A New Repair Man.

Curtis & Co., jewelers, are getting in their holiday stock and will next week tell through the columns of the Courier all about it. They are now paying especial attention to watch and clock repairing and this department is presided over by Geo. A. Johnson, a man of great experience in this line, and who comes to Grants Pass with the best of recommendations, one of which is from the foreman in the Elgin plant, which is as follows:

Elgin, Ill., April 16, 1908.
To whom it may concern:

It gives me great pleasure to certify that George A. Johnson is personally known to me, having been in my employ as an inspector of watch work for two years. During this time he proved himself a thoroughly skilled and competent workman at this business. I can cheerfully recommend him to anyone who may be fortunate enough to secure his services. FRANK M. WILLS, Foreman Assembling Dept. Elgin National Watch Co.

"We Are King."

A. W. Cross is presenting three or four plays this season that have scored all sorts of success. He has "The Bishop" and "We Are King," the latter being the bill at the Star this week. The leading part is played by Edmund Carroll, who supported Walter Whiteside last season in this play and who makes quite as much of the dual part as did Whiteside. The Raven, a mysterious man in black, is played by Guy B. Kibbe, a Portland boy.

"We Are King" is one of the best and cleanest comedies seen in Portland for a long, long time and while having a suspiciously close resemblance to "The Prisoner of Zenda," is yet different enough to save a charge of plagiarism. A wandering newspaper correspondent is found in the grounds of a tyrannical and despotic king of a small North German state, and a scheme is hatched up to exchange places with the king by his premier and other members of the court. The correspondent enters into the conspiracy with great enthusiasm and until he gets the hang of being a king makes some of the most ludicrous mistakes imaginable. In the meantime the former king languishes in an asylum and as there is a striking resemblance between the two men it is not difficult for the arch conspirators to keep him there under the announcement that he has an hallucination that he is the king, which of course he is.

The company is excellent, the stage settings adequate and in one scene elaborate and altogether "We Are King" is put on and acted in a manner one expects at the high-priced theatres.

Probably, however, some of the audience felt they were being cheated with only a single pistol shot during the whole performance. —Oregonian.
