MURPHY.

A. H. Carson left last week for an extended trip through Coos county. W. J. Russell left a few days ago for the Galice creek country to round up some cattle he has down in that vicinity.

Everybody is busy these days getting in their hay crop, which is a bountiful one this year, owing to the abundance of rain we have been favored with this spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Virtue returned from San Diego, Cal., last week. Mrs. Virtue says she never realized what a beautiful country Oregon was till she visited dry and arid California. Mr. and Mrs. Virtue think of locating somewhere in Southern Oregon. They are visiting Mrs. Virtue's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Darnelle, at present.

The Murphy Invincibles won another game of ball from the Provolt team Sunday. Score 15 to 3. This makes about 9 successive victories for the Murphy team, as they have not lost this season.

Quite a large delegation of Murphy grangers attended Pomona Grange at Williams Saturday. All were loud in their praise of the way they were entertained by their brother and sister grangers at Williams.

At the annual school meeting held Monday the following officers were elected: Directors, Hiram Vedder and E. E. Blanchard; clerk, Dr. Geo. Wilcoxon.

The members of Murphy school board are considering the proposition of building an addition to the school house and having a high school at Murphy, which is a step in the right direction and should be encouraged.

Murphy Grange has secured an acre of land from Hayes Bros., adjoining the Murphy store property on the west and will commence the erection of a grange hall immediately. The building will be two stories high and large enough to meet all the requirements of the grange meetings, entertainments and social gatherings.

Seven new members were initiated by the Murphy grange at their last meeting. The membership now numbers over 100 members.

SUNDAY SCHOOL JUNIORS ENJOY DAY'S PICNIC.

Tuesday was a happy day among the younger set of the Christian Sunday school. The beginners and the primary departments, chaperoned by their teachers, spent the day at Riverside park. At noon a well spread luncheon of toothsome articles gladdened their hearts. The afternoon was passed with games and sports.

An evening luncheon was served by the Loyal Sons Jr. class to the Loyal Daughters Jr. class at White Rocks. Supper was cooked on the ground, and a delicious camp meal served, after which they came into the park and spent the delightfully cool hours of the evening enjoying themselves as only boys and girls of their ages seem capable.

FITFORM CLOTHES FOR YOUNG MEN

IT IS A MAN'S DUTY TO DRESS WELL

Every consideration—social, business, home, family and friends—suggests that a man dress as well as his means will allow. "Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy," was Shakespeare's advice, and it was good advice. The well dressed man has more respect for himself and is more respected. The well dressed man has confidence in himself and so inspires confidence. The well dressed man looks successful and that often assures his success. Then will dress you up in a very fine suit, the like of which you have never seen on anybody for less than $20 or $25.

Why Not Dress Well? When--

And these clothes will have fit and fitness, as well as fabric and finish. They will have all the artistic touches and back of it all, they will have the guarantee of our good name.

chance to express themselves.

"Mr. Taft's strength, as indicated by the two roll calls already taken, consisted chiefly (aside from his ninety stolen delegates) of nearly the solid delegations from the territories and from the southern states. In which there is no real republican party—South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi and of northern states like New York where the people had no chance to express themselves at the primaries, and where the delegates were picked by the bosses.

"In spite of these odds against me, I obtained a clear majority of all the delegates elected to the convention. In my campaign, I again and again stated that if the people decided against me, I would have nothing to say, but if they decided for me and the politicians, then robbed me of the victory, I would not silently and tamely acquiesce. It was evident that my opponents, with Mr. Taft's encouragement, intended to beat me by foul means if they can not do so by fair means.

"The crucial but not the only step in the concerted and hitherto successful effort to cheat the people out of the victory they had fairly won, was taken up by the now defunct national committee, without one show of justification and with cynical contempt for the most ordinary rules of decency in making up the temporary roll call, unseated ninety fairly elected Roosevelt delegates and substituted for them ninety Taft delegates, who, in the convention, represent nothing whatever but successful fraud. I was clearly entitled to all the 90 delegates; all the 90 possessed, for instance, clearer titles than the uncontested Taft delegates from New York City and as to 70 of them, their titles were as flawless as that of any other delegate in the convention.

"Mr. Root was elected and Governor Deneen's motion for partially cleansing the roll of fraud was defeated by the vote of these straight-out fraudulent delegates, the last vote being a vote on a straight-out moral issue, the result of which, in my judgment, ought to render it impossible for any man longer to take part in the proceedings of the convention as now constituted. The majority in each case was slightly over 50.

