 SHANGHAI, Feb. 7.—Unofficial protests of England and Japan today resulted in Lieutenant-General Homer Lea, the American soldier of fortune and author of "The Valor of Ignorance," being deposed as chief military adviser of the Chinese revolutionary leaders.
 General Lea's criticism of the "Anglo-Japanese treaty" and his statement that he believes England and Japan are planning the partition of China, aroused the anger of these nations.
 Lea formerly lived in Los Angeles. International fame came to him principally as a result of his book, which was an expose of what he declared to be the inadequate Pacific coast defense of the United States in case of attack by Japan.

ATTY. L. D. MAHONE SPEAKS TO STUDENTS.

Attorney L. D. Mahone of Portland, secretary of the Oregon branch of the American Mining Congress, and who was in attendance on the sessions of the Southern Oregon and Northern California Mining Congress at Medford, yesterday addressed the students of the Grants Pass schools, his remarks arousing intense interest. Mr. Mahone looks with broad vision on this western country and its present and future relations to the Orient. He spoke in part as follows:
 "I came to your part of the state for the purpose of assisting in the development of one of our great industries and, as the secretary of the American Mining congress and State Miner's Association of Oregon, we are greatly interested in the development of our mineral wealth. Our success in building up this industry would fall far short of what it should be unless we were interested in the development of a stronger citizenship; thus, we may pile up our pyramids of wealth but without the proper strength of manhood and womanhood back of it, our success would be a failure. Hence I shall talk for a few moments pertaining to good citizenship.
 "During the past years it has been my privilege and pleasure to travel through a great many of the foreign countries. Sometimes, it is a good idea to find out what other people think of us so that we can get a proper appreciation of the work to be done. I have noted that in the diplomatic councils of the world that the foremost question to consider was always what is the position of the United States? When our policy was given, other countries usually coincided with our views. This has been more than demonstrated in our relations with the Chinese people; and I might say that this is the most important question the Pacific coast people will have to face in the future. Almost one half of the population of the globe is in this great empire.
 "We sometimes refer to the Chinese people as being ignorant and of no strength either as to their commercial or political life. This view usually comes from those who are misinformed. Some of the greatest universities in the world are in the far east; in fact, the greatest in numbers are located in Tokio, Japan. There have been brought together in this one institution more than 4,000 students from Korea, Siberia, China, the Philippine Islands and even as far down as India. Their curriculum is equal to that of Harvard or Yale; hence you can see that if we are to compete with these people in the future we must have trained men and women of strong minds as well as physically to meet the responsibilities placed upon us.
 "Some few centuries ago the commerce of the world was carried on in the Mediterranean sea. It afterwards passed out onto the Atlantic ocean. Now the greatest vessels carrying the greatest amount of tonnage are plying the waters of the Pacific ocean. We are located in the front yard of the great commercial, diplomatic and political questions of the future. To those of us who are young we will have a part in solving some of the great questions which are now appearing above the horizon and which must be met. If I view the situation correctly, this conflict for the supremacy of trade will be between Great Britain, Russia and the United States. These three nations control the three leading ports of the far east. Around these ports have been gathered the mightiest fleet of battleships that the world has ever known. It is to be hoped that the policy of our country will be pursued, that of keeping China intact, educating and Christianizing the Chinese people so that when they break asunder their great wall, they can appreciate the benefits of our western civilization. I simply refer to this to show you that all of the great questions are not settled and that it will be up to this and the coming generation to solve these problems.
 "Then we should be interested in the development of the great resources of our own state and, as I stated in the beginning, to develop a state materially; and leaving out the higher training which is essential will be worse than failure. We need trained men and trained women, experts in their line of work, competent to meet the experts of other nations, in order that we may get a square deal. During my travels in the southern countries, I noted that the same feeling prevailed relative to the influence of the United States in the national life of the South American countries.
 "The last public expression made by Minister Wu, now in the president's cabinet of the republic of China, was to the effect that the Chinese nation and the Chinese people believed in the people of the United States because of our righteous policy. If we adhere to this policy in the future, the success of our country is assured."

WIRE BRIEFS.
 NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The first offer to bet on the outcome of the next presidential election was announced here today. A Wall street broker offered to wager $5,000 against $4,000 that Taft, if renominated, would be re-elected. There were no takers.

SEATTLE, Feb. 7.—Two great tourist hotels are planned for this state by the Milwaukee railroad. Announcement was made today by Traffic Manager R. M. Calkins. One hotel will be erected in Mount Rainier park and the other on Puget Sound.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 7.—To be or not to be—that is the question which a municipal conference consisting of the chief of police, the police commission, theater proprietors and representatives of women organizations here are going to decide in regard to the Texas tommy dance. February 27 the dignified body will convene to decide whether the "rag" is improper enough to be banned by city ordinance. The Richmond Women's Improvement club has made a formal protest to the authorities.

PEKING, Feb. 7.—Pending negotiations between the throne and the revolutionists, a complete armistice has been arranged. It is expected that at least two weeks will be consumed by Premier Yuan Shi Kai in arranging the capitulation, as the Manchus wish perpetuation of titles, retention of the imperial family in the Peking palaces, continuation of the imperial guard at the expense of the republic and the right of the court to exact homage from the nation.
