All the children under eighty years are looking forward to going to the circus.

Messrs. Williamson & Mason, who have been in this city attending to business matters, returned to Berkeley, Cal., Tuesday.

A tree on the old Campbell place in this city contained ripe cherries on the first of May. This is unusually early for fruit to ripen, even in Southern Oregon, and is another proof of our superior climate for fruit raising. The Courier this week received a box containing several ripe cherries picked from a tree growing on the farm of M. Burkhart, of Woodville. The first ripe cherries were picked from this tree May 8, being a close second to our own town.

Every available room in Grants Pass seems to be occupied and it is very difficult for a stranger to secure any place to live. Last week we heard of one party who spent nearly two days in an endeavor to secure a room and they were finally taken into a private residence for a week until another room they had in sight should be vacated. The prices for rooms have a wide range, from $1 to $10 per week. Parties who have rooms to rent would do well to advertise the fact.

A somewhat unusual and interesting sight met the attention of the passersby on West D street Saturday afternoon. A swarm of bees from somewhere had settled on an apple tree, and while several admirers were planning—at a safe distance—their capture and possession, Hugh Elliott happened along. Taking in the situation at a glance, he procured a small grocery box and with a pocket knife quickly severed the limb, lowered it to the ground and placing the box securely over the bees left them until aided by the kindly shades of evening and a strong blanket they were safely conveyed to the young man's home.

Alabastine at Rogue River Hdwe. West D street has been keeping pace with the more pretentious parts of the city in its general improvements. The modernized and newly painted dwelling of M. T. Calloway, with the fine lawn and garden, is one of the prettiest and most attractive homes on the street. Rev. J. L. Green has nearly completed a fine two-story dwelling and when finished will be perfectly sanitary and at the same time uses less ice than any other make, get a HERRICK of the Rogue River Hdwe. Co.

ed, with its well planned grounds, will be an ornament to that part of the city. Farther up the street George Parker has just finished putting on new siding and adding other improvements; while last, but not least, on Monday holes were dug and poles laid for one of the newer telephone lines. It might be added that nearly all the residents on West D street own their homes.
