glad to say the whole town took to the idea, and the results were more than satisfactory. Two of the prizes were won by foreigners. We got the hearty co-operation of the superintendent of schools, who had a very successful "school garden" in a vacant lot adjoining one of the school buildings; the support of the newspapers, the ministers, some of whom gave earnest talks from the pulpit, and the town au-

By the consent and help of the burgess, council and board of health, June 2 was declared a "general cleaning day," when rubbish of all kinds, except garbage, would be carted away free of cost to the people if they would clean their yards and alleys and place the rubbish in a convenient place for the wagons to collect. More than twenty-five wagon loads were carted away-mostly tin cans. The improvement was marked, I assure you.

The second move was for cleaner streets and having an ordinance pass ed prohibiting splitting on the sidewalks and public places, with a fine of $10. The prize money was generously donated by a few citizens, but there is a good charity fund and a hospital fund of about $400, which have been raised by entertainments of high or-

of Real Estate Operators That Is Worthy of Emulation.

It is noted in Brooklyn that a few suburban real estate operators are setting trees on property which is on the market for building purposes or on which the builders themselves intend to erect dwellings. This is so obviously a wise policy that it is a wonder only "a few" are following it, says the Rochester Democrat and Chronick the flesh at the sides and the discom- Having purchased a tract of land on divided it into streets and bull lots, the wise owner will at once plan trees in suitable places and start the: growing even before a cellar is due The property is thus made more at tractive and salable, for nothing can be much more dreary than a residence district without trees.

As a result of rapid growth in population and building, the tendency is to deprive city streets of shade which they have long enjoyed. The sacrifice of a noble oak or maple or elm is always a cause of mourning, but the slaughter goes on in the name of "improvement." The only compensation is to plant and foster trees on new streets and lots.

Those who perform this task diligently will reap a measure of reward for themselves and earn the thanks of future generations.

Billboard Reform.

The women members of the Civic league of Newport in their efforts to preserve the natural beauties of the city have formed themselves into a board of censors, with the suppression of objectionable billboard posters as their particular object, says a Newport dispatch. An advertisement which recently covered nearly every board in the city was considered by the women to be improper, and they demanded that the billposter cover the boards with "paper" which was not objectionable. The billposter declined to do so until he was assured of the support of the league, the majority of the members of which are wealthy. He obtained the necessary promise, and an agree ment has been entered into whereby a committee of the league will bereafter pass on all advertising literature before it is posted on the billboards throughout the city.

King Drag Work on Roads. The influence of the D. Ward King road meeting March 31 at Erie, Kan. road meeting March 31 at Erie, Kan., has already extended to every township in Necesbo county, says the Thames City Times. Taxes for road purposes in all the townships were made payable in cash this year, and the township boards are appropriating the funds for the building and operation of split log drags. Fifteen drags are now at work in Erie township under the direction of the trustee, and, in addition to this number, many farmers have built drags for private use. The street commissioner of the city has been using several split log drags on the unpaved streets of the town, and these streets are now quite as smooth and hard as those that were paved. Farmers are enthusiastic over the results obtained on the country roads, and plans are being made for dragging every mile of dirt road in the county this spring.

Philippine Roads.

Reports from the Philippines inform us that the conversion of impassable trails into good highways is proceeding rapidly, and the work is being done by native convicts in charge of white officers, says Motor News. The lack of ordinarily decent roads has been one of the most serious drawbacks to development of our island possessions in that it was impossible to transport products from the interior at anywhere near a figure which left a fair profit to who handled the stuff at the coast. Present information leads us to believe that the farsighted policy now being followed is to be continued, with the result, perhaps, that the Philippines will possess a network of splendid tighways long before such results are reached in the United States.

The Enormous Mud Tax.

In the course of a speech Congress man John H. Bankhead of Alabama declared that "the amount of money it takes to haul a ton five miles on our dirt roads will pay the freight for 250 miles on a railroad or 500 miles on a river and 1,000 miles on the lakes. These figures prove conclusively the enormous tax levied by the bad roads on the farmers and how much of their legitimate profit is consumed in hauling from the farms to the railroad stas, river landing and to the towns and cities. Not only have the farmers suffered great loss on account of poor roads, but the people in the towns and cities who depend upon them for their supplies have suffered also."
