The deceased was formerly a resident of this city where he was well known and highly esteemed. The services were very impressive and very largely attended, many relatives from abroad being present, among whom were, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mee and son of Ashland; Mr. and Mrs. E. H. He afterwards went to California where he was with the Hilt Lumber Co. and subsequently to Los Angeles, where, some weeks ago he was stricken with pneumonia to which malady he succumbed on the 21st inst.

ROSEBURG PARTIES WANT TROLLEY LINE AT MEDFORD

The Medford Tribune of July 27, prints the following:

Fred J. Blakely of Roseburg will at the next council meeting apply for a franchise for a trolley line in Medford. At the same time he will apply for one in Astland and one in Jacksonville. It is the intention to eventually extend the line to Central Point, Gold Hill, Woodville and Grants Pass, making it an interurban proposition. No one of the cities would justify an electric railroad itself, but an interurban road would be a paying investment.

Mr. Blakely will apply for a franchise on Seventh street and on C streets and will be ready to lay rails as soon as the franchise is granted, so as not to delay street paving. The line will run west on Seventh street to Jacksonville, while the Ashland line would come in on C street. A special election for the franchise could be called within 10 days, and the work begin at once when granted.

Mr. Blakely, through his partner, Jeff D. Heard, applied a year ago for a blanket franchise covering all streets, but it was refused because the streets desired were not specified. Had the franchise been granted, Medford would today boast of a trolley line.

Mr. Blakely states that he represents Cleveland, O., capitalists, but he is generally supposed to represent A. Welch, the builder of the Willamette Valley traction line, with whom he has been associated in several enterprises.

Manager Sampson says the company has just closed a contract for 85 tons of Bartlett pears, while he went to Medford and Ashland Wednesday afternoon to secure additional contracts for peaches and apples. Besides the above fruit the factory will handle pumpkins and squash, as well as manufacture vinegar. The 85 tons of pears Mr. Sampson contracted will probably overrun and be near 100 tons. When canned and cased ready for the market they will make between five and six cars.
