THE WHITE HOUSE GROCERY

What to Cook and What to Eat

is the question that troubles most housekeepers at this season of the year. While our markets are fairly well supplied with bunch vegetables, such as radish, onions, lettuce, young turnips, etc., the weather has been a little too cool for a liberal supply of strawberries, asparagus and green peas.

Mrs. Ascum—Ha! ha! force of habit. That's where I caught you.

The Georgia Harper Company has been playing at the Grants Pass Opera House this week, and the entertainment afforded to the theatergoers is exceptionally good. This company carries its own special scenery, which is among the best brought to the city for some time, thereby affording an appropriate setting for each play. While at work trimming fruit trees on the Patton place, three miles west of town last week, G. H. Johnson met with a painful accident. In some unaccountable manner, the pruning knife slipped, and before he was hardly aware of the fact, Mr. Johnson was pruned fingers instead of trees, and one of the members of his hand received a very severe cut, severing the ligaments, and inflicting a very painful wound. The injured member is now improving nicely, but it will be some time before he will be able to continue his work in this line.

While at play at the home of Mrs. W. E. Cowdry on Third street last Wednesday evening, little Bernice Higgins met with a painful accident. A large number of children had gathered at a social at Mrs. Cowdry's and the children were playing in the yard and in attempting to jump from the limb of a tree, Bernice fell, striking on her head, and for awhile it was feared she was seriously injured. She recovered however, sufficiently to be taken to her home on G street, and is now improving, although her back is still very weak from the fall.
