VICE-PRESIDENT SHERMAN IS NEAR TO DEATH.

UTICA, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Although a slight improvement was announced this morning in the case of James Schoolcraft Sherman, vice-president of the United States, who is critically ill at his home here, suffering from Bright's disease, no forecast as to the outcome of his illness could be obtained from Dr. F. H. Peck, Sherman's personal physician. The bulletin today indicated that although there was some change for the better, the death of the vice-president at any time would not be surprising.