"In each case therefore, if it had not been for the rascality which placed these fraudulent delegates on the roll and permitted them to vote, the cause of decency would have won; Mr. McGovern would have been elected in place of Mr. Root; Governor Deneen's motion would have prevailed and the republican national convention would now have been exercising in good faith, the high, honorable and important function of honestly representing the wishes, the judgment and the interests of the plain people who make up the mass of the republican party. Instead, it now represents nothing but successful political fraud perpetrated in the interest of political and financial privilege.

"I understand that Mr. Root has announced that not one of the stolen delegates will be allowed to vote on his own case, but that all will be allowed to vote on one another's cases.

"Such a ruling is a sheer denial of justice and fair play. This case bears no analogy to ordinary cases, where contesting delegates have no connection with one another and where there is no general conspiracy which must be considered as a whole.

"All these 90 fraudulent delegates were seated at the same time by the votes of the national committee to serve the same purpose. The credentials committee, appointed to try their cases, includes three of their own number, from the states of Arizona, Texas and Washington, of which these delegations were stolen en masse. This committee selected as its chairman the Guggenheim delegate from Colorado, Devine, who had already, as national committeeman, assisted in initiating the very frauds upon which he is now to sit in judgment. Nothing that this committee may do is entitled to consideration and in considering what they do it will be well to keep in mind the remark made in private by one of the committeemen, who, when asked why they had stolen so many more delegates than were needed for their purpose, answered that it would enable the credentials committee to make a show of generosity in unseating some, while retaining a number amply sufficient to accomplish the ends sought.

"Moreover, it is well to remember that the fraud is equally great and equally responsible, whether the fraudulent delegates actually vote on the nomination for president or whether they are merely used to create a situation, which renders it unnecessary for them to vote on the nomination for president. If the roll is not purged en masse of these fraudulently elected delegates the whole action of the convention is tainted.

"The committee on rules has just, against the protest of the progressive members, provided for the perpetuation of the national committee in the form responsible for the scandalous outrages which have at this moment brought the republican party to the breaking point; and they have refused to recognize the principle of another presidential primary and have made the national committee supreme over the people in the matter of primaries.

"Unfortunately, in our political life, the unscrupulous man who commits wrongs such as these, can usually count on having some respectable men support him and other respectable men oppose him.

"In this case, the unscrupulous men, who also are the leaders, have already received support from the former class of respectable men; and they count on seeing representatives of the latter class, who have hitherto voted against them, fear to take the decisive step of severing connection with the fraudulent convention itself.

"Such are the facts about the national convention as now constituted. I decline any longer to be bound by any action it may take. I decline to regard as blinding any nomination it may make. I do not regard successful fraud and deliberate political theft as constituting a title to party regularity, or a claim to the support of any party.

"I hope that the honestly elected majority will at once insist upon the immediate purging of the roll in its entirety and not piecemeal by the convention. If this purging is not accomplished, I hope the honestly elected delegates will decline all further connection with the convention whose action is now determined and has hitherto been determined by a majority which is made a majority only by the action of fraudulent delegates whom the convention has refused to strike from the rolls.

"If the leaders of the honestly elected majority disagree with me in this matter and wish for any cause to defer for the moment this action, then I most earnestly hope that at least they will insist upon voting on the cases of these fraudulent delegates, en bloc, and not separately. We cannot afford to pardon a thief on condition that he surrenders half the stolen goods.

"If the honestly elected majority of the convention choose to proceed with the business and to nominate me as the candidate of the party, I shall accept. If some fear to take such a stand and the remainder choose to inaugurate a movement to nominate me for the presidency as a progressive on a progressive platform and if, in such event, the general feeling among progressives favors my being nominated, I shall accept. In either case I shall make my appeal to every honest citizen in the nation; and I shall fight the campaign through even though I do not get a single electoral vote.

"I do not wish a single man to support me from any personal feeling for me. I have nothing to offer any man; any man who supports me will do so without hope of gain, and at the risk of personal loss and discomfort. But if, having this in view, those fervent in their great fight for the rule of the people and for social and industrial justice, which has now become a clear-cut fight for honesty against dishonesty, fraud and theft, desire me to lead the fight I will do so. There is no cause better worth fighting for.

"I shall make my appeal to all honest men, east and west, north and south, and gladly take the result, whatever that result may be.

(Signed.)

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."
