A Brief Record of Local Events.

Industrial Fair.

Next week the circuit court of Jackson county convenes at Jacksonville and the session for Josephine county will commence in Grants Pass Monday, September 23.

Local fruit men are very much interested in the expected returns from the first car of pears shipped from Grants Pass to the New York market, this season. It is about time the car arrived at the great metropolis and soon the results of the shipment should be known. Last year the returns from this locality were most gratifying and it is to be hoped that they will be likewise this time.

Theodore Larkin, night man at the power house, while working about the machinery Sunday morning caught his right arm in the belt connecting the pump with the storage tank for filling cans, and received a severe fracture, both bones being broken just above the wrist, one of them broken in two places. The power house machinery is still in service in the manufacture of ice, the demand being occasioned by the big California shipments.

Irrigation Convention and Industrial Fair Sept. 10-12.

The Philip Lascumb fruit ranch was sold last week to R. C. F. Astbury, of Astoria, Oregon, the price being $10,000. This ranch, which is located about three miles from Gold Hill, on the Same Valley road, contains 100 acres, mostly all set to bearing fruit, and is one of the finest tracts of fruit land in the State. Besides the large number of trees that are now bearing, there is also an orchard of younger trees that will bear their first crop of apples next year. The price of $10,000 is indeed a bargain for such a property as this. We are sorry to state that Mr. Lascumb expects to leave this community as soon as he settles up his affairs. Owing to his health he expects to locate in the coast country for a time. Gold Hill News.

It is reported that Grants Pass may soon have a valuable addition to its population in the person of Prof. F. H. Applehoff the well known and efficient leader of the famous Roseburg band and orchestra. It is known that Prof. Applehoff has been thinking of removing to this city for some time past and in the event of his coming, it would mean that an excellent orchestra would at once be organized and also that in all probability a much needed brass band would also be forthcoming. Prof. Applehoff has many friends and admirers in this city who will extend to him a most hearty welcome, should he conclude to cast in his lot with them.

Among the attractions which have been secured by the public-spirited citizens who have been instrumental in former years in securing high-class musical attractions for the music loving people of this city are the following: "Kelloz-Haines," to be given November 11. This company renders scenes from English and comic opera; "Bostonia Sextette" Nov. 20, one of the recognized musical aggregations of the country and one that has been winning much desired fame; "Rogers & Gridley, Impersonators," February 21 which is pronounced the finest organization of its kind now on the road; "Dunbar Quartette and Bell Ringers," April 9, a troupe which is being greeted with crowded well-pleased houses wherever they go. These entertainments will be given at the new opera house, which has been thoroughly overhauled and remodeled and is practically a new playhouse.

Hollingsworth Corbin.

Rev. Austin J. Hollingsworth, the popular pastor of the First Christian church took many members of his congregation by surprise last Sunday when he took occasion to remark that he was expecting to take unto himself a "better half" the coming week. Some persons knew that such an event might be expected and so were not so much shocked; but others were completely surprised. Rev. Mr. Hollingsworth was wedded in Dallas, Tuesday, to Miss Ethel Corbin the accomplished daughter of Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Corbin of that city and former residents of Ashland. The happy couple stole a march on the members of the local church coming home Wednesday evening thus spoiling a big reception which was to have been tendered them at the train. As it is they will probably give a formal reception to the newly wedded couple sometime next week.
