MERLIN

Friday noon a few of the Merlin people witnessed one of the most horrible accidents that ever happened here. Worrel Short, the 14-year-old son of the merchant, Charles Short, was dragged a little distance, thrown under the horses feet and instantly killed by a runaway team. Worrel was about ready to do some delivering from his father's store, when he jumped on one of the horses or fell over the dashboard on one of them, frightening the team and causing them to go kicking and plunging down the street. The unfortunate boy tried to cling to the harness but his body was exposed to the heels of one horse and he could not hold on many seconds. His father and sister witnessed the accident but, like others, were unable to do anything. The boy was taken to his home, where kind friends did all they could to comfort the grief stricken family.

Saturday evening the family started to Portland with their dead and will lay him beside his mother, who died last May. Worrel had made many friends among our people by his bright, manly ways, and will be greatly missed, especially by his playmates. No one will ever be able to forget the manner by which he met his death.

Mrs. D. W. Mitchell, is in Grants Pass very ill of pneumonia. Mr. Mitchell spent Sunday at her bedside and reports her a little better. We trust that she will soon recover.

The teachers from here all attended the Teacher's Institute in Grants Pass last week, returning Friday evening. Miss Stella Paddock, the teacher from Galice, also came in on Friday evening and went by stage to Galice on Saturday.

Tom Emery, the jolly bachelor from Galice passed through here on his way home a few days ago. He has been in Portland several weeks.
