

MISS QUINLAN'S MUSIC

RECITAL WELL RECEIVED

That student recitals are a popular feature in Grants Pass was evidenced by the presence of a large audience which filled Mr. Field's spacious studio Friday evening almost to overflowing. And seldom has a recital given by an individual student awakened such enthusiasm and choice comment on the part of musical people as the recital in this instance, which was given by Miss Bernice Quinlan.

Miss Quinlan's program was in itself rather unusual on account of one or two ultra-classic numbers not often to be heard from either students or artists. It is this fact which affords a clue in estimating Miss Quinlan's ability, as such compositions, it is universally recognized, can be mastered only by students possessing the highest talents. And this also in connection with the youthfulness of the performer testifies the possession of very rare gifts.

The Bach Prelude and Fugue, which renowned players have found taxing on most occasions, was delivered faithfully from memory, with finished beauty. Numbers like the Kulak octave study, which called for great technical strength, were executed with speed approaching bravours, while Greig's interesting variations, which required qualities of balance and repose, were played with a satisfactory intelligence, and the interest sustained throughout the entire length in spite of tedious difficulties which the composition presented to the performer.

Willing applause from an appreciative audience did much to inspire the young pianist. Miss Quinlan, who has not yet finished her course in the Grants Pass high school, is an unassuming young lady and accepts the laurels from the musical event with modest appreciation. Many of her friends prophesy for her a brilliant future when training and maturity shall have completed the rounding out of her talents.

HOODLUMS RUIN COSTLY

WORK AT NEW HOTEL

Some hoodlums, man or boy, it is not known which, Friday night tore out a number of the beautiful white pressed brick being put in the two fronts of the Steward hotel building. Not only this but they took the black mortar which is used to give a beautiful line effect to the white brick, and rubbed the black mud over that portion of the brickwork they did not tear out. This stained wall had to come out, and the loss to Mr. Steward, who is building the structure himself, will be severe.

SPRAYING SHOULD BE COMPLETED THIS WEEK

County Fruit Inspector J. F. Burke issues a warning that the present week is about the limit for time to spray for codling moth, else it will be too late to destroy the first crop of the insects. The inspector also advises orchardists to cut out the sour sap spots, caused by heat of the sun after a hard frost. Mr. Burke sends the following communication on the subject to The Courier.

"The time to spray with arsenate of lead for codling moth is now at hand. Every orchard should be sprayed during this week, else it will be too late to exterminate the first crop of the pest.

"The calyx will close and the spray will be useless if it is not applied at just the proper time. Use 2 1/2 pounds of lead to 50 gallons of water and apply thoroughly.

"I find a number of our young orchards are troubled with sour sap, caused by the frost. The sun striking them in the morning after a hard frost causes the sap to sour. You will notice reddish spots on the south side of the tree.

"Unless these spots are cut out you will be very likely to lose the tree. Some growers have mistaken this trouble for blight.

"The second spraying for codling moth will come in about two weeks.

"J. F. BURKE, County Fruit Inspector."

MRS. MAUD VAUGH SPENDS NIGHT IN COUNTY JAIL

Mrs. Maud Vaugh, who Friday was taken in custody by Sheriff Smith to prevent the young woman from destroying herself, was put aboard a northbound train yesterday by her brother and taken to Dallas.

Mrs. Vaugh spent the night locked in the county jail. She refused to eat dinner or supper yesterday, stating that she could eat nothing in "such a place as this." Yesterday morning, however, hunger got the better of her intention, and she partook of the county breakfast.

Mrs. Vaugh now declares she had no intention of killing herself, but her guardians kept a close watch nevertheless.

ROGUE RIVER VALLEY PIONEER DIES AT 81

The Ashland Valley Record contains the following account of C. K. Klum, father of Blaine Klum, of Medford, who died at Ashland Tuesday:

Mr. Klum was one of the earliest pioneers now living in Oregon, having come across the plains from Missouri to Sodaville, Linn county, with his father's family in the year 1847.

Upon hearing of the Whitman massacre near Fort Walla Walla in 1848 Mr. Klum walked 75 miles to Oregon City to join a company of pioneer settlers who went to the scene to assist in relieving the disastrous situation wrought by the breaking out of the Cayuse war and served for a considerable period in guarding the emigrant trains from the hostile Indians. He joined in the early rush consequent upon the discovery of gold in California and passed through Rogue River valley twice before there was a single white settlement in this valley.

Mr. Klum was the first recorder of Ashland at its incorporation and was on the school board that located the old South school building. He went east in 1884 and after a visit in Ohio returned with the first Polled Angus calves brought to southern Oregon. About this period he moved to Talent and for nine years conducted a store at that place, after which the family moved back to Ashland.

In moving from the Willamette valley to Jackson county the pioneer sold a farm there for a few stands of bees, which were the first colonies brought to this county. While engaged in mining in the Sterling district near Jacksonville he met Miss Lucinda Finley and they were married at Jacksonville June 12, 1875. Of this union four sons and one daughter survive, as follows: Mrs. Hypatia McKendree, of Berkeley, Cal.; Blaine Klum, of Medford, and Waldo and Otto Klum of Ashland. C. D. Rifner, of Shake, is a nephew and Mrs. Ella Cooke, of Jacksonville, is a niece. Albert Rockefeller, aged 84, is a cousin. He is survived by a brother, George Klum, two years his senior, living at Sodaville, where also resides his stepmother and also a stepbrother, Henry Klum. Another stepbrother, Lyman Klum, resides at Glendale.

Had he lived until September 2, Mr. Klum would have been 82 years old. He was elected president of the Southern Oregon Pioneer society at its annual meeting last fall.

ROYAL Baking Powder Economy

The manufacturers of Royal Baking Powder have always declined to produce a cheap baking powder at the sacrifice of quality.

Royal Baking Powder is made from pure grape cream of tartar, and is the embodiment of all the excellence possible to be attained in the highest class baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder costs only a fair price, and is more economical at its price than any other leavening agent, because of the superlative quality and absolute wholesomeness of the food it makes.

Mixtures made in imitation of baking powders, but containing alum, are frequently distributed from door to door, or given away in grocery stores. Such mixtures are dangerous to use in food. In England, France, Germany and some sections of the United States their sale is prohibited by law. Alum is a dangerous mineral acid, and all physicians condemn baking powders containing it.

The label of alum baking powders must show the ingredients.
