ADVISES PLANTING KALE FOR DAIRY COWS

Oregon Agriculture College Issues Instructive Bulletin by James Dryden.

Kale is one of the best talking crops in Oregon. When the Oregon booster wants to prove that Oregon is the best dairy state in the Union he has to talk kale. Unless he knows what kale will do to the milk bucket he has not qualified as a booster. It is called the Thousand Headed kale and the botanist knows it as Brassica oleracea, but it is the plain kale of four letters that does the talking. The strange thing is that it has only been during the last two or three years that it has had an audience, though it is nearly 30 years old in the Willamette valley. It has tried to talk all those years but the people wouldn't listen when it sought recognition. "We never heard it talk," they insisted, "back in Iowa and New York. Back there cows produce milk without kale, and I guess they will have to here." That is tradition. It took 30 years for kale to get an audience in this state and live down tradition.

The dairyman of New York understands what green succulent food means to the dairy cow, and they build expensive silos, buy expensive machinery and grow fertility robbing corn which they irrigate with their sweat, in order that the farmer during the long winter months may have an excuse for milking his cows. The Oregonian needs no expensive silos to remind the cow of the good old summer time. Kale is making Oregon the greatest dairy state in the Union.

When grown under favorable conditions kale will yield 40 tons per acre of green feed and its chief value is as a molting crop during the fall and winter. Splendid results are being secured by feeding kale and vetch hay to dairy cows without any grain or mill feed. Dr. Witheycombe of the Agricultural College says that 15 pounds of vetch hay and 40 pounds of kale a day is practically a balanced ration for a dairy cow. Mr. W. L. Wilson of Banks, Oregon, says: "I received $207 from 14 cows in the month of December and fed them nothing but kale, turnips and vetch hay. The man who feeds chop would have to make $237 to clear as much as I do. I have not had a speck of mill feed in the barn all winter."

Mr. Byron Hunter of Corvallis has, as assistant agriculturist of the Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, made a special study of the forage crops of western Oregon, and in Bulletin No. 91 published jointly by the Oregon Experiment Station and the Department of Agriculture, has the following to say about kale which is timely:

"Methods of sowing—For fall and winter use, kale is usually sown in drills on well prepared and drained soil as soon after the 15th of March as the season will permit. This furnishes plants for transplanting in June and July. The land used for transplanting is well manured and plowed two or three times between the first of March and the first of June. With the land in perfect tilth it is plowed again with a 12 inch plow about the first of June and the young kale plants dropped into every third furrow about 2 1/2 to 5 feet apart. This places about one plant on every square yard. The roots of the plants are placed where the next furrow covers them, leaving the tops uncovered. The plants that are plowed in during the day in this way are rolled in the evening of the same day to pack the ground. Two or three cultivations are all that can usually be given, for the plants will soon touch in the row if they do well. Any plants that fail to grow may be replaced by seed. Some growers prefer to plant the seed in hills, and when the plants are large enough, thin them to one plant in a hill. Other put kale out just as cabbage is usually transplanted, instead of plowing it in. The time of transplanting must be determined by the size of the plants and the condition of the land. If the land is wet and subject to overflow the transplanting may be delayed until during July. If the land is well drained and the plants are large enough it may be done before the first of June. In transplanting, enough plants may be left for a stand on the land where the seedlings are grown."

"IN A BAD WAY"

Many a Grants Pass Reader Will Feel Grateful for This Information.

When your back gives out, becomes lame, weak or aching, when urinary troubles set in, your kidneys are in a bad way. Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you. Here is local evidence to prove it: Mrs. M. H. Roundtree, living on the North side, Jacksonville, Ore., says: "Backache and dizzy spells made life a burden for me for a long time. I suffered so severely with dull aching pains in my back and hips that I could hardly get around. I was tired and worn out and had no ambition to attend to my ordinary household duties. If I attempted to stoop, sharp pains would dart through my back and I would suffer with dizziness. I used many remedies but obtained no relief until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills on the advice of a friend. The results obtained from using this remedy were better than I had hoped for. I improved from the time I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and by the time I had used three boxes I was completely cured. I cannot say too much in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills. For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other."

CITY OF EUGENE HOLDS ITS FIRST MARKET DAY

Two Couples Were Married—Stock Sold, and the Day a Grand Success.

The city of Eugene held its first Market Day last Saturday and, according to the reports of the press of that city it was a rouser, the same as similar market days in other Oregon cities wherever inaugurated. Though it had been postponed a week on account of weather the attendance and enthusiasm were enhanced thereby rather than impaired, as might be conjectured under similar circumstances. The exercises opened with an open air concert by the Eugene military band followed by other selections by that organization at frequent intervals. At 1:30 in the afternoon was the grand street parade headed by Mayor Matlock and Mr. Colgate, one of the promoters of the Market Day enterprise. They were followed by a pretty little girl riding a beautiful pony. Then came the band and a carriage bearing two young couples to be married during the day at the park and which was one of the interesting features of the first Market Day at Eugene.

The program included addresses by the mayor and Judge Wintermeier at the end of the parade. Besides the automobiles and other rigs in the parade were all the fine horses and cattle which had been brought in by the farmers to be sold on this market day. Max Zimmerman, the chief promoter of the day, acted as auctioneer. The sales were quite numerous for a starter and the number of people who came in from the county to witness the event, run into the thousands say the Eugene dailies, both of which are agreed that Eugene's first Market Day was a great success.

Expression of Appreciation.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Commercial Club desires to express thanks and appreciation to all those who assisted in any way in decorating the building and arranging the exhibits for the flower festival, to the Electric Light Co. for the additional lights provided and to all those who loaned vase sand who gave flowers so generously.

M. E. MOORE, NEW and SECOND HAND GOODS

Dodging Thirteen.
"When I lived in New York," writes a former New Yorker from Berlin, "there was a house near Central park which should have borne the number 13, but because of the superstition of the occupant permission was secured to place the number 11a or 15a over the door. I spoke of the circumstance a few days ago and learned that the thirteen superstition was more clearly marked here. In the instance mentioned by me an individual was concerned. Here it was the most important corporation in Wiesbaden. There is no No. 13 bathroom in any of the bathhouses, no No. 13 room in any hotel and no No. 13 place at any table d'hote. At Langenschwalbach the baths, under government control, also have bath cells No. 12a where they should be numbered 13."—New York Tribune.

Taunting.
Old Noah hunted up a barrel stave and started off for the stern of the ark. "Where are you going?" asked Mrs. Noah.
"I am going to whale that boy Ham," replied Noah, with a frown.
"But, my dear, the lad is only playing on his banjo."
"Yes, but it is the tune he is playing."
"And what is the tune?"
"Wait Till the Sun Shines, Lizzie!"
—Chicago News.

Angry Adjectives.
It was not a young woman novelist, but Charles Sumner, of whom the late E. L. Godkin, the New York editor, said:
He works his adjectives so hard that if they ever catch him alone they will murder him.

Problem of Waste Paper.

A solution of the waste paper problem in Los Angeles is offered by Arthur G. Graves, who has agreed to place several hundred metal receptacles in as many spots widely distributed throughout the city in which people may throw refuse product, says the Kansas City Journal. He expresses a willingness to give to the city the use of these sheet iron boxes provided the expenses of the removal of their contents be borne by the public. The waste thus accumulated it is proposed by him to convert into paper in a mill which he will build.
