OREGONIAN NOTICES

GROWTH OF CITY
Gives Write-up Containing Well Known Facts Showing Our Development.

In Monday's Oregonian the following terse statement of conditions in this thriving city and community appears:

The general growth of Josephine county was never better than now; all of which has been accomplished by constant united effort and push of its citizens. The fruit industry of Rogue River Valley has been greatly aided by the organization of the Rogue River Fruit Exchange with headquarters at this place. The Exchange is disposing of this year's crop of apples at top figures to buyers in Chicago, New York, London, Liverpool and Honolulu.

The grading and packing is being done on the most scientific basis. The manager of the organization states that it is impossible to supply the demands for good fruit.

Owing to the increased interest, the Fruitgrowers' Exchange will have to erect another warehouse along the side of the present structure next year. Many new orchards will come into bearing, bringing demands for an increase of facilities for handling fruit. The trees planted during 1907 and 1908 run up into several hundred acres.

The members of the Exchange are also benefited by hearing under its auspices men of learning and ability who are brought here to speak upon the various topics in which growers are interested.

The windows of the business houses are filled with liberal displays of choice fruit which has been placed on exhibition for the purpose of showing the fruit grown in this district.

Many new houses and business blocks are going up in Grants Pass. The growth in the country has also kept pace, particularly in Fruitdale Valley, where the land has been subdivided into vineyards and orchards until the population has increased from two to three times its former number. All of these newcomers have built homes of their own.

With the city's growth there comes a demand for better facilities to meet the wants of the people and to provide for this, the Rogue River Electric & Southern Oregon Company has asked for a franchise, which was granted at the last Council meeting, to construct an electric line along F. street and down Sixth street to connect with its suburban route to the Illinois Valley; in order to hold this franchise the company must begin work within nine months and on or before 18 months have completed 10 miles of road outside of the city limits.

Moving along these lines of public transportation there has been a better tendency for good roads with laterals. In order to bring about the movement in good form a convention for that purpose will meet here November 23, when Judge John H. Scott of Salem will speak upon the subject.

This meeting will be supported by the business men, who have promised to close their places for the afternoon. This county has in some instances the best roads in Southern Oregon, with cement crossings and culverts.

To advertise the city a picture has been painted on a canvass 42 by 72 inches. This will be sent to the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, after which it will be placed upon the walls of the Commercial Club rooms.

EVANGELIST CREATES GREAT SENSATION.

Calls Oregon City Lawyers Warts, Doctors Murderers and Otherwise Enlivens Things.

One is apt to wonder what kind of a place Oregon City, up Clackamas county is. An evangelist has been making his headquarters there for the past month and during his stay brought 325 persons to the mourner's bench. The last issue of the Enterprise of that city gives the following account of his meetings:

Shannon has created a fearful stir during his stay here. His biting tongue has caused hundreds of people to heap execrations upon him, and he has spared no creed, race or color. At every service in the First Baptist Church, great crowds have been present and last Sunday night, which was to have been the final meeting the church was packed to the doors.

The evangelist made vicious attacks on the merchants and professional men of Oregon City Sunday night. He told his auditors that the lawyers were "warts" and the merchants were moral lepers who had no use for the people, aside from the money that came out of their pockets. Shannon walked up and down the aisle and shrieked denunciation:

"The doctors of this city have M. D. after their names," yelled Shannon "but they should change it to D. M. for damned murders."

It was at the business men that Shannon directed his shafts Sunday night. His language was calculated to shake the windows.

The Shannon meetings are racy in the extreme. They have even drawn the people away from the moving picture shows. He has gone out of his way to abuse the members of other churches, and assailed the Catholics, Congregationalists and the Episcopalians. "People who follow the cross," he said, "are good on Sunday though during the week they drink beer, play cards and dance."

Shannon has some pet phrases. The words "hell" and "damn" are used frequently. The term of "bald headed sinner" looks good to Shannon, and he delights in "skiddo." Last Sunday night he called Mrs. Eddy, the head of the Christian Science Church, a gone goon. He urged his helpers not to "lolygag" over a young man in the audience, who was a possible candidate for conversion. He roasted society women to a crisp, and said some of them had $15 hats on five cent heads.

"The men of this town," he shouted, "have cocoanuts for heads, and if you should bore a hole in them, the milk would pour out. Some of you are going to hell, and I will be glad to see you there."

Shannon said: "When I go to Heaven I shall say 'How do you do, Lord. You know I am a friend of yours, and the Lord will take me by the hand and say 'Yes, Brother!'"

The evangelist raved and tore about until perspiration streamed from his pores, and then he prayed: "Lord, you know I am tired, but you have been tired yourself. Give me strength to carry on this work."

NEW YORK NEWSPAPER PRINTS PRESCRIPTION

Tells You How to Overcome Rheumatism With Simple Recipe. Which is Easily Mixed.

A well-known authority on Rheumatism gives the following valuable, though simple and harmless, prescription, which anyone can easily prepare at home: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime. He states that the ingredients can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy at small cost, and, being of vegetable extraction, are harmless to take.

This pleasant mixture, if taken regularly for a few days, is said to overcome almost any case of Rheumatism. The pain and swelling, if any, diminishes with each dose, until permanent results are obtained, and without injuring the stomach. While there are many so-called Rheumatism remedies, patent medicines, etc., some of which do give relief, few really give permanent results, and the above will, no doubt, be greatly appreciated by many sufferers here at this time.

Inquiry at the drug stores of this neighborhood elicits the information that these drugs are harmless, and can be brought separately, or the druggists here will mix the prescription for our readers if asked to.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 23, 1908. John Sebastian, passenger traffic manager of the Rock Island System, was a recent visitor at Portland, and while here secured samples of Oregon fir, with which wood he intends to finish the interior of one of the most unique dining cars yet seen. He had scarcely left when a telegram was received by the Portland Commercial Club from President B. L. Winchell of the Rock Island, asking for samples finished in different stains, as a car already nearly completed was to be built. Sir William C. Van Horne, builder of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has in his Montreal mansion a room in Oregon fir, which is always admired by visitors.

MARRIED SIXTY YEARS AGO ON THANKSGIVING

Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Pease Celebrate Anniversary Marking Three Score Years.

The sixtieth marriage anniversary of Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Pease was celebrated at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Burns on Thanksgiving day and a bountiful repast was served by them in honor of the event. The table was beautifully decorated with flowers and a mammoth turkey occupied the center, "with all the fixings"—A feast of good things.

Dr. and Mrs. Pease were raised in Connecticut, "the land of steady habits," under the old Blue laws where it was counted a misdemeanor for a man to kiss his wife on a Sabbath day but they were married in the hills of Berkshire county Mass. where no such law was in force. Both the doctor and wife are of Pilgrim stock, the doctor having an ancestor who came over in that historic ship the Mayflower of which he has proof in family records from that time to the present day. He has many relics of olden times, among which is Continental money, paid to his grandfather for services in the war of the Revolution, also a paper printed at the time of the death of General Washington. The doctor resided in South Dakota 25 years, in the practice of his profession as a physician. Horace G. Pease and Miranda J. Hilyer were married in Ashley Falls, the southern part of Sheffield, Berkshire county, Mass., by the Rev. James Bradford of Sheffield. Of the nearly 100 guests assembled at that wedding to make merry, but one besides the doctor and wife remain, a baby at that time. Two children, a daughter in Tacoma, Wash., and a son, George H. Pease near Placer, were unable to be present.
