THE WHITE HOUSE GROCERY

What to Cook and What to Eat is the question that troubles most housekeepers at this season of the year. While our markets are fairly well supplied with bunch vegetables, such as radish, onions, lettuce, young turnips, etc., the weather has been a little too cool for a liberal supply of strawberries, asparagus and green peas.

Mrs. Ascum—Have you any five-cent stamps?
 Drug Clerk (absent-mindedly)—No, ma'am; but we have something just as good.
 Mrs. Ascum—Ha! ha! force of habit. That's where I caught you.
 Drug Clerk—Not at all ma'am; I can give you two twos and a one.

 The painting of the various store fronts on the east side of North Sixth street has added much to the appearance of the block and is an indication of thrift highly commendable to the various lines of business occupying them. Its astonishing how much a little paint artistically applied adds to the beauty of a building or certain section of a town.
 W. B. Sherman and G. H. Carner left for Portland a la automobile, with F. B. Olding as Chauffeur in Mr. Carner's White steamer touring car. The purpose of the trip was not given out but it is not to be presumed that they are running against time as they expect to be gone a week. He returned yesterday.
 E. V. Carter, cashier of the bank of Ashland, Benton Bowers, Editor Wagoner of the Tidings and J. Kellener all of Ashland, passed through here Tuesday about 1 o'clock en route home from Portland in a 35 H. P. Mitchell touring car, which Mr. Carter had recently purchased in Portland and the party were bringing home. Up to Grants Pass they had not had a mishap of any sort.
 Stephen A. Connell of Portland, an employe of the United States secret service of the treasury department, was in the city Monday looking up the spurious five dollar gold pieces which were afloat here some weeks ago. Formerly Portland and Seattle were in the same district of this department of the counterfeit service but the work became too extensive and on May 11th of the present year Portland was created a district by itself and Mr. Connell is now identified with the Portland headquarters.

 The shower Monday evening was splendid for the gardens, besides settling the dust.
 Councilman Kinney has purchased a fine $2000 touring car which he and his family are greatly enjoying.
 Supt. of Streets McLane began a splendid job Monday morning by having all stones and other rubbish hauled off streets of the the business portion of town and when the work is completed the appearance of the city will be greatly improved.
 It would appear from the number of mining men who have been in Grants Pass and Josephine county looking over various properties that this industry should soon be one of the most prominent in Southern Oregon. More than half a dozen have been here within the last week, a majority of whom were looking for properties for northern and eastern parties.
 If your old mower is giving you trouble, throw it away and get one of those new 4 McCormicks at Hair-Riddle's. They are the best on the market. 6-12 2t
 As an indication that Grants Pass is growing right along quite a number of new and very substantial residences are going up. Among these is one for Joseph Wharton at First and A, a neat story and a half structure. At B and Second for Attorney Robt. Smith's father.
 Again we have received unsigned communication and news items. We are always glad to receive news items but we must know to whom we are indebted as we will not publish items the truth of which are not vouched for by responsible parties.
 If you need a nice rubber tired or top buggy ask Hair-Riddle to show you what they have. They are closing out the remainder of their stock regardless of cost. 6-12 2t
 C. A. Malboeuf, of Portland, district freight agent for Oregon for the Southern Pacific, was in Grants Pass Tuesday while on a trip through Southern Oregon looking over the freight traffic conditions in the interest of his company. Mr. Malboeuf stated that the Southern Pacific's freight traffic was holding up well considering the halt that has come over the business of the country by the custom the American people have fallen into of imagining that a presidential election year should be dull in all industrial and commercial lines. His company has most encouraging crop reports from all sections of the country and the condition of all lines of trade seem to indicate that a strong revival in all lines of business will set in this fall and that soon times will be back to the prosperous days of former years.
