

THE BEE AND HONEY INDUSTRY IN OREGON

Although it is not given as much publicity as it deserves and not so much as other branches of farming, the bee and honey industry of Oregon is quite a revenue producer. This was demonstrated by H. Ahlers, of Clatsop county, at the recent Oregon state fair who had an interesting exhibit of the busy workers and some of the output of their hives. Mr. Ahlers is a bee enthusiast, and is of the opinion that the farmers are standing in their own light by their apparent indifference to the matter of keeping more colonies of the honey producers. He has a small farm not far from the mouth of the Columbia river and a portion of its equipment consists of 200 colonies of bees, which averaged him over 50 pounds of splendid honey per hive during last year, and he expects a large product during 1908. In parts of Washington state bee keepers are making large profits from their hives. One person says the average yield per colony in his yards is 100 pounds, and he has two colonies which have produced 128 pounds each so far this season. Where vetch and alfalfa and clover can be grown luxuriantly there also will be well and turn great quantities of the nectar of these blooms into an article that will find ready sale at all seasons of the year. In the vicinity of Walls Walls the beekeepers expect to harvest a total honey output of 50 tons this year. They have already begun to make shipments to the large market centers. Fifty tons of honey means the concentrated labor of millions of bees and the watchfulness day after day of hundreds of men and women during the busy season, when honey runs high in the flowers of alfalfa and other flowering plants and fruit trees. While honey has been made for the season it is just ready for the market. Keepers of bees carry over from year to year from 10 to 200 colonies each, several of the large producers keeping over 280 colonies each. Early in the spring and through the winter the bees absorb considerable of the stored honey, and it is not until the first run of honey has ended in the spring that the bees lay up the marketable product. During the summer tons of honey will be stored to be removed by the keepers and prepared for market. The little crates are placed in the hives and the bees promptly fill them. Being removed, others are given the places and thus the entire season is passed, the honey being kept in cool places until it is prepared for sale. The small crates are carefully scraped, the wood brightened with sandpaper and 24 of them placed in a box. These boxes are taken to the wholesale houses and are soon on the market. At the apicaly the prices of a box of honey will range from $2 to $2.50, according to the color and the demand. This season the color is unusually clear and the price will range high.

Mr. Riggs returned this week from an eastern trip of two months during which he visited Chicago and other large cities. He reports the outlook for many persons coming to Oregon during the next year as good, as the advertising campaign has made the wonders of the climate, soil and fruits known far and wide. Mr. Riggs says that the political sentiment of the country is for Taft. Straw votes are being taken everywhere. On the train on which he came west a poll was taken and 68 favored Taft, 27 Bryan and eight were non committal and this seems to be about the way it stands in most places throughout the country. He expressed it as his opinion that so far as the labor vote is concerned Gompers is not going to swing any more votes than usual for Bryan. Since the republican party managers have begun to liven things up by sending out speakers, the apathetic feeling which was so noticeable during the summer and early fall, has entirely disappeared and the feeling that Taft will be elected is everywhere and consequently business is not suffering as badly as it might though no by deals are being made and the merchants are not buying any large stocks ahead. While in St. Paul he talked with an importer, representing one of the largest firms in the world in the manufacture of velvets and plushes in Germany and this man said it was impossible to place orders for that class of goods until after the election is over. The substantial interests of the country are afraid of Bryan and that this is so was impressed upon Mr. Riggs in many ways. At one time he was in conversation with a prominent Pacific coast banker who was very bitter against Roosevelt and against Taft, but nevertheless he frankly stated that he intended to vote for Taft because he was afraid of the consequences should Bryan be elected and the interests of the country demanded that he be defeated. Speaking of the fight being waged against speaker Cannon, Mr. Riggs said he was in "Uncle Joe's" home town of Danville and from what he saw and heard there and elsewhere, throughout the state, he is satisfied that Cannon will be returned to congress. He has secured an appropriation for new buildings of $375,000 and they want from $500,000 to $800,000 more to complete them. They knew that to send a new man to congress means that they must wait many years before he will be able to accomplish a great deal, while Cannon, by reason of his long service is able to get pretty nearly whatever he goes after. Home pride will compel these people to vote for him. He is also very popular with the old soldiers of whom there are about 3000 in the home at La Salle and they are working very hard for him. "But," said Mr. Riggs, "while there is scarcely any doubt about Mr. Cannon being returned to congress, there is doubt about his being again elected to the speaker's chair, as the sentiment generally is against his serving another term as speaker.

by taking purgatives, salts, or other drugs that act harshly or violently upon the stomach or bowels. Ask any doctor, and he will tell you that purgatives of any character distend the bowels and weaken the elastic tissue. To cure constipation, remove the cause. The cause of constipation is indigestion. If your food digested properly it would continue on from the stomach through the bowels, and would be eliminated without effort and with regularity. Miona tablets cure constipation by curing your indigestion. It is not a purgative. It is a stomach tonic and more—it tones up, strengthens, invigorates, and injects new life into the worn out muscles of the stomach, and in a short time make the stomach hardy enough to digest anything you eat. It is a powerful, yet harmless stomach tonic, and its restful influence on the stomach is astonishing.

Miona cures all stomach disorders whether acute or chronic such as dyspepsia, vomiting, over-indigestion, flatulency, stomach sickness, or proserptive matters, etc. Read this from the President of a New York corporation: "I have been a terrible sufferer from dyspepsia and gastritis for two years. The most eminent physicians prescribed for me with no effect. I have been absolutely cured by your Miona tablets. The first one gave me a relief almost incredible. Very gratefully yours, Herbert H.
