

Good Roads Expert Coming.
Beginning May 16, there will be a series of good roads meetings throughout the state that will continue until June 10. Maurice W. Edridge, one of the best known authorities on good roads and a government expert, will be sent out from Washington to deliver lectures. He will start at Ontario and will hold meetings in the principle cities along the O. R. & N. as far west as Portland, when he will visit the Willamette Valley and Southern Oregon, holding the final meeting at Ashland.

The lectures are to be given under the auspices of the State Good Roads association and a decided impetus to the work of the organization will probably result.

Libel Suits Accumulate.
Three more libel suits have been filed against the Klamath Publishing company, publishers of the Klamath Chronicle, which began publication only a month ago. The suits, for $10,000 each, were filed by County Judge J. B. Griffith and Commissioner Albert Walker and S. T. Summers, who allege that the Chronicle libeled them as members of the Klamath county court by publishing insinuations that the county court had been bribed by the Klamath Development company to favor the free site offered to the county by this company for a court house.

This makes damage suits against the new paper aggregating $30,000, as members of the Klamath Development company had previously filed suits for $200,000.

The Choice.
If some one had the power to grant The wish for which my heart doth long,
I'd choose without a moment's loss The glorious gift of song.
Whether it be a song of spring Or song of winter, wild and deep,
Or just a simple lullaby That charms the tired child to sleep.
Whether it be the new, new song, By angels sung in realms above,
Or if it be in minor strain, Or if it be a song of Love.
If some one had the power to grant The wish for which my heart doth long,
I'd choose without a moment's loss The Heavenly gift of song.

utes add a tablespoonful of salt, cook five minutes longer, turn into a colander to drain and when dry chop it very fine. Put into a sauce pan one and a half tablespoonfuls of butter and one tablespoonful of flour. After they have cooked a little, add a teaspoonful of salt, dash of pepper and the spinach. Cook five minutes, add a half cupful of cream or milk and cook another five minutes. Stir constantly to prevent burning. Taste to see if the seasoning is right. Heap in a mound on a platter and surround with slices of hard boiled egg.

ing only the one her husband was wearing. She was surprised at the great length of the sleeves and was generous in the amount she amputated. She packed the suits in her husband's suit case and he started north. She rested happy in the consciousness of having done a kind act until she received the following telegram from her husband:
"Am sick with grip. Mighty cold here. When you cut my underwear sleeves you didn't. You cut off legs."

It is always a good plan to keep a supply of canned goods in the house for emergency dinners or teas in case of the arrival of unexpected company. A can of salmon needs the list of these supplies and if you have on hand some cold mashed potatoes, you can easily and in a short time prepare an attractive dish, sufficient to serve a dozen people. Mix the potatoes and salmon thoroughly, and then mix with the whole either a mayonnaise a boiled or French dressing. Chopped celery, pickles, hard boiled eggs or beets add to the taste and attractiveness of the dish. Heap the salad on a platter and garnish with lettuce or any pretty green leaves.

At Last! The True History of The Southern Pacific Railroad

This wonderful story,—of the utmost personal significance to you,—is called "The Millionaire Mill" and is written by Charles Edward Russell. For the first time it reveals the true history of this powerful organization and tells the story of the colossal fortunes created by it, that have laid increasing tribute upon the households of America. The eight dynamic and dramatic articles in the story give actual facts and figures, and show how the State of California became controlled by four men—and later by one man alone.

Fruit Cocktail.
Mix the juice of three oranges and one lemon and sweeten. Set on ice and chill thoroughly. Put into a cocktail glass a small piece of orange pulp, a ripe cherry and pour the fruit juice over it. Grate a little nutmeg on top and serve.

Gingham Dresses.
Last summer gingham dresses became popular and French and silk gingham were brought into use, fashioned as daintily as many more expensive fabrics are being favored. Some advantages are that you can get pretty cotton parasols to carry with them and the street hats seem to be made especially for these dresses. One of the hats made to wear with a two-toned gingham is of rather coarse burnt straw. The brim is quite large and uplifted a bit on one side, and the hat is surrounded with a wreath of old-fashioned roses in a half dozen colors, yet so blended that the effect is pretty. This hat brings to mind one worn with a tan pongee suit. It, too, is a rough straw and is trimmed with purple-black silk. American beauty roses give a French appearance. As the silk is soft it is slightly uplifted with a framework of wires beneath.

Artistic Organdies.
Some of the new organdies are like beautiful pictures, so delicate are the fabrics and so exquisite the colorings. One pattern in shades of lavender may, without exaggeration, be called a tone color symphony. The background is a deep lavender, the floral design is a deeper shade with an intermingling of light shades, like the shading of a painting. The patterns with great bouquets of blue flowers on silver gray background are also beautiful. There are also designs in which the stripes and plaids form an important part.

Sweet Potato Croquettes.
Serve sweet potatoes this way for a delightful change: Boil four large sweet potatoes until tender, peel and mash fine, add one tablespoonful of butter, one-fourth of a cup of sweet milk and a little grated nutmeg. When cold, roll into croquettes, dip into egg, cover with fine cracker crumbs and fry in hot lard.

Tan Hat With Black Lace.
If you have a tan straw hat left from last year and it is a little too faded for wear as it is, cover it with dotted black lace, trim with a wreath of roses and you will have a "new Paris creation." This is a fact. A hat made by a milliner, well known for the beauty of her models, is a tan straw covered, upper and under side, with pink roses arranged around the crown. The lace is drawn tight over the under side of the brim, like a facing, and bunched loosely over the crown. The wreath is placed rather low, resting partly on the crown and partly on the brim.

The following method of cooking spinach may serve as a variety for many readers. Place a peck of spinach into cold water to freshen, pick over carefully, removing all the yellow and wilted leaves and wash in five waters to free it from grit. Put it into a sauce pan, enough water will cling to it for the cooking; cover the pan and stir occasionally to prevent burning. After cooking fifteen min-
