

The Brilliancy

of true cut glass is its value. This is an industry in which the United States excels all other countries. I have the agency for the "J. H. Hoare" cut glass. This is one of the big factories located at Corning, N. Y. The quality of this glass speaks for itself in the gleam of it. A new shipment, which comes the long journey to San Francisco by water in order to save the great freight rate charged by the railroads on this class of goods. We shall be glad to have you inspect it.

Bazaar and New England Supper given by the Ladies of Newman M. E. church in Hall's hall, Friday, December 3.
Some of the residents on West G street were somewhat frightened on Thursday evening of last week by the appearance of a man crying fire and making other remarks which clearly showed that he was not in his right mind. The man was seen by some young people who were returning home from a gathering at about 10 o'clock and they immediately phoned to the marshal who came up and arrested the man and took him into custody. He was taken before an examining physician and finding that his mind was deranged, he was taken to the asylum at Salem by an attendant from that place who came for him on Saturday. The man's name was Chas. Adams, a homesteader of Grave Creek.

The many friends of Ernest Umphlette will be glad to know that he is rapidly recovering from the attack of illness which brought him to Grants Pass a short time ago for medical treatment. Ernest was taken from here direct to one of the best Portland hospitals and he is now improving rapidly. The Portland specialist under whose care he was placed says that his illness was caused from over exertion and physical exhaustion and no bad effects whatever will remain after his health has been restored to its normal condition. This is indeed good news to the friends of Ernest, as he is a bright, intelligent young man of exceptionally fine character, and we hope soon to see him again among us. Ernest will remain for a time in Portland until his health is improved as he has suffered for some time with stomach trouble. A. Umphlette and daughter, Mrs. Carolyn Umphlette Wimer, will visit friends and relatives at Hillsboro and Amity for a few days before returning to Glendale. Mrs. L. B. Wickersham, who has been with her mother at Glendale, has returned to her home at Portland and Miss Bernice Umphlette, who has been attending an academy at Portland this winter will return to her school after spending Thanksgiving at her home at Glendale.
