

It's a Winner

OUR first four months of business in Grants Pass started off with a grand rush and the buying ever since has been active and without abatement, many people who came just to see what we had, and others just through curiosity, looked at the goods, bought them and left the store fully satisfied that we are doing just what we told you in the beginning, giving you the best quality merchandise the world offers, at the best possible price. Under these conditions our business has far excelled our expectations, consequently we have been obliged to order our Fall Clothing shipped at once, and at present we have about three hundred suits on the way between here and N. Y. We wish to close out every summer suit in the house before the fall stock arrives, at the prices we quote you there should not be a suit left in the house.

We Emphasize

We do not carry anything but strictly high grade, dependable merchandise; our motto is never to carry over from season to season old merchandise, but to clean up each season's odds and ends at some price. We do not expect to make a profit during this sale, our sole object is to clean up the stock and make room for the largest and most complete line of clothing ever shown in Southern Oregon. If you need a suit come and come quick, for there is only a limited number and it will be your last chance to buy strictly high grade merchandise at such exceptionally low prices.

Joseph Moss and Dr. Findley are the owners of two new Ford touring cars and can be seen spinning around town in the same.

E. D. Thompson tells us that the steel bridge at Woodville is now an assured fact. Mr. Thompson is also authority for the statement that the brick is now being burnt for the $15,000 school house at that place.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hamlin and family, of Medford, arrived here Wednesday to visit Mr. Hamlin's sisters, Mrs. Amos Smith and Mrs. F. D. Elsmann. They expect to remain until after the 4th of July.

M. C. Kessler and family arrived from Escondido, Cal., where they had spent the past six months, coming from Illinois. Mr. Kessler secured a copy of the 1908 booklet in California and through it was induced to visit this section.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Griffith, of Portland, was in the city Tuesday to subpoena witnesses in the Page case, which will be tried at Portland July 6. He also visited the vicinity up Rogue river where Page formerly resided and secured some witnesses there.

A. C. Goettsche lost his valuable Alredale dog last week and had quite a force of citizens on the lookout for him. Every stray pup in the city was carefully conveyed to August for inspection, but it was not until Monday that the right canine was landed in the right place and now August is happy.

DEATH KNEEL OF ALL INDEPENDENTS

End of the Competition of Telephone Companies is in Sight.

The United States Telephone Company today failed in its attempt to secure legal relief from the alleged inroads made upon its long distance agreement with the local independent companies by the Bell concerns.

The petition filed by the United States company asking a temporary injunction restraining affiliates of the Bell company from alleged attempts to induce the independent companies to violate their existing 99-year contracts for long distance service was refused by Judge Taylor of the United States Supreme Court.

The Bell companies named in the petition were the American Telephone Company and the Central Union Telegraph Company. The concerns were charged in the petition with operating a trust in restraint of trade.

That the decision given by Judge Taylor sounds the death-knell of the independent companies is the opinion of a Central Union official, who said today:

"The independents have wrought their own destruction. There is not the least doubt in our minds that the end of the telephone competition is in sight. They brought this suit in a last attempt to save themselves. As every telephone man knows it was the long distance business that keeps the independents alive."—Oakland Tribune, May 19, 1909.
